

OREGON TO PLAY WHITMAN SQUAD HERE WEDNESDAY

The University of Oregon baseball team lines up against the Whitman College aggregation tomorrow afternoon in the second game of the year. Whitman was defeated by Washington, 7 to 4, yesterday, the team made a good showing.

Oregon has been putting in hours of intensive practice the last week and are now in mid-season form. Hobson and Fred West have been showing speed in covering second and short and probably will be the leading double-play men in the conference.

The contest is scheduled for 4 o'clock on the new diamond, one of the best on the coast. Either Ray Williams or "Skipper" Brooks will start in the box for the varsity with Elias receiving. Rex Adolph will cover first, Hobson, second; West, short, and Cook at third will complete the infield. The outfield will be picked from Frank Reinhart, Doug Wright, Lynn Jones and Carl Knudson.

The team seemed to strike its hitting form in the Pacific game last Friday garnering 11 hits from two pitchers for a total of 10 runs. Hobson was the leader of this attack with four hits and a walk in five times up. He poked out a triple, two doubles and a single. The rest of the team members have been showing improvement along this line in the practice games with the fresh last week. Jones and Reinhart have been knocking the ball over the outfielders' heads.

The next game will be played with Willamette university here Saturday afternoon. Oregon opens its Pacific coast conference race here May 4 against the strong Idaho nine.

The advantage in schedule arrangement is with the University as it plays the first six games on the home field.

Washington Crew Prepares for big Regatta in East

SEATTLE, April 28.—The University of Washington crew, victorious in its annual race with the University of California eight, is preparing for the national inter-collegiate regatta at Poughkeepsie, New York, with five veterans and three recruits to defend the championship.

The Washington varsity again has a piece of the husky Ulrickson. Winning at number 1, it is rowing his third year. He was the hero of the Poughkeepsie regatta of 1923, when, ordered to bed for an infected leg, he was up and pulling stroke out in the race that gave Washington its first national title.

Captain Max Luft, at number 2, and Sanford at number 7, are also veterans. Condon, at number 5, rowed last year. The new crew are Matt at bow, Mathews at number 4; Hart at number 3, and Moreton, coxswain.

Except for the coxswain, the Washington shell is propelled by giants. The shortest of them stands six feet. The lightest weighs 172. The average weight is 176 3/8 and the average heights 35 feet, 2-1/8 inches.

Big Baseball Stars

Grover C. Alexander
Born—St. Paul, Neb., Feb. 20, 1887. Right-handed pitcher, Chicago Cubs. Major league career—Allotted to Phillies by draft in 1911 from Syracuse club, New York State League. Traded Dec. 11, 1917, with Bill Killefer to Cubs for $55,000 and President-elect and Dilhoefer.

Outstanding feats—In his 14 years in the majors has never had a losing season. For three straight years, 1913 to 1917, inclusive, turned in 30 victories or more each campaign. In 1923 didn't allow a base on balls during the first 30 innings he worked.

Fair Golfer Elated

Mrs. Melvin Jones Wins at Pinehurst

No wonder Mrs. Melvin Jones was feeling in a receptive mood when this photo was taken. For the prominent Chicago fair sex golfer had just won the annual north and south tournament at Pinehurst, N. C., in a select field of links devotees. Note her smile of victory.

THE world champion two-year-old cow is "Audacious Pansy" of South Lincoln, Mass., with an official, authenticated A. A. U. record of a year's milk production of nine tons.

Interviewed in her luxurious stall by Mr. Reginald Xavier McSwiff, who is, as you've probably surmised, none other than one of the McSwiff boys, Miss Pansy had much to say, being, as it developed, of British ancestry.

Miss Pansy admitted to Mr. McSwiff that the subject of milk production was not an altogether easy one to discuss, considering Mr. McSwiff's admitted unfamiliarity with the proposition.

It was obvious from Mr. McSwiff's make-up which included fawn-colored spots and gloves to match, that he was something but Miss Pansy, accustomed to meeting sundry curiosities, knew at a glance that whatever he was, he was not a member of the cow family. At least not a member of any of the known and duly cataloged cow families.

But Miss Pansy, possessing all the elms of graciousness that accompany genuine talent, accepted the situation as it existed and replied to Mr. McSwiff's interrogations to the best of her rural and pastoral ability.

Miss Pansy admitted declining an offer of $3000 a week to go into vaudeville. "There are enough cows on the stage already," commented the champion, as she nudged a cud by off her left ear.

Miss Pansy was not so sure the Ford's experiment with commercial aviation would go anywhere. Miss Pansy reminded Mr. McSwiff that nothing practical was gained by a somewhat similar experiment ages ago, when the cow of legendary note attempted to jump over the moon.

The champion attributes her present exalted position to clean living and rigorous training. Miss Pansy has never smoked a cigar in her life. "I get all the hay I want with my meals as it is," she explains.

Miss Pansy does not think a champion should marry. "Look what it's done for Dempsey, just kept him out of two or three great fights this summer."

Miss Pansy's evident hostility for the Coolidge administration remained a mystery to Mr. McSwiff until he learned the White House economy program includes the exclusive use for table purposes of condensed milk.

Inter-Fraternity Tennis is Started

Intra-sport tennis started at the University of Oregon yesterday with the pair representing Sigma Alpha Epsilon defeating the Beta Theta Pi team 6-1, 6-1.

Reginald Heber, winner of the fall tennis championship of the university, and Ed Britts constituted the winning aggregation while Fred Joy and Laurin Reynolds played for the losers. Heber was one of the best prospects for the varsity tennis team this year but was ruled ineligible by the faculty because of grades.

The winner of this tournament will hold the doughnut championship in tennis for the coming year.

The following teams will play this week: Bachelordun vs Phi Delta Theta, Tuesday; Friendly Hall vs Alpha Tau Omega, Wednesday; Sigma Pi Tau vs Kappa Sigma Thursday. The remaining teams will play next week. They are: Lambda Psi vs Chi Psi; Alpha Beta Chi vs Oregon club; Delta Tau Delta vs Phi Kappa Psi; and Phi Gamma Delta vs Psi Kappa.

BASEBALL thrives on uncertainty. That one angle of the game is pre-hug, the greatest asset in its bid for popularity.

It is doubtful if any opening day series in the majors ever better illustrated the uncertainty of the national pastime than that staged between Cleveland and St. Louis at the latter city.

Two perfectly conditioned ball clubs staged a real burlesque. The score was 21 to 14, a regular gridiron total with each team kicking all the goals for touchdowns.

The two clubs made 41 base hits, dividing them almost equally, Cleveland getting 21, the Browns 20.

Cleveland got away to a six-run lead in three innings. The Browns evened the count at nine at the close of the fifth and then proceeded to take a four-run margin in the sixth.

It seemed that after a bad start for the home club the breaks had shifted to them.

Then to climax one of the wildest opening day games ever perpetrated, Cleveland made an even dozen runs in the eighth inning.

The Browns made 10 errors in the wild wet affair, four of them being charged to the greatest of all first basemen, George Sisler. Four errors usually George's quota for the season.

It was a tough break all around for Sisler because fandom has a habit of blaming the failure of the individual player on the manager.

It so happened that Sisler started Joe Bush on the rubber. Joe had consumed about four months. That trip on the list for future hunts is French Indo China. For it is there the hunting is a type of wild cattle, both clever and savage. A big animal that is "both clever and savage" has a peculiar appeal to Kermit Roosevelt.

French Indo China also offers a wide range of other big game—elephant, tiger, alluring water buffalo. The trip can be made in four months.

From the above you can gather the road ahead of you, if you aspire to shine as a recognized authority as a big game hunter.

Kermit "started" with the jackrabbits of Dakota. The chances are he will not stop until he has covered the big game areas of all the world.

On Big Game Hunting
Interviews with Kermit Roosevelt
No.

(This is one of a series of interviews with Kermit Roosevelt, who is an authority on big game)

By MORRIS ACKERMAN
DOES a big-game hunter's ambition for conquest ever cease?

I doubt it. Certainly Kermit Roosevelt has some very decided opinions on the subject as far as his own fauna is concerned.

One might think when a man has hunted over the wilds of Africa and India; been official photographer on such an expedition as the "River of Doubt" in Brazil; climbed the big horn in Mexico; stalked the game of the Philippines with Aguinaldo; explored the bitter-cold wastes of Kora in search of the rare Myosotis tiger; still-hunted bull moose in New Brunswick, and enjoyed other hunts too numerous to mention, that there wouldn't be much hunting left worth while.

"I want to make a trip into the hinterland of Mongolia, in the Altai mountains after ovip poll. I've had that trip in mind for 20 years. In the most southern range of the big horn in Mexico I've gotten some very fine specimens of sheep, but the ovip poll is the world's largest big-horn sheep and he is worth the trip."

This trip can be made over a period of six months.

Kermit's second secret ambition is his hunt in Kashmir. His particular quest will be for markor. Markor is a big animal, a member of the goat family. It is better known as the "glorified goat."

It is quite unlike the white goat of the Rockies, in that it wears spiral horns. Other game for which Kermit will search will be the ibex and ovip ammon of Kashmir. This trip will consume about four months.

Third on the list for future hunts is French Indo China. For it is there the hunting is a type of wild cattle, both clever and savage. A big animal that is "both clever and savage" has a peculiar appeal to Kermit Roosevelt.

French Indo China also offers a wide range of other big game—elephant, tiger, alluring water buffalo. The trip can be made in four months.

Paavo Nurmi to Race Tomorrow

LOS ANGELES, April 28.—Paavo Nurmi, the fleet footed Finn, planned to give his legs another taste of southern California turf today in a workout at the Coliseum.

Tomorrow night the Finn will meet either his running mate, Willie Hiltola or Lloyd Hahn, former University of Nebraska miler, in a mile and half race.

Nurmi, in his second start on the Coliseum track hopes to shatter the world's record of 6 minutes 46 2/5 seconds for the 1 1/2 mile run, the mark established by T. P. Conneff.

Tonic For Golfers
As Prescribed by George Duncan

THEORIES differ as to how long a golfer should stare at the ground after the ball has been started on its ride.

It has always seemed to me that it is time wasted when a player stands looking at the ground after the shot has been made. Not only that, but keeping the head down tends to hold the shoulders in such a way that it spoils a long follow through.

Of course the head must not be lifted too fast. That will completely ruin the shot, because raising the head invariably means that the arms will be lifted, which will result in topping the ball.

That, of course, is to be avoided. But there is no necessity for keeping the head down as long as some players do. It takes the club head a mere fraction of a second to travel two feet after the ball has been hit and the head already should begin to turn, allowing the shoulders some freedom and permitting a follow through.

Shrine Temple to Hold Ceremonials
Hillah temple of Ashland of the Mystic Shrine will hold a ceremonial at Klamath Falls, Saturday, May 23, and it is expected that about 300 Shriner will be the guests of the Greater Lake Shrine club of Klamath Falls, according to word received by Eugene Shriners affiliated with Hillah temple. It is expected that a number of Eugene Shriners will attend the ceremonial which will be the largest event of its kind held in southern Oregon in some time, is the announcement. INGROWN NAIL Turns Right Out Itself

"Outgro," is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

A few drops of the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.

MOHAIR BIDS AT PORTLAND LOWER

Weakness in Market at Present Time is Blamed For The Reduction

PORTLAND, Ore., April 28.—Local mohair buyers have reduced their bids to county shippers approximately five cents a pound in the past week. Best offers for long staple delivered Portland at 45c a pound with short staple at 40c and heavy at 22 1/2c a pound. Bids for kid hair have been reduced to 60c a pound delivered Portland.

Weakness in the mohair market this time is attributed to their trend wool. Eastern wool prices continue nominal around 50c prices basis for delaines of the better class. From Boston come reports of some good fleeces of fine quality and good staple selling lower than 50c.

While no great activity is noted in Oregon wool at the moment, dealers here look for the biggest wool season in years. The association has moved in to their new location, the Pacific Wool and Warehouse at 12th and Davis, and now have accommodations for about 8,000,000 pounds of wool, as compared to 3,500,000 pounds at their old location.

Many new members have joined the cooperatives, with some of the largest wool growers in the Pacific Northwest now lined up with the association, and they expect to draw more wool to Portland than has come here in the past.
