

Go to Church on Easter

The Resurrection

Matthew 28

IN THE end of the Sabbath, as it began toward the first day of the week, came Mary Magdalene and the other Mary to see the sepulchre.

And, behold, there was a great earthquake: for the angel of the Lord descended from heaven, and came and rolled the stone from the door, and sat upon it.

His countenance was like lightning, and his raiment was white as snow.

And for fear of him the keepers did shake, and became as dead men.

And the angel answered and said unto the women, Fear not ye; for I know that ye seek Jesus, which was crucified.

He is not here: for he is risen, as he said. Come, see the place where the Lord lay.

And go quickly and tell his disciples that he is risen from the dead: and, behold, he goeth before you into Galilee: there shall ye see him: lo, I have told you.

First Christian

Oak and Eleventh streets, E. V. Stivers, pastor. Of all the days in the year there is none so great as Easter. Sunday we have a day filled with good things.

The sunrise prayer meeting will be held at 6:30 o'clock. If the weather is favorable it will be held on Skinner's Butte. If not in the church auditorium. Then the Sunday school at 9:45. This will be our greatest Easter Sunday. Certainly not a single member of the church or school will be absent, unless prevented from attending because of sickness or impossible hindrance. We have not an aim of 1500 and we should go far beyond that number. The "Avalon Male Quartet" from Eugene Bible University will sing two numbers at the close of the class sessions. We trust you will be present, regardless of the weather, or hindrance that can be avoided. The morning sermon subject is "The Resurrection as a great fact" and the choir brings the message "O How Lovely is Zion." The evening service is a special interlude in as much as the Knights Templars are to be in uniform. We extend an invitation, not only to the Sir Knights of the local organization, but to all members in this vicinity, to be present. Special places will be reserved for the members. We are expecting not only the members of this branch of Masonry but are glad to invite all Masons who care to attend. The service is "The Resurrection and Future Life." Again the choir brings the Easter number, "O how lovely is Zion." We urge the people of Eugene to attend Christian services somewhere on Sunday. Go to the church of your choice, but by all means go to church. Our hearty invitation is extended. We expect a wonderful victorious day.

Church of God
Mamie Biscoe, pastor, Bible school at 10 a. m. E. A. Fegles, superintendent, A. C. Head, assistant. Classes for all ages. Preaching service 11 a. m. Seaton, general superintendent, with an efficient corps of efficient officers and capable teachers in charge. You are urged to find a place in this great working force of the church, and receive the inspiration and blessing it gives for our daily problems and duties. Regular morning worship with joyful Easter music at 11 o'clock. "The Resurrection Message" being the pastor's theme. New members will also be received at this service. Special choir numbers are anthem "Hallelujah Chorus" (Messiah), Handel; Duet "Joy Watchmen What of the Night" (Reverend), All Saints; "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth" (Messiah), Handel; Mrs. Pearson. At 7 a. m. the Christian Endeavor will hold its annual communion service and install its new officers, in the prayer meeting room. At the same hour, in the main auditorium, will be held a sunrise prayer meeting for the entire church membership. Visitors at 4 p. m. with our large choir presenting the Easter cantata, "Christ the Victor" (Doddley Buck). No evening services. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock, with the pastor leading. Lesson text Mark 1:35-45. You are urged to join us in this quiet hour of prayer and praise. A cordial invitation is extended for all the services of our church.

CHURCH'S HOPE LIES IN SERVICE

Crisis is Pending in Protestantism, Declares Dr. John Haynes Holmes; Common Work is Recommended

Rev. Dr. John Haynes Holmes

By GEORGE BRITT
(NEA Service Writer)
NEW YORK, April 11.—A common work rather than a common belief is the basic interest in the Community Church in New York which its minister, the Rev. John Haynes Holmes, believes is a type of the religious organization of the future. "We have no limitations of belief or of class," says Dr. Holmes. "Our constituency includes Catholics, Protestants, atheists, rich, poor, white and black. One-third of our members are Jews. In a sectarian sense we are not a Christian church, although of course our background is that of Christian tradition." Even the most firmly rooted of Fundamentalists may find interest in this harmonious group of heterogeneous elements and in the man who is their leader. Keen brown eyes are the dominating feature of his lengthened face, a face of quick perception and bold action. Although he is considered by many churchmen to be a dangerous radical, he yet retains the clerical manner, brotherly, sympathetic, dignified and, withal, magnetic. "The reason I am in the church is that I believe in religion, and that the church at present is facing the most critical period in centuries of its history," Dr. Holmes says. "I believe the Protestant church as we know it is to be changed just as decisively as the Medieval church was changed by the Lutheran Reformation. Religions as we know them are for the most part based upon theological ideas. These are almost as numerous as the people

UGLY HOMES OF CHURCHES DECRIED

PHILADELPHIA, April 11.—(AP)—Bishop Joseph F. Berry of the Methodist Episcopal church, in a criticism published in an ecclesiastical paper, fairly castigates church buildings for the sin of ugliness. "Grotesque," "unsightly," "atrocious" and "misfits" are a few of Bishop Berry's descriptive phrases, which he heaps on present day church architecture. He defends his accusation on the ground of many years' careful observation of ecclesiastical building and his dedication to the possibilities of spiritual work which should be done within its sacred walls, that to make a failure out of a church building is an act that comes very near to being a crime. Because a building is of low cost is no reason why it should be ugly. The blunders made by building finned to any section, but extends from Maine to California, although being worst in the middle and far west, because those territories are newer and less conservative.

"Everything has been sacrificed to obtain the maximum seating capacity at the minimum cost. The architectural misfits are by no means confined to the west and south, we have them in the east. Now to my simple mind the ideal school of church architecture is the Gothic. Its lines are always simple, chaste and satisfying. The suggestion is one of worship."

The senior bishop stresses this point. It is the purpose of a church, he says, to express religious impulses outside as well as afford a place for their expression inside. "The character of a church building is so closely related to the possibilities of spiritual work which should be done within its sacred walls, that to make a failure out of a church building is an act that comes very near to being a crime. Because a building is of low cost is no reason why it should be ugly. The blunders made by building committees within my knowledge make me almost shudder."

Bishop Berry especially urges the employment of the best architect in drawing the plans. "Good plans may seem expensive," he says, "but poor plans are more so."

Soft Italian Skies Draw Thousands of Pilgrims to Rome
ROME, April 11.—(AP)—The influx into Rome of thousands of Holy Year pilgrims and tourists, drawn here from the usual early spring resorts by reports of the unusually fine weather, is rapidly restoring to the city its pre-war position as one of the most interesting of European capitals.

Again the Seven Hills look down not only upon the Eternal City, the traditional home of the Papacy and the custodian of the empire's relics, but also upon a flourishing modern city which keeps its rank among the first metropolises of the world with a surprising economy of effort.

For example, Rome's best shopping thoroughfare, the Via Condotti, would be lost in Fifth Avenue. In fact, it would stretch hardly more than two blocks of that fine avenue. It could be tucked away in a back street or in the area between Regent and Oxford streets of London, and it could never be found in the labyrinth of shopping streets of Paris. And yet Roman men and women of the better classes are as modestly and as smartly dressed as any the world over.

Rome's greatest avenue, the Corso Umberto, is never wider than a ramping alley, and scores of the city's streets are heritages of the middle ages with no sidewalks and hardly room for two carriages to pass each other. And yet Rome has some of the finest and most luxurious motor cars in the world and its wealthier residents are among the best customers of Italy's great motor car factories.

WATER ASSURED TO LONDON
LONDON, April 11.—(AP)—Even at a cost of $10,000,000, the metropolitan water board's new storage reservoir at Littleton, Middlesex, will hold 8,500,000,000 gallons, will be complete in a few weeks. This will insure London against all likely droughts.
