

OREGON' JONES BACK AT PRISON; TELLS HIS STORY

ALBANY, Ore., April 24.—"Oregon" Jones, who with five other prisoners was released from the Oregon state penitentiary March 25, 1924, and who was again caught at Sacramento, Cal., and returned to the Oregon prison last night by Deputy Warden Lillie, has written an Oregon boot on one of his chain hobbles on both and was returned to his keeper.

Jones was the only one of the six who went over the wall here over the age who remained at large for any length of time. While away from prison he claims to have traveled through states, even as far away as California and Cuba. In Cleveland, Ohio, he claims to have married a woman in August 7, 1924. He worked as a truck driver in Portland.

Returning to the coast Jones was with another ex-convict, Edward, who stole an automobile in California and drove as far north as Roseburg on April 2, this year.

After returning to Sacramento, Jones attempted to sell some of the automobiles for the state, when he was arrested. Jones received a 100-day sentence in the city jail and served about two weeks when he was released.

Jones was sentenced to the Oregon prison with his brother, Dewey, for robbery committed in Jackson county.

Talk of Escape. Jones related at the prison today that he made his escape from the prison near Jefferson on the night of the bank robbery with whom he was traveling, was caught.

Several shots were fired at us, Jones, and we ran. Murray was caught in a wire fence when he tried to get through it. It was probably the night of the bank robbery.

All night I hid in the brush. About 7 o'clock the next morning I started across the Santiam river on a raft made of two railroad ties and all gates that I found. About half past the raft broke in two and I had to swim the rest of the way. My clothes I went on to Albany and there all day and that night I stole an automobile and drove south and three miles out of Albany I saw a red lantern signaling me.

I thought it was the posse, so I hid in the car. This supposition was proved for the last I saw of the posse was shooting at it.

Came Through Eugene. He retraced toward Albany, and far out of Albany caught a freight train which I rode to Eugene. Out of Eugene I at once caught another train which took me to Merrill.

He decided that letters received by Maloney of Portland, purporting to come from him were written by him. He said it was true that he had a letter from Buffalo, N. Y., which I at once caught another train which took me to Merrill.

He decided that letters received by Maloney of Portland, purporting to come from him were written by him. He said it was true that he had a letter from Buffalo, N. Y., which I at once caught another train which took me to Merrill.

He decided that letters received by Maloney of Portland, purporting to come from him were written by him. He said it was true that he had a letter from Buffalo, N. Y., which I at once caught another train which took me to Merrill.

He decided that letters received by Maloney of Portland, purporting to come from him were written by him. He said it was true that he had a letter from Buffalo, N. Y., which I at once caught another train which took me to Merrill.

He decided that letters received by Maloney of Portland, purporting to come from him were written by him. He said it was true that he had a letter from Buffalo, N. Y., which I at once caught another train which took me to Merrill.

He decided that letters received by Maloney of Portland, purporting to come from him were written by him. He said it was true that he had a letter from Buffalo, N. Y., which I at once caught another train which took me to Merrill.

He decided that letters received by Maloney of Portland, purporting to come from him were written by him. He said it was true that he had a letter from Buffalo, N. Y., which I at once caught another train which took me to Merrill.

He decided that letters received by Maloney of Portland, purporting to come from him were written by him. He said it was true that he had a letter from Buffalo, N. Y., which I at once caught another train which took me to Merrill.

He decided that letters received by Maloney of Portland, purporting to come from him were written by him. He said it was true that he had a letter from Buffalo, N. Y., which I at once caught another train which took me to Merrill.

He decided that letters received by Maloney of Portland, purporting to come from him were written by him. He said it was true that he had a letter from Buffalo, N. Y., which I at once caught another train which took me to Merrill.

He decided that letters received by Maloney of Portland, purporting to come from him were written by him. He said it was true that he had a letter from Buffalo, N. Y., which I at once caught another train which took me to Merrill.

He decided that letters received by Maloney of Portland, purporting to come from him were written by him. He said it was true that he had a letter from Buffalo, N. Y., which I at once caught another train which took me to Merrill.

He decided that letters received by Maloney of Portland, purporting to come from him were written by him. He said it was true that he had a letter from Buffalo, N. Y., which I at once caught another train which took me to Merrill.

He decided that letters received by Maloney of Portland, purporting to come from him were written by him. He said it was true that he had a letter from Buffalo, N. Y., which I at once caught another train which took me to Merrill.

He decided that letters received by Maloney of Portland, purporting to come from him were written by him. He said it was true that he had a letter from Buffalo, N. Y., which I at once caught another train which took me to Merrill.

He decided that letters received by Maloney of Portland, purporting to come from him were written by him. He said it was true that he had a letter from Buffalo, N. Y., which I at once caught another train which took me to Merrill.

He decided that letters received by Maloney of Portland, purporting to come from him were written by him. He said it was true that he had a letter from Buffalo, N. Y., which I at once caught another train which took me to Merrill.

He decided that letters received by Maloney of Portland, purporting to come from him were written by him. He said it was true that he had a letter from Buffalo, N. Y., which I at once caught another train which took me to Merrill.

He decided that letters received by Maloney of Portland, purporting to come from him were written by him. He said it was true that he had a letter from Buffalo, N. Y., which I at once caught another train which took me to Merrill.

He decided that letters received by Maloney of Portland, purporting to come from him were written by him. He said it was true that he had a letter from Buffalo, N. Y., which I at once caught another train which took me to Merrill.

He decided that letters received by Maloney of Portland, purporting to come from him were written by him. He said it was true that he had a letter from Buffalo, N. Y., which I at once caught another train which took me to Merrill.

He decided that letters received by Maloney of Portland, purporting to come from him were written by him. He said it was true that he had a letter from Buffalo, N. Y., which I at once caught another train which took me to Merrill.

He decided that letters received by Maloney of Portland, purporting to come from him were written by him. He said it was true that he had a letter from Buffalo, N. Y., which I at once caught another train which took me to Merrill.

He decided that letters received by Maloney of Portland, purporting to come from him were written by him. He said it was true that he had a letter from Buffalo, N. Y., which I at once caught another train which took me to Merrill.

He decided that letters received by Maloney of Portland, purporting to come from him were written by him. He said it was true that he had a letter from Buffalo, N. Y., which I at once caught another train which took me to Merrill.

He decided that letters received by Maloney of Portland, purporting to come from him were written by him. He said it was true that he had a letter from Buffalo, N. Y., which I at once caught another train which took me to Merrill.

He decided that letters received by Maloney of Portland, purporting to come from him were written by him. He said it was true that he had a letter from Buffalo, N. Y., which I at once caught another train which took me to Merrill.

He decided that letters received by Maloney of Portland, purporting to come from him were written by him. He said it was true that he had a letter from Buffalo, N. Y., which I at once caught another train which took me to Merrill.

Stars in Chorus

John Siefert

CECILIAN CHORAL CLUB PLEASES

A large audience received very favorably the concert presented by the Cecilian Choral club of 60 voices in the Music auditorium at the University of Oregon last evening at 8 o'clock.

The music was presented under the direction of Hugh Winder, choir director and soloist of St. Mary's Catholic church. The same program will be broadcast tomorrow evening from Oregonian radio station KGW to an audience of 300,000 people. The song cycle, "In a Persian Garden," will be sung at 7 o'clock by Joanna James Ellis, Evelyn Bristow, John Siefert and Hugh Winder, assisted on the piano by Charles Runyan. This part of the concert will occupy about 45 minutes. It will be followed by a five-minute talk on Eugene. At 8:30 the remainder of the program will be presented. The choral club will sing high mass in St. Mary's cathedral in Portland at 9:45 o'clock Sunday morning.

Prelude—March, by Henry Smart, played on the pipe organ by Daisy Belle Parker began the program for last evening. The organist played with vigor and brilliance, with agreeable interpretation of the singing quality of the second movement. Mozart's Gloria—Tenth Mass—was sung by the Choral club in English, under the skilled direction of Mr. Winder. John Siefert sang Jensen's "Murmuring Zephyrs" with charm and finish. His diction is admirable. The golden quality of his resonant tenor voice was apparent in the encore, as well. Veni, Jesu, by Cherubini was sung in Latin by the Choral club with dignity and grace.

Joanna James Ellis, soprano, who was to have sung Bainbridge Crist's "The Dark King's Daughter," sang instead Massenet's "Elegy" by request. Mrs. Ellis' singing was full of color and charm, and especially pleasing in the encore. Love's on the High Road, as an encore. A splendid rendition of the Latin in Verdi's Jesu Dei Vixi was presented by the trio, Joanna James Ellis, John Siefert and Hugh Winder. This was followed by a solo by Mr. Winder, "The Horn," by Flegler, a number well adapted to Mr. Winder's powerful baritone voice, with its unusual range. The richness of tone quality was equally pleasing in the encore. The First Word of Theodore Dubois' Seven Last Words of Christ was sung by the Choral club as a conclusion to Part One of the program, repeating the success of the presentation of the entire sacred cantata in St. Mary's Catholic church on Good Friday.

Daisy Belle Parker interpreted the dreamlike "Intermezzo" of Guilmant, as the opening selection in the second part of the program. "In a Persian Garden," a song cycle with words selected from the Fitzgerald translation of Omar Khayyam's "Rubaiyat" and music by Lisa Lehmann, was sung with distinction by Mrs. Ellis, Miss Bristow, Mr. Siefert and Mr. Winder. From the first, "Wake! For the Sun scattered'd into the stars. . . . Spring should vanish with the Rose," the four singers gave the listeners a new appreciation of the poetic sweetness and sadness of pleasures which ends finally in dissolution, to be found in "The Rubaiyat." The four voices together, tenor solos, bass solos, duets, contralto recitative and solo, and soprano solos lent variety to the following of the theme.

After the concert presented by the Cecilian Choral club of 60 voices in the Music auditorium at the University of Oregon last evening at 8 o'clock. The music was presented under the direction of Hugh Winder, choir director and soloist of St. Mary's Catholic church. The same program will be broadcast tomorrow evening from Oregonian radio station KGW to an audience of 300,000 people. The song cycle, "In a Persian Garden," will be sung at 7 o'clock by Joanna James Ellis, Evelyn Bristow, John Siefert and Hugh Winder, assisted on the piano by Charles Runyan. This part of the concert will occupy about 45 minutes. It will be followed by a five-minute talk on Eugene. At 8:30 the remainder of the program will be presented. The choral club will sing high mass in St. Mary's cathedral in Portland at 9:45 o'clock Sunday morning.

Prelude—March, by Henry Smart, played on the pipe organ by Daisy Belle Parker began the program for last evening. The organist played with vigor and brilliance, with agreeable interpretation of the singing quality of the second movement. Mozart's Gloria—Tenth Mass—was sung by the Choral club in English, under the skilled direction of Mr. Winder. John Siefert sang Jensen's "Murmuring Zephyrs" with charm and finish. His diction is admirable. The golden quality of his resonant tenor voice was apparent in the encore, as well. Veni, Jesu, by Cherubini was sung in Latin by the Choral club with dignity and grace.

Joanna James Ellis, soprano, who was to have sung Bainbridge Crist's "The Dark King's Daughter," sang instead Massenet's "Elegy" by request. Mrs. Ellis' singing was full of color and charm, and especially pleasing in the encore. Love's on the High Road, as an encore. A splendid rendition of the Latin in Verdi's Jesu Dei Vixi was presented by the trio, Joanna James Ellis, John Siefert and Hugh Winder. This was followed by a solo by Mr. Winder, "The Horn," by Flegler, a number well adapted to Mr. Winder's powerful baritone voice, with its unusual range. The richness of tone quality was equally pleasing in the encore. The First Word of Theodore Dubois' Seven Last Words of Christ was sung by the Choral club as a conclusion to Part One of the program, repeating the success of the presentation of the entire sacred cantata in St. Mary's Catholic church on Good Friday.

Daisy Belle Parker interpreted the dreamlike "Intermezzo" of Guilmant, as the opening selection in the second part of the program. "In a Persian Garden," a song cycle with words selected from the Fitzgerald translation of Omar Khayyam's "Rubaiyat" and music by Lisa Lehmann, was sung with distinction by Mrs. Ellis, Miss Bristow, Mr. Siefert and Mr. Winder. From the first, "Wake! For the Sun scattered'd into the stars. . . . Spring should vanish with the Rose," the four singers gave the listeners a new appreciation of the poetic sweetness and sadness of pleasures which ends finally in dissolution, to be found in "The Rubaiyat." The four voices together, tenor solos, bass solos, duets, contralto recitative and solo, and soprano solos lent variety to the following of the theme.

After the concert presented by the Cecilian Choral club of 60 voices in the Music auditorium at the University of Oregon last evening at 8 o'clock. The music was presented under the direction of Hugh Winder, choir director and soloist of St. Mary's Catholic church. The same program will be broadcast tomorrow evening from Oregonian radio station KGW to an audience of 300,000 people. The song cycle, "In a Persian Garden," will be sung at 7 o'clock by Joanna James Ellis, Evelyn Bristow, John Siefert and Hugh Winder, assisted on the piano by Charles Runyan. This part of the concert will occupy about 45 minutes. It will be followed by a five-minute talk on Eugene. At 8:30 the remainder of the program will be presented. The choral club will sing high mass in St. Mary's cathedral in Portland at 9:45 o'clock Sunday morning.

Prelude—March, by Henry Smart, played on the pipe organ by Daisy Belle Parker began the program for last evening. The organist played with vigor and brilliance, with agreeable interpretation of the singing quality of the second movement. Mozart's Gloria—Tenth Mass—was sung by the Choral club in English, under the skilled direction of Mr. Winder. John Siefert sang Jensen's "Murmuring Zephyrs" with charm and finish. His diction is admirable. The golden quality of his resonant tenor voice was apparent in the encore, as well. Veni, Jesu, by Cherubini was sung in Latin by the Choral club with dignity and grace.

Joanna James Ellis, soprano, who was to have sung Bainbridge Crist's "The Dark King's Daughter," sang instead Massenet's "Elegy" by request. Mrs. Ellis' singing was full of color and charm, and especially pleasing in the encore. Love's on the High Road, as an encore. A splendid rendition of the Latin in Verdi's Jesu Dei Vixi was presented by the trio, Joanna James Ellis, John Siefert and Hugh Winder. This was followed by a solo by Mr. Winder, "The Horn," by Flegler, a number well adapted to Mr. Winder's powerful baritone voice, with its unusual range. The richness of tone quality was equally pleasing in the encore. The First Word of Theodore Dubois' Seven Last Words of Christ was sung by the Choral club as a conclusion to Part One of the program, repeating the success of the presentation of the entire sacred cantata in St. Mary's Catholic church on Good Friday.

Daisy Belle Parker interpreted the dreamlike "Intermezzo" of Guilmant, as the opening selection in the second part of the program. "In a Persian Garden," a song cycle with words selected from the Fitzgerald translation of Omar Khayyam's "Rubaiyat" and music by Lisa Lehmann, was sung with distinction by Mrs. Ellis, Miss Bristow, Mr. Siefert and Mr. Winder. From the first, "Wake! For the Sun scattered'd into the stars. . . . Spring should vanish with the Rose," the four singers gave the listeners a new appreciation of the poetic sweetness and sadness of pleasures which ends finally in dissolution, to be found in "The Rubaiyat." The four voices together, tenor solos, bass solos, duets, contralto recitative and solo, and soprano solos lent variety to the following of the theme.

After the concert presented by the Cecilian Choral club of 60 voices in the Music auditorium at the University of Oregon last evening at 8 o'clock. The music was presented under the direction of Hugh Winder, choir director and soloist of St. Mary's Catholic church. The same program will be broadcast tomorrow evening from Oregonian radio station KGW to an audience of 300,000 people. The song cycle, "In a Persian Garden," will be sung at 7 o'clock by Joanna James Ellis, Evelyn Bristow, John Siefert and Hugh Winder, assisted on the piano by Charles Runyan. This part of the concert will occupy about 45 minutes. It will be followed by a five-minute talk on Eugene. At 8:30 the remainder of the program will be presented. The choral club will sing high mass in St. Mary's cathedral in Portland at 9:45 o'clock Sunday morning.

Prelude—March, by Henry Smart, played on the pipe organ by Daisy Belle Parker began the program for last evening. The organist played with vigor and brilliance, with agreeable interpretation of the singing quality of the second movement. Mozart's Gloria—Tenth Mass—was sung by the Choral club in English, under the skilled direction of Mr. Winder. John Siefert sang Jensen's "Murmuring Zephyrs" with charm and finish. His diction is admirable. The golden quality of his resonant tenor voice was apparent in the encore, as well. Veni, Jesu, by Cherubini was sung in Latin by the Choral club with dignity and grace.

Joanna James Ellis, soprano, who was to have sung Bainbridge Crist's "The Dark King's Daughter," sang instead Massenet's "Elegy" by request. Mrs. Ellis' singing was full of color and charm, and especially pleasing in the encore. Love's on the High Road, as an encore. A splendid rendition of the Latin in Verdi's Jesu Dei Vixi was presented by the trio, Joanna James Ellis, John Siefert and Hugh Winder. This was followed by a solo by Mr. Winder, "The Horn," by Flegler, a number well adapted to Mr. Winder's powerful baritone voice, with its unusual range. The richness of tone quality was equally pleasing in the encore. The First Word of Theodore Dubois' Seven Last Words of Christ was sung by the Choral club as a conclusion to Part One of the program, repeating the success of the presentation of the entire sacred cantata in St. Mary's Catholic church on Good Friday.

Daisy Belle Parker interpreted the dreamlike "Intermezzo" of Guilmant, as the opening selection in the second part of the program. "In a Persian Garden," a song cycle with words selected from the Fitzgerald translation of Omar Khayyam's "Rubaiyat" and music by Lisa Lehmann, was sung with distinction by Mrs. Ellis, Miss Bristow, Mr. Siefert and Mr. Winder. From the first, "Wake! For the Sun scattered'd into the stars. . . . Spring should vanish with the Rose," the four singers gave the listeners a new appreciation of the poetic sweetness and sadness of pleasures which ends finally in dissolution, to be found in "The Rubaiyat." The four voices together, tenor solos, bass solos, duets, contralto recitative and solo, and soprano solos lent variety to the following of the theme.

After the concert presented by the Cecilian Choral club of 60 voices in the Music auditorium at the University of Oregon last evening at 8 o'clock. The music was presented under the direction of Hugh Winder, choir director and soloist of St. Mary's Catholic church. The same program will be broadcast tomorrow evening from Oregonian radio station KGW to an audience of 300,000 people. The song cycle, "In a Persian Garden," will be sung at 7 o'clock by Joanna James Ellis, Evelyn Bristow, John Siefert and Hugh Winder, assisted on the piano by Charles Runyan. This part of the concert will occupy about 45 minutes. It will be followed by a five-minute talk on Eugene. At 8:30 the remainder of the program will be presented. The choral club will sing high mass in St. Mary's cathedral in Portland at 9:45 o'clock Sunday morning.

Prelude—March, by Henry Smart, played on the pipe organ by Daisy Belle Parker began the program for last evening. The organist played with vigor and brilliance, with agreeable interpretation of the singing quality of the second movement. Mozart's Gloria—Tenth Mass—was sung by the Choral club in English, under the skilled direction of Mr. Winder. John Siefert sang Jensen's "Murmuring Zephyrs" with charm and finish. His diction is admirable. The golden quality of his resonant tenor voice was apparent in the encore, as well. Veni, Jesu, by Cherubini was sung in Latin by the Choral club with dignity and grace.

Joanna James Ellis, soprano, who was to have sung Bainbridge Crist's "The Dark King's Daughter," sang instead Massenet's "Elegy" by request. Mrs. Ellis' singing was full of color and charm, and especially pleasing in the encore. Love's on the High Road, as an encore. A splendid rendition of the Latin in Verdi's Jesu Dei Vixi was presented by the trio, Joanna James Ellis, John Siefert and Hugh Winder. This was followed by a solo by Mr. Winder, "The Horn," by Flegler, a number well adapted to Mr. Winder's powerful baritone voice, with its unusual range. The richness of tone quality was equally pleasing in the encore. The First Word of Theodore Dubois' Seven Last Words of Christ was sung by the Choral club as a conclusion to Part One of the program, repeating the success of the presentation of the entire sacred cantata in St. Mary's Catholic church on Good Friday.

Daisy Belle Parker interpreted the dreamlike "Intermezzo" of Guilmant, as the opening selection in the second part of the program. "In a Persian Garden," a song cycle with words selected from the Fitzgerald translation of Omar Khayyam's "Rubaiyat" and music by Lisa Lehmann, was sung with distinction by Mrs. Ellis, Miss Bristow, Mr. Siefert and Mr. Winder. From the first, "Wake! For the Sun scattered'd into the stars. . . . Spring should vanish with the Rose," the four singers gave the listeners a new appreciation of the poetic sweetness and sadness of pleasures which ends finally in dissolution, to be found in "The Rubaiyat." The four voices together, tenor solos, bass solos, duets, contralto recitative and solo, and soprano solos lent variety to the following of the theme.

After the concert presented by the Cecilian Choral club of 60 voices in the Music auditorium at the University of Oregon last evening at 8 o'clock. The music was presented under the direction of Hugh Winder, choir director and soloist of St. Mary's Catholic church. The same program will be broadcast tomorrow evening from Oregonian radio station KGW to an audience of 300,000 people. The song cycle, "In a Persian Garden," will be sung at 7 o'clock by Joanna James Ellis, Evelyn Bristow, John Siefert and Hugh Winder, assisted on the piano by Charles Runyan. This part of the concert will occupy about 45 minutes. It will be followed by a five-minute talk on Eugene. At 8:30 the remainder of the program will be presented. The choral club will sing high mass in St. Mary's cathedral in Portland at 9:45 o'clock Sunday morning.

Prelude—March, by Henry Smart, played on the pipe organ by Daisy Belle Parker began the program for last evening. The organist played with vigor and brilliance, with agreeable interpretation of the singing quality of the second movement. Mozart's Gloria—Tenth Mass—was sung by the Choral club in English, under the skilled direction of Mr. Winder. John Siefert sang Jensen's "Murmuring Zephyrs" with charm and finish. His diction is admirable. The golden quality of his resonant tenor voice was apparent in the encore, as well. Veni, Jesu, by Cherubini was sung in Latin by the Choral club with dignity and grace.

Joanna James Ellis, soprano, who was to have sung Bainbridge Crist's "The Dark King's Daughter," sang instead Massenet's "Elegy" by request. Mrs. Ellis' singing was full of color and charm, and especially pleasing in the encore. Love's on the High Road, as an encore. A splendid rendition of the Latin in Verdi's Jesu Dei Vixi was presented by the trio, Joanna James Ellis, John Siefert and Hugh Winder. This was followed by a solo by Mr. Winder, "The Horn," by Flegler, a number well adapted to Mr. Winder's powerful baritone voice, with its unusual range. The richness of tone quality was equally pleasing in the encore. The First Word of Theodore Dubois' Seven Last Words of Christ was sung by the Choral club as a conclusion to Part One of the program, repeating the success of the presentation of the entire sacred cantata in St. Mary's Catholic church on Good Friday.

Daisy Belle Parker interpreted the dreamlike "Intermezzo" of Guilmant, as the opening selection in the second part of the program. "In a Persian Garden," a song cycle with words selected from the Fitzgerald translation of Omar Khayyam's "Rubaiyat" and music by Lisa Lehmann, was sung with distinction by Mrs. Ellis, Miss Bristow, Mr. Siefert and Mr. Winder. From the first, "Wake! For the Sun scattered'd into the stars. . . . Spring should vanish with the Rose," the four singers gave the listeners a new appreciation of the poetic sweetness and sadness of pleasures which ends finally in dissolution, to be found in "The Rubaiyat." The four voices together, tenor solos, bass solos, duets, contralto recitative and solo, and soprano solos lent variety to the following of the theme.

After the concert presented by the Cecilian Choral club of 60 voices in the Music auditorium at the University of Oregon last evening at 8 o'clock. The music was presented under the direction of Hugh Winder, choir director and soloist of St. Mary's Catholic church. The same program will be broadcast tomorrow evening from Oregonian radio station KGW to an audience of 300,000 people. The song cycle, "In a Persian Garden," will be sung at 7 o'clock by Joanna James Ellis, Evelyn Bristow, John Siefert and Hugh Winder, assisted on the piano by Charles Runyan. This part of the concert will occupy about 45 minutes. It will be followed by a five-minute talk on Eugene. At 8:30 the remainder of the program will be presented. The choral club will sing high mass in St. Mary's cathedral in Portland at 9:45 o'clock Sunday morning.

Prelude—March, by Henry Smart, played on the pipe organ by Daisy Belle Parker began the program for last evening. The organist played with vigor and brilliance, with agreeable interpretation of the singing quality of the second movement. Mozart's Gloria—Tenth Mass—was sung by the Choral club in English, under the skilled direction of Mr. Winder. John Siefert sang Jensen's "Murmuring Zephyrs" with charm and finish. His diction is admirable. The golden quality of his resonant tenor voice was apparent in the encore, as well. Veni, Jesu, by Cherubini was sung in Latin by the Choral club with dignity and grace.

Joanna James Ellis, soprano, who was to have sung Bainbridge Crist's "The Dark King's Daughter," sang instead Massenet's "Elegy" by request. Mrs. Ellis' singing was full of color and charm, and especially pleasing in the encore. Love's on the High Road, as an encore. A splendid rendition of the Latin in Verdi's Jesu Dei Vixi was presented by the trio, Joanna James Ellis, John Siefert and Hugh Winder. This was followed by a solo by Mr. Winder, "The Horn," by Flegler, a number well adapted to Mr. Winder's powerful baritone voice, with its unusual range. The richness of tone quality was equally pleasing in the encore. The First Word of Theodore Dubois' Seven Last Words of Christ was sung by the Choral club as a conclusion to Part One of the program, repeating the success of the presentation of the entire sacred cantata in St. Mary's Catholic church on Good Friday.

Daisy Belle Parker interpreted the dreamlike "Intermezzo" of Guilmant, as the opening selection in the second part of the program. "In a Persian Garden," a song cycle with words selected from the Fitzgerald translation of Omar Khayyam's "Rubaiyat" and music by Lisa Lehmann, was sung with distinction by Mrs. Ellis, Miss Bristow, Mr. Siefert and Mr. Winder. From the first, "Wake! For the Sun scattered'd into the stars. . . . Spring should vanish with the Rose," the four singers gave the listeners a new appreciation of the poetic sweetness and sadness of pleasures which ends finally in dissolution, to be found in "The Rubaiyat." The four voices together, tenor solos, bass solos, duets, contralto recitative and solo, and soprano solos lent variety to the following of the theme.

BALKAN STATES MOVE TROOPS

(Continued from page one)

Sofia dispatches quote Minister of the Interior Rousseff as declaring that not over 1500 persons have been arrested throughout Bulgaria during the campaign against terrorists. He asserts that Moscow furnished arms and money for the subversives.

Premier Tzankoff declared the statement attributed to the British labor party members recently in Sofia that many had been killed in Bulgaria without trial is "sheer calumny." He declared the situation is calm throughout the country.

Other indirect dispatches, however, continue to report that King Boris of Bulgaria is virtually a prisoner in the royal palace at Sofia under General Lazareff, head of the military junta.

Sofia continues under virtual martial law. The Bulgarian militia is being increased as authorized by the council of ambassadors at Paris, to cope with the situation and Roumania, Jugo-Slavia and Greece are protesting that increase.

Premier Tzankoff speaks Sofia, April 24.—(AP)—Premier Tzankoff declared to the Associated Press today that the charges made by the British members of parliament who recently visited Bulgaria regarding conditions here, were "sheer calumny."

The premier said the laborite members of parliament had not seen the things they alleged they saw.

Three members of the British house of commons were quoted in a Belgrade dispatch Wednesday night as declaring after a visit to Sofia they were convinced several hundred persons had been killed without trial and on the pretext of suspicion after the recent bomb explosion in the cathedral there.

The number of arrests, they said were estimated at 6,000.

The men quoted were Josiah C. Wedgewood and W. Mackinder, labor members, and P. D. Maikue, a unionist.

MINISTRY STRONG PARIS, April 24.—Le Matin Sofia correspondent says reports of a change in the Bulgarian cabinet are absolutely unfounded. The ministry under Premier Tzankoff, is stronger than ever, he declared.

ALLIANCE SOUGHT BERLIN, April 24.—A dispatch from Athens reports that M. Taklismanos, an agent of the Greek government, is en route to Belgrade to resume negotiations for an alliance between Greece and Jugo-Slavia.

The Greek premier, M. Michalakopoulos is quoted as saying that the Athens government has no intention of intervening in the Bulgarian situation unless the Greek frontiers are threatened.

The premier, nevertheless believes, it is added that an enlarged Bulgarian army is likely to cause unrest in the minds of the Greek people who will view it as a menace of the status quo in the Balkans.

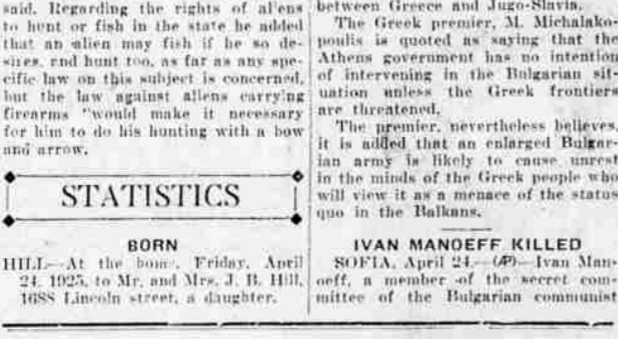

IVAN MANOFF KILLED SOFIA, April 24.—(AP)—Ivan Manoff, a member of the secret committee of the Bulgarian communist party, was shot and killed by the police today when he refused to surrender. Another store of arms had been found by the police in a search of a home of a suspect conspirator.

Pearls worth $2,000,000 belonged to the wife of Caligula, emperor of Ancient Rome.

STATISTICS BORN HILL.—At the home, Friday, April 24, 1925, to Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Hill, 1688 Lincoln street, a daughter.

CHILDREN'S MATINEE Saturday—10:15 a. m. under auspices of American Association University Women. Note that starting time is 10:15.

This Saturday Only CHILDREN 10c ADULTS 20c

Douglas Fairbanks in THE THIEF OF BAGDAD

The picture every child has waited a lifetime to see—

CHILDREN'S MATINEE Saturday—10:15 a. m.

under auspices of American Association University Women. Note that starting time is 10:15.

This Saturday Only CHILDREN 10c ADULTS 20c

Heilig Theatre

Adventure and romance that have gripped thousands lives and breathes again in the glorious film epic of the glorious west.

ALICE TERRY CONWAY TEARLE WALLACE BERRY HUNTLEY GORDON

Now Continuous Today and Saturday 1 to 11 p. m. Regular Prices

J.C. Penney Co. A NATION-WIDE INSTITUTION - Incorporated 571 DEPARTMENT STORES Fashionable Spring Coats Smarter In Style—Lower In Price Style lives, and breathes, and has its being in these smart Coats! They express the most charming Coat modes of the season. At whatever price you wish to pay, you will find a splendid Coat at this Store. Finely Tailored of Good Fabrics Made of excellent materials and in colors which become the Spring—especially those "woody" shades which suggest the out-of-doors. At each price, there is value worthy of your attention. $9.90 to $29.75

Catch on to a hi-speed diet Eat Tru-Blu Grahams and Milk SPRING FEVER puts the brakes on many of us every year. Thoughtlessly we continue to eat the heavy foods of winter that clog the system and slow us up. In grandmother's day everybody took a spring tonic. Today, in the best of families, they change the diet. Try it this spring Eat Tru-Blu Grahams and milk daily for a week. They're checkfull of the vitamins that build strength, the mineral salts that build bone—and of bran that helps nature purify the blood. Order From Your Grocer Now Every Good Grocer has Tru-Blu Grahams in blue and gold cartons and in wood boxes. TRU-BLU BISCUIT COMPANY—Spokane and Portland

HATS 10% Discount on all Millinery Prices $2.70 to $14 Vivette and Blair Models Complete line of Needlework, DMG, Coates and Silkline Threads HEMSTITCHING BY AN EXPERT, 8c YARD The Mode, Springfield

Our Chockers Are Selling Fast We have replenished our window stock of these wonderful values as fast as they have been sold. Get Your Choker at Once Better buy two or three different colors now as this special sale positively ends. NEXT