TOOTH BRUSHING MONKEYS FOUND

15 inches high and looking when full grown precisely like the toy.

Even smaller is the vespertine deer, which measured seven inches from hoof to horn.

There is a plant so sensitive that it flattens itself against the ground when one stamp near it, but yet so strong that it resists the fiercest typhoons.

There is the hygienic monkey, so careful of his health that after every meal and before going to bed at night, he repairs to the nearest stream and washes his face with the aid of the first finger of the right hand.

There is a bird which sleeps upside down.

"But then," Mr. Wells concluded, "everything is upside down in the Malay jungles."

Rush in Payments Of Taxes Heavier

Time for payment of taxes for the first half of the year will end tomorrow afternoon when the tax collector's office at the courthouse closes, according to announcement today. Premier Herriot Loses Support

PARIS, April 3.—(By the Associated Press)—A break in the coalition supporting Premier Herriot occurred this afternoon, 41 deputies comprising the "radical left" led by Louis Louchet, deciding to withdraw their support.

The withdrawal, which if persisted in, will cut the government's chamber vote down to 306, out of a total of 584, is understood to be because of the cabinet's reported tendency toward a capital levy.

foremen, to keep posted in regard to all sides of a fire in bark work instead of headwork. Construction of a trail in front of a fire without burning clean from the extreme edge of the trail pins faith to a foot of dirt where experienced men would not trust to a county road. Construction of a fire line in advance of a fire with no attempt to backfire is a costly monument to misjudgment or inefficiency. Escape of the fire after the patrol is abandonment may class a man as one who didn't know it was loaded. Failure to throw dangerous timber the construction of a line in advance of the fire without leaving out the moss before its just of the day would be cheaper and just as effective if you'd blaze a line of trees and cross your fingers.

Object is Shown

"Every fire fighter realizes the impossibility of laying down a complete set of rules covering every case, and knows that the most experienced men seldom get to a fire without running into a new combination of conditions which must be met. The main object of this conference, therefore, is to assist the man on the ground to size up the situation and select for himself the methods best suited to combat whatever combination of conditions he may encounter. To this end considerable time has been devoted to a discussion of the basic principles governing the action of forest fires and to an analysis of the different methods of control."

Other accidents reported were as follows:

S. A. Ramsdell of Looking Glass and J. E. Curtis of Battle court, accident at Eighth and Charleton. Mr. Ramsdell claims he had the right-of-way.
