

OREGON MAN TO TAKE NEW POST

Hollis Dickerson, instructor of education in the University of Oregon, has accepted a position in the department of history in the Ethical Culture school, New York, and will undertake his new duties in the fall. The Ethical Culture school has a special program of moral education. It is promoted by a group of wealthy eastern residents.

No little amount of prestige goes with an appointment to the faculty of this school as qualified candidates for positions are considered from all parts of the United States before final selections are made. Dr. David Caville Murray, professor of history at Columbia university and author of the "United States of America," was for seven years head of the history department of the Ethical Culture school.

Mr. Dickerson was graduated from the University of Oregon with the bachelor's degree in 1923 and will receive his master of arts degree in June. He has taught history and social sciences in the University high school on the campus for the past five years.

Harold Raymond Benjamin, a graduate of the 1929 class of the University of Oregon and principal of the University high school for the past three years, has just been awarded the $1,000 Cumberly fellowship at Lehigh Stanford university and will undertake work there next fall for his degree of doctor of philosophy. As a teaching fellow he will have charge of the practice teaching, and have supervision of the work in observation of teaching in the Stanford school of education. Mr. Benjamin received his master of arts degree from Oregon last year.

BUSINESS DISTRICT TO BE REASSESSED

Readjustment of property assessments in the Eugene business district, particularly where there has been considerable building during the past year, will soon be under way, according to announcement of Ben. F. Keeney, county assessor. The assessment for the various county districts is now nearing completion and then the Eugene district will be checked up and completed, the assessor states. One piece of property on the southwest corner of Ninth avenue east and Pearl street, which is owned by the city will go on the tax rolls and it is probable that back taxes for five years will also be required, the assessor states. This property which was purchased a number of years ago for a site of a proposed new city hall has never been used for municipal purposes and the ground is now drawing rent of $980 a year from the Eugene Service station. The buildings are on the tax rolls but the ground has been exempt, the assessor said.

Oregon Instructor To Publish Book

Word was received here this week that the Oxford University Press has accepted for publication, "The Mind of Keats," the work of Dr. C. D. Thorpe, associate professor of English in the University of Oregon. The manuscript on Keats was Professor Thorpe's thesis, written in partial fulfillment for the degree of doctor of philosophy in literature, which the Oregon man obtained this spring at the University of Michigan.

The organization plans on opening a Eugene store but so far no suitable location has been obtained, is the announcement. A musical program for the luncheon will also be arranged.

Lawn Contests to Be Held This Year

First award in the annual lawn contest to be conducted by the women's auxiliary of the chamber of commerce will be $5 this year, it is announced. Second prize will be $3, and there will be four other $1 prizes.

Only persons who care for their own lawns may compete, it is stated. Lawns under care of professional gardeners are ineligible. Points offered include 50 points for the condition of the lawn and 50 for shrubs. As a consequence, there will be two sets of judges, one for the July contest and one for August.

New County Road Is Asked of Court

Establishment of a new county road to connect the Coburg road with the road that leads south from the school house is being urged by a number of residents of that district and the matter was taken up with P. M. Morse, county engineer, today. The proposed road which will follow property lines and not cut through any farms is about one mile in length and will be of much convenience to farmers who at present have to make a trip of about three miles to reach the Coburg road from their homes north of the McKenzie.

Blaze Starts in Booth-Kelly Mill

SPRINGFIELD, April 23.—(Special).—A small fire broke out in the Booth-Kelly sawmill yesterday afternoon, when the fuses blew out in the transformer room, igniting the container which they were in. The main switch was quickly pulled, shutting the entire mill down for a period of about 15 minutes, and the blaze was quickly extinguished with chemical extinguishers. No damage was done.

Revival Service Is Opened Here

It is learned that another exponent of what is termed the full gospel, has been engaged by the Bible Standard church to hold a series of meetings in Eugene and the first of the series was held last evening at the mission located at the corner of Seventh and Pearl streets.

Rev. Hornshub, the local pastor, had given out that Evangelist Stuenkel, of Sacramento, who is connected with an independent church at that place, has been engaged and that his work was better known throughout the east where he had been engaged quite largely along evangelistic lines than it was on the coast and it was hoped, he said, that those who look with favor upon the "full gospel" would rally to the support of the services.

Tonight's sermon topic will be "Why We Believe in the Bible is the Word of God," according to announcement.
