UNION CARPENTERS HALT BUILDING JOB

As the result of failure to agree on the wage scale as asked by the carpenters' union of this city a strike was called on the building of the Taylor apartment on Willamette street and Thirteenth avenue today. It is said by union organizers here that between 12 and 15 carpenters quit the job owing to the fact that the union scale was $1 per day more than that offered by the contractors. The union officials also report that the contractors state they will bring men from Portland to take the places of those who quit here. If no agreement is reached by tomorrow night the job will be declared "unfair" and other trades including union plumbers and electricians will be prevented from working on the building, the union officers report.

AMERICAN FOREST WEEK IS OBSERVED

Castle Rock lookout house in the Cascade forest will be placed on the sidewalk to the main entrance to the postoffice. This structure was built by Fred Chess' students in manual training at Eugene high school. It is one-fourth the actual size of the lookout house.

Miss Dora McClain gave a short talk at today's luncheon of the Kiwanis club, and Nelson F. MacDuff, supervisor of the Cascade national forest, spoke to students in journalism at the university. Other speakers are scheduled for nearly every day this week, at the service clubs and other civic organizations. Dean George W. Peavy, head of the forestry department of Oregon Agricultural college, will be the speaker at Thursday's meeting of the chamber of commerce.

FIRE PREVENTION SUBJECT OF TALK

Unless the public is educated to the point where the person who causes a forest fire is condemned as a menace to society, little progress can be made in the effort to prevent destruction of timber, Nelson F. MacDuff, supervisor of the Cascade national forest, told students in freshman journalism this morning at the University of Oregon.

Mr. MacDuff pointed out that efforts to plant trees were not profitable at a cost of $25 per acre, when nature does it for nothing. "And this is not very encouraging," he said, "to plant new trees when there are 50,000 firebrands in the United States ready to burn them up."

Mr. MacDuff went to Roseburg this afternoon to address the Kiwanis club tomorrow on the subject of "Builders." In this talk he expects to stress the fact that no agency is as important as public sentiment, combined with public cooperation, in the matter of fire prevention.

"The timber from 7500 acres of land is required each week for America's Sunday newspapers alone," says Mr. MacDuff. "It takes the pulp trees from that much land to provide the newspaper paper. Yet publishing is only one of a hundred groups of industries that draw their material from the forest. The lumber industry, with its 20,000 mills, consumes only a third of the wood that is annually removed from the forest. More wood is used for fuel than for lumber. Directly and indirectly the responsibility for depletion of the forests rests on every citizen who uses wood in any of its manufactured forms."

Roseburg Woman is Hurt in Accident

ROSEBURG, Ore., April 27.—Mrs. S. E. Memminger, wife of a local taxi driver, was seriously hurt late last night when the car in which she was riding and which was driven by her husband, ran wild on a steep grade and turned three forward somersaults. Mrs. Memminger had responded to the call of Mr. Edward Van Pessell, who lives on one of the streets overlooking the city and was in the act of bringing Mr. Von Pessell down into the business district when the accident occurred. A light chain had been wrapped around the tire of the car to give traction on a slippery stretch of road and this became loosened and caught in the brake rod, putting the brakes out of commission.

Lane Sewing Club Finishes Courses

All club lessons have been completed by the Cedar Flat thimble club under the leadership of Mrs. Edith Page and this is the first of the 24 sewing clubs of Lane county to complete the required course, according to Arnold Collier, county club leader. An achievement display will soon be held by the Cedar Flat club and all exhibits will be held for display at the annual county fair in September. All clubs are planning on fair displays and when the lessons are completed all work will be then prepared for the fair, the club leader states.

Anglers try Luck About Lake Creek

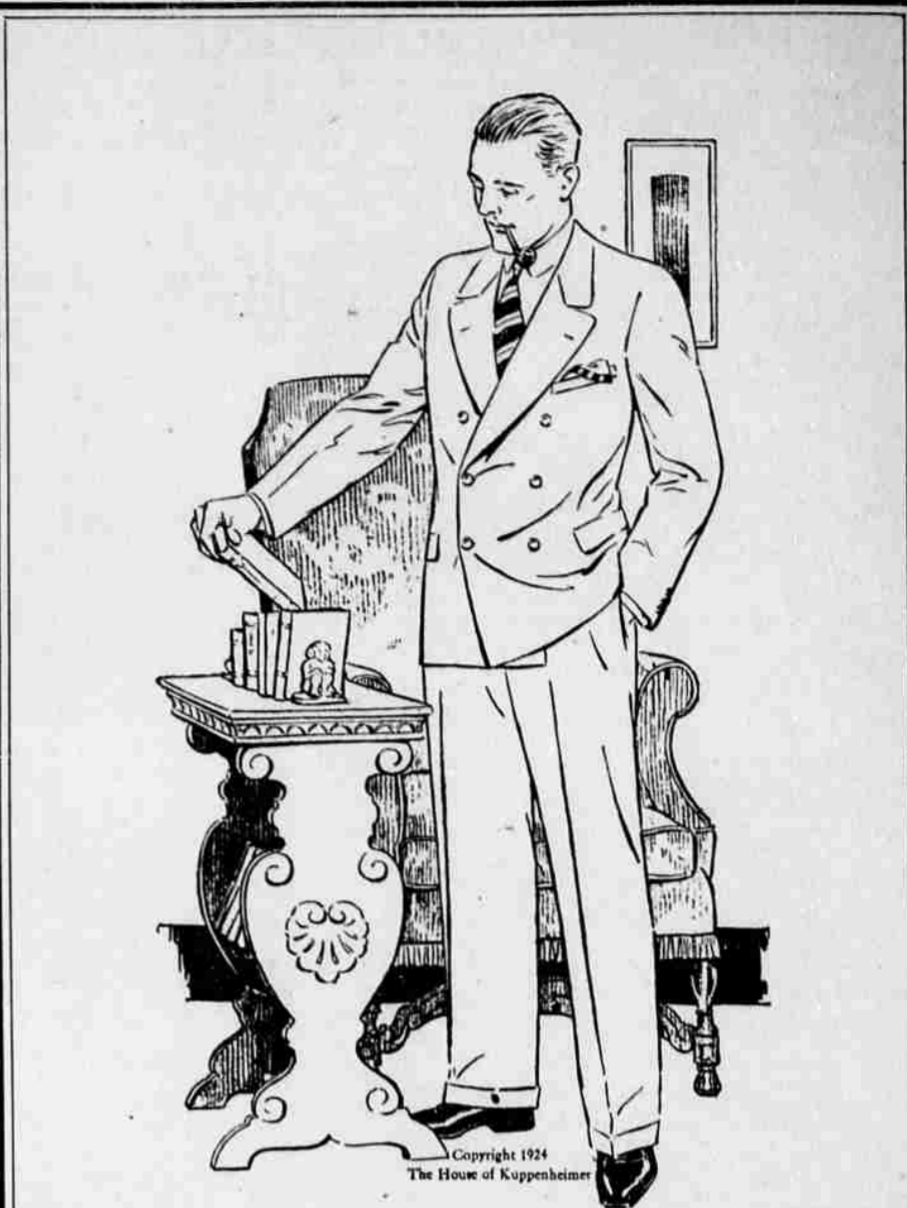

Lake creek and adjacent areas were popular places among Lane county anglers yesterday, according to Melvin Turnbull, county traffic officer, who started out on the road early yesterday morning in a search for speeders and reports that at least 200 cars were hounded for the lake. Although all the anglers were anxious to reach the waters and start day's sport, only one grew enthusiastic enough to step up speed to 45 miles and he was cited to appear in justice court today and tell about it. Many anglers reported that good catches were made on Lake creek during the day.

Inspections Made Of Alfalfa Areas

Inspection of the experimental alfalfa tracts in Lane county is again under way this week by O. S. Fletcher, Lane county agricultural agent, and E. R. Jackman, farm crops specialist of the Oregon Agricultural college. It is expected that these inspections will be completed by Thursday or Friday, Mr. Fletcher states. In addition to the experimental tracts other alfalfa fields of the county will be looked after as several farmers are raising this crop on a larger scale, the county agent reports.

Sponges Off Alaska?
SEATTLE, Wash., April 27.—Sponges found on the anchor of a ship off Chilingoff, Alaska, may cause the discovery of large sponge fields in that vicinity. The water at 20 fathoms was found to be 18 degrees warmer than at the surface, or warm enough for sponges to grow.

Door for the Devil
CORNWALL, Eng., April 27.—In a church here, a medieval minister provided a small door near the altar, through which the devil could escape when the parishioners denounced him and all his works.

WESTROPE FLEES STATE INSTITUTION

William Westrope, 19, who figured prominently in local police circles recently and who was returned to the state reform school at Salem about two weeks ago is back again. Westrope had a fairly good week-end following his leaving of the state institution Saturday night, according to reports coming in today at the office of Sheriff Taylor here.

Westrope escaped from the school Saturday night and stole a truck. The truck was abandoned about a mile south of Salem and then Westrope hired a taxi to bring him to Eugene. He paid the driver with a bad check. On arriving here Westrope hired a agency, paid for it with the usual bad check, received $3 in change and later was seen taking his girl for a ride. She was the last heard from the fast check payer up to late this morning. The car hired at Springfield is a Hippobolite with license number 150-659 and was taken out at 6 o'clock last night and should have been returned within an hour and one-half, according to the officer.

Westrope recently left the state reform school for the first escape and during the few days he was free in this vicinity where he passed a number of worthless checks.

Site for Ashland Normal is Viewed
SALEM, Ore., April 27.—Governor Pierce, Secretary of State Kozler and State School Superintendent Churchill, members of the board of regents of Oregon normal schools, left today for Ashland where the board will select a site for the building at the Ashland Normal school. Under an act of the 1923 legislature the school is to be revised and Churchill has been elected president.

Tourists Near rim Of Crater Lake

MEDFORD, Ore., April 27.—The nearest approach to reaching Crater Lake this season from the Medford entrance was made yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. John K. Shaw of Chicago, who tramped through the snow six miles above Union creek, and about ten miles from Government camp, after motoring a few miles beyond Prager. The snow in the park is deeper now than usual at this time of the year.
