

OREGON WINS HER SECOND GAME BY 7 TO 4 MARKERS

University of Oregon won its second Northwest conference baseball game yesterday by defeating Whitman, 7 to 4, on the new baseball diamond. Oregon was out-hit, but it out-smarted the visitors whose head-work in the pinches was appalling. As a result, several possible Whitman scores were cut off.

"Skipper" Brooks of Oregon, was touched for 10 hits, but he kept them well scattered. His support was excellent and in the pinches he was at his best. Twice Oregon cut off runners as the home plate by speedy work. The Missions getting badly hit in trying to steal home. On each occasion the batter missed the sign.

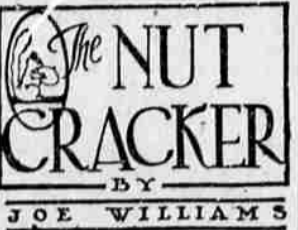

Oregon took the lead in the second, only to be tied by Whitman in the fifth. In the last half of the same inning the Webfooters chalked up two more scores and were never in danger after that.

Miller of Whitman pitched well, but four of the eight hits made off him were triples and each resulted in a rally. Reinhardt, Bliss, Jones and Brooks, all of Oregon made a three-base hit each. Olsen of Whitman was the hitting star with three safe blows. Moore, catcher, Yenny, first baseman, and Tunda, Japanese outfielder, all of Whitman, made two hits each as did Reinhardt of Oregon.

Scores:
R. H. E.
Oregon.....4 10 3
Whitman.....7 8 1
Batteries: Miller and Moore; Brooks and Bliss.

FORMER FOOTBALL STARS PROMINENT

By SAM WILDERMAN
Ever so often an ambitious stationer will go through smelly old files with dust a half-inch thick, to dig up records long forgotten. Games that even memory fails to hold are brought to the limelight again.

Few students of University of Oregon know that the school had football teams 25 years ago. Fewer still, know that California, before its rugby days, had eleven as famous as those of today.

But records dug up by Harold Manning, today at the university, disclose that as far back as 1904 Oregon played California at San Francisco. It lost 12 to 0. The following year the Webfooters held the Bruins to a scoreless tie—an achievement not hoped for by even Oregon's most ardent admirers.

California papers went into long details discussing the Oregon fight and complimenting the team for its fine playing. Before the game California was considered three touchdowns better.

Few know that the bulwark of the Oregon defense, the thorn to the ambitious California backs, who were thrown time and again for a loss, was Virgil Earl, now athletic director at Oregon. He then was right tackle—the lightest man on the team, weighing only 167 pounds—but according to San Francisco papers "the best lineman on either eleven. That is saying a whole lot as California papers are not known for their generosity in praising outsiders.

Dr. Kerron is a prominent physician. Mr. McClain is superintendent of the Eugene water works. Mr. Baker has won fame as a mining engineer, and Mr. Gray is connected with the First National bank.

W. G. Chandler, captain of the 1906 team, and all-northwest right end, is hotel proprietor at Marshfield. Frank Templeton, right guard, and later an all-American halfback, is a prominent Portland business man.

George Hug, center, captain of the 1905 team, and president of the student body in 1907, is one of the foremost educators in the state and is superintendent of the Salem schools.

Jack Latourrette, one of the greatest of all Oregon quarters, and one of the brainiest, who also was an all-northwest selection, is one of Portland's leading attorneys.

Joseph H., a brother of Frank Templeton, played right half. He also was an all-northwest selection and captained this, the 1904 team. Mr. Templeton is a well-known Seattle attorney.

Henry H. McKinney, regent of the university, and prominent State legislator, played a part of the game at half.

FRED SCHAEFERS WINS IN TOURNEY

The winner of the Kieckers handicap tournament played last Saturday and Sunday at the Eugene Country club was decided Tuesday afternoon when a tie between Ralph Martia, Charley Hardy and Fred Schaefers was played off, with Fred Schaefers emerging as victor.

In the Kieckers tournament the members selected their own handicaps, each player designating before the start of the tournament what handicap he believed necessary to enable him to turn in a par score.

Thirty-six men entered the tourney. As a result of his victory, Mr. Schaefers was awarded a golf club.

George Blinchock, president of the club, and George Schaefers, vice-president, are selecting members today for the president and vice-president's teams which will meet in an 18-hole match play tourney this week-end. The personnel of the teams will be announced tomorrow.

The losers of this tournament will dine the winners at the club house (the Wolfenden) evening following the match, May 6, when a general discussion of club affairs will be held following the dinner.

Beavers Come Back Out of the Cellar In Vernon Contest

In again, out again, and this time it's out again for the Portland Beavers, who swung a piece of headwork yesterday and won from Vernon, 4 to 3, in 12 innings. Vernon slipped into the cellar as a result of the game, and Portland came out.

Vernon had scored one in her half of the twelfth on three singles. When Portland came up, Manager Duffy Lewis of the Beavers opened with a double to left field, and Ricomida duplicated the feat, scoring Lewis and tying the score again. Stuts, who batted for Rowland, was safe on a fielder's choice. Benton walked, and the bases were full. Hummel struck an infield single past Finn, and the game was won.

The coast league scores yesterday:

At Portland— R. H. E.
Portland.....3 12 0
Vernon.....4 8 3
Batteries: Pillette and Hannah; Rachee, Winters and Rowland.

At Seattle— R. H. E.
Oakland.....5 11 0
Seattle.....12 15 2
Batteries: Kuna, Fowler, Arlett, DeWeger and Baker; Plummer and E. Baldwin.

At San Francisco— R. H. E.
San Lake.....4 7 5
San Francisco.....15 10 0
Batteries: Murphy, Baehr, Peery and Peters; Williams and Yella.

Merriwell Affair is Staged on Diamond

(By NEA Service)
CLEVELAND, April 30.—A situation akin to some of those that need to confront the Merriwell boys in diamond fiction, cropped out in a game between Cleveland and St. Louis here the other day.

Here was the setting:

It was the last half of the ninth; the score was tie; the Indians had three men on the paths and two down and the count on Chick Fawceter, the batter, was three and one.

Joe Bush was hurling for the Browns. He was in the toughest kind of a hole. He must pitch the well-known "triple." Failure to get a strike over would force in the winning run. And if it got by for a strike, he must shoot another one.

Joe came through. He was equal to the occasion. The first pitch was a perfect strike. Fawceter using good judgment, letting it sail over without offering at it. Everything then depended on the next pitch. Again Bush shot it true, Fawceter lofting up an easy fly. "Bullet Joe" had crawled out of the smallest kind of a hole.

In the very next inning Bush got a

Billy Evans Says

ALTHOUGH the American League season is just getting under way, Eddie Collins in his new role as manager, is convinced that the pitching problem is a big league boss' greatest concern.

After a game in which Collins was forced to make four pitching shifts to win a game in which his club scored 11 runs, he remarked to me:

"Now I can't understand what managers meant, when after a tough game they remarked that battle just took a year of my life.

"While I have always realized the great importance of pitching, yet it is never quite so apparent to the mere player as manager.

"In a ticklish situation you are confronted with many conflicting doubts. In an effort not to burn up your pitching staff you want to game as long as you can with a wavering pitcher.

"And regardless of what you decide to do the second game, in a great many instances, makes your judgment look faulty.

"It is already evident to me that my job of handling pitchers is perhaps more important to the success of the Sox than my second base play."
