In the Old Days

The merchant took months, sometimes years, to establish himself and put his business on a "paying basis."

He sold his goods so "dog-goned" high that advertising wouldn't bring him anything, and he expected to pull the business through "personality."

After he had been in business long enough to "get acquainted" he managed with "soft soap" to get a few regulars, and "ever after made a living."

DIFFERENT TODAY THE STANLEY WAY

Bombard 'em—slap bang—get there—do it in a day—Prices, Quality of course, Honest Advertising—And Tuesday morning the Stanley Sign over an established business.

the name that Guarantees real-wholesome-delicious Chili-con-Carne

There is no mystery about Gebhardt's Chili con Carne. Fine, juicy beef, Government inspected and Gebhardt selected. Fat, mealy beans—genuine Mexican—hand-picked. Rich, red gravy with the flavor of the meat and beans.

Gebhardt's famous Eagle Chili Powder as the basic seasoning with other imported and domestic spices of choicest selection.

Made in kitchens that cannot be surpassed in America for cleanliness and appointment. White tiled floors and walls. Streaming sunshine through myriad windows. Glistening copper and aluminum vessels. Everything clean, clean, clean.

Insist on Gebhardt's and know that you have quality, plus.
