BIG MUNN LOSES TITLE MATCH TO VETERAN ZBYSZKO

PHILADELPHIA, April 16.—Stanislaus Zbyszko, 53-year-old veteran, again rules the world as champion of wrestlers. He regained the title he lost several years ago by conquering Big Wayne "Big" Munn here last night in two straight falls and in less than 14 minutes of actual wrestling. A cleverly executed forearm hold earned the first fall for the veteran who secured the second fall with a forearm and hammerlock.

Zbyszko exhibited the same mat prowess against his more youthful opponent that brought him the championship years ago and clearly demonstrated that Munn's great strength was no match for the science of the master grappler. Reaching only to the shoulders of the giant westerner and weighing about fifty pounds less, Zbyszko wriggled away every time Munn tried to obtain his favorite crotch hold and easily broke away when he attempted a jiu jitsu.

Then, watchings his opportunity Zbyszko gained a body hold, lifted his opponent high into the air and hurled him to the floor, pinning his shoulders to the mat a few seconds later. After the intermission he repeated the performance and soon had Munn on his back in the drip that proved to him the heavyweight clown.

After the bout club physicians who examined Munn said that he was suffering from acute tonsilitis and that he had fainted during the intermission between the first and second falls. The doctors said he had no fever when they examined him before the match.

Billy Evans Says—

By BILLY EVANS

EVERY now and then major league baseball offers a perplexing problem that is wellnigh impossible.

The case of "Dutch" Henry, southpaw, is a glaring example. Henry, for several years the property of the Brooklyn club of the National league, was recently traded to Indianapolis for the veteran, Jess Petty.

In the minors, Henry has always been a sensational performer. For some reason he has never been a consistent winner in the big show.

Henry was originally dug up by Lee Fohl, then in charge of the St. Louis Browns, but was allowed to drift elsewhere.

During the past two years he has been sent to the Southern association by Brooklyn on option. Getting a chance to work regularly he was the big noise in the south each year.

• • •

As I recall it, one season he won something like 20 and lost only four games, while last year the figures resembled 10 wins and only two defeats.

• • •

Thus in 36 games in the south Henry has pitched better than .800 ball. Had he not been the property of the Brooklyn club, major league scouts would have been fighting for his services with fat checks as their weapons.

Despite such a phenomenal showing, Brooklyn before the opening of the season shunts to the minors a most promising youngster for a fading veteran.

The fact that Brooklyn needs pitching to be up there, plus the belief of Manager Robinson that Petty's long experience best fits him to jump in as a regular no doubt actuated the shift.

While looking the Brooklyn club over at Clearwater, Fla., I had a long chat with Henry. He didn't appear quite satisfied with his berth. Perhaps that had something to do with the trade.

Henry told me that it was the management's belief that his fast ball wasn't good enough to get by in the majors, but he does not think that way about it.

He believes that regular work rather than pitching to batters in practice is the thing he needs most to prove his worth as a big leaguer.

• • •

If Henry goes as well in the American association as he did in the south Indianapolis is going to get big money for the young man this fall.

Two Brother Teams In American League

(By NEA Service)

ST. LOUIS, April 16.—The American League is to have two new brother teams this year.

The Carlyle boys are with Detroit and Washington. The younger of the two, with the Tigers, is the better looking prospect.

The Falk brothers will vie with the Carlyles for the brother honors. Bib, star outfielder of the Chicago White Sox, will have as a rival his brother, "Spot" with the St. Louis Browns.

It is a coincidence that both Falk boys made possible their big league berth through pitching prowess. Bib was taken direct from a Texas college by Chicago. "Spot" comes to the Browns by the same route, both as pitchers.

Remarkable ability in the field and at the bat, particularly the latter, caused Chicago to make Bib into an outfielder in order to have him in the game every day.

"Spot," like Bib, can hit and field. Manager Sisler is first finding out just what he can do as a pitcher. Later he will be given every chance to show at first and in the outfield.

"Spot" likes to pitch and will be given an opportunity to make good in that position if able. If he fails he will get a second chance to make the grade at some other position.

The fact that "Spot" didn't go to Chicago, his brother's team, has been much commented upon, since Eib acted as his advance agent.

The reason is that St. Louis offered the best inducements to the younger Falk. Bib offered him to all the American League clubs and the Browns bid highest.
