

DAMAGES SOUGHT IN BOZELL SUIT

Brother Tells Story

Bozell's visits to Miss Bollman in the Bean home were revealed to Mrs. Bozell by her 13-year-old brother, who spilled upon the pair one evening, Smith told the jury in his opening statement. The boy, he said, saw Bozell enter the Bean home when all Bozell's family was away except a maid. The boy saw lights glow in one of the family rooms for a few moments and then go out. Next he saw the lights go out for a time and then flash on again. Soon afterward the boy's story runs, Miss Bollman came out of the house, got into her automobile and drove away.

Shortly afterward she returned, but seeing the boy loitering outside the house drove around the block. When she returned again and started to put her car in the garage the boy crossed the street, it is alleged, and asked her where Bozell was.

Denies His Presence

When Miss Bollman denied that he was in the house the boy is said to have replied: "You tell him to come home as soon as he can get there."

Shortly afterward, the attorney said, Bozell returned home in "an excited state" and was told by Mrs. Bozell that she knew where he had been and what he was doing and that he could leave home and need not return.

With the amount of the damages to be fixed by the jury the case will go forward the same as though the defendant were represented in court. The taking of testimony is expected to consume most of the day.

TELEPHONE RATE INCREASE ASKED

SALEM, Ore., April 3.—The Home Telephone and Telegraph company of southern Oregon, with offices at Medford, yesterday, applied to the public service commission for authority to increase its service rates approximately 25 per cent. The company claims that the return on its investment last year was less than one per cent.

"The value of the property," says the application, "as shown by the books of the company of December 31, 1924, was $514,705, against which there was outstanding first mortgage loans in the amount of $200,000, which bonds bear interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum. There was also outstanding six per cent notes in the amount of $10,775 and $200 shares of common stock valued at $20,000."

"During the year 1924 a physical inventory was taken of this property and an appraisal has now been completed. This shows the value of the property as of January 1, 1924 at $412,500.50 and the additions and betterments to January 1, 1925, give a value of $415,790.90.

"The rate of return on the appraised value, as indicated above, for the year 1924 was 1965 per cent and had the proposed schedule of rates been in effect for the same period, the rate of return would have been 4.725 per cent, or less than 5 per cent interest on the investment."

PROGRAM IS READY FOR PATRIOT'S DAY

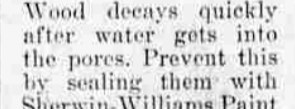

"By the rude bridge that arched the flood
Their flag to April's breeze unfurled,
Here once the embattled farmers stood,
And fired the shot heard round the world."
"Patriot's Day," Sunday, April 19, will be observed in the schools of Lane county and suggested programs for the event have been received at the office of E. J. Moore, county superintendent of schools, from J. A. Churchill, state superintendent of public instruction.

The day will mark the 150th anniversary of the battle of Lexington and Concord, 1775-1925. The communication received from Mr. Churchill contains the proclamation of Governor Walter M. Pierce designating April 19 as a period of patriotic observance in the state. The churches have been requested to hold patriotic services on that day.

Styles 100 Years Ago Cause Laughter

BERLIN, April 3.—Men's hats of olden days afforded the Berlin public much amusement during the recent exhibit of clothing, held to contrast the styles of the last 100 years with the styles of today.

High hats, much taller than those worn today, and as shaggy as a Newfoundland dog, appeared in the windows of many haberdashers. Curious straw hats loaned by museums also produced broad smiles among the throngs which gathered about show-windows. Many of these were shaped like old-fashioned silk hats, and were made of bunnies and oriental grasses.

Which? PAINT PROTECTS BUILDINGS

Wood decays quickly after water gets into the pores. Prevent this by sealing them with Sherwin-Williams Paint. This paint forms a tough elastic film that will protect your buildings for years. It also adds materially to their appearance.

Sailor Returns After 36 Years

MANILA, April 3.—(AP)—Captain John Bradshaw of the steamship Belgenland, which is carrying some 500 excursionists around the world, recalled his previous visit to the Philippines 36 years ago, when he tied up his big ship here recently to what he said was one of the finest piers in the world.

"Thirty-six years ago," said Captain Bradshaw, "I put into Manila with a shipload of sick men, and we buried them all but three. All but three, and one of the three was myself. Fever

—to regain Strength

EVERY man, woman and child wants to have strength and correct weight. It means the joy of living. To be minus strength and underweight often proves low fighting-power in the body. It often means you are minus nerve-power, minus red cells in your blood, minus health, minus vitality. It is serious to be minus, but the moment you increase the number of your red-blood-cells, you begin to become plus. That's why S.S.S., since 1826, has meant to thousands of underweight men and women a plus in their strength. Your body fills to the point of power, your flesh becomes firmer, the age lines that come from thinness disappear. You look younger, firmer, happier, and you feel it, too, all over your body.

More red-blood-cells! S.S.S. aids Nature in building them by the million! There are no unproven theories about S.S.S., the scientific results of each of its purely vegetable medicinal ingredients are admitted by authorities. Begin taking S.S.S. today. It will give you more energy, vitality and vigor and a more up and going appearance.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

How to Talk

By PARQUSON JOHNSON
Consulting Editor New Universities Dictionary

Somebody has asked me about punctuation. I am not sure that this subject should be discussed in "How to Talk"—and yet that title might better have been "How to Speak and Write Correctly," and perhaps it would have been if there were time and space to continue this series; but it must end soon.

"So many of my friends," my correspondent writes, "fail to use punctuation marks that it makes their letters difficult to read. . . . Do you believe in dashes?"

Answering the query first, I do believe in dashes—and use them. To me they are quite real, as well as useful—when properly employed. But to read a hand written letter where only dashes are used for punctuating, is somewhat distracting, to say the least.

The dash denotes a slightly longer pause than a comma—when used in its place. Then it may properly be employed at the end of a sentence like this one, to indicate an afterthought—something added to strengthen the sense. Use it also in place of parentheses—except in technical writing.

Now about punctuating social correspondence. Business correspondence, through the use of the typewriter, is always punctuated—or mispunctuated at times, I may say adversely. Writers should be as careful of punctuation as they are of grammar. Proper punctuation often saves words—and certainly it renders the composition more intelligible.

The novice will readily learn the use of the three principal marks as follows: The period denotes a pause—a full stop. It occurs at the end of the sentence—when you come to a full stop. The semicolon is a half stop; a shorter pause. The comma is a quarter stop—a quarter of a period. Music students should compare these three punctuation marks with notes—whole, half, and quarter notes.

With these three marks, and by following these few remarks, anybody should be enabled to punctuate. Of course, there are in addition to these the colon, used to indicate that something follows; the question mark, for use when a question is asked; and the exclamation point, called a "screacher" by printers, for reasons readily recognized.

For further particulars regarding punctuation, consult the dictionary—the new one—the one that often is called "The Dictionary of Dictionaries," because it contains more than the vocabulary—including a treatise on the subject of punctuation.
