OLD ONIONS AND POTATOES HIGH

Holders Ask Almost Anything and Get Away With it, Says Report

PORTLAND, Ore., May 1.—There is almost a runaway market prevailing in old onions and potatoes locally. Although new crop stocks are coming liberally and prices are declining rapidly, holders of old stocks of potatoes and onions are asking prices almost unreasonable—and getting them. Very little of the old crop remains in this state and the few dribbles, here and there, are in strong hands.

Restaurants, hotels and the grocers are still using old stock and need it, and naturally must pay the price. It is doubtful however, if old potatoes and onion prices will go much higher.

Today old potatoes, U. S. No. 1 grade of Burbanks are selling wholesale at $2.75 with some fancy Deschutes gems bringing $3. Number 1 Yakima gems are firm at $3 and probably will be held a quarter higher the first of the week.

Buyers have to pay $2.25 to $2.35 in the country for old potatoes today and $55 a ton in Yakima.

New crop potatoes are plentiful at 5½ to 6c and getting cheaper with each new shipment.

Extreme prices on old onions as high as $6 are heard along the street with bulk of sales around $5.75. Some resales of Australian browns have been jobbed at $5.50. Some of the houses already out of old crop stock. Good Sherwood stock would probably cost around $5 to $5.25 in the country is available.

New crop white wax onions are coming in now with the market down around 6½c to 7c. New onions are getting cheaper as the supply increases and this will no doubt check the upward flight of old onions.
