

APPEALS FOR BOYS TO ATTEND COURSE OF ARMY TRAINING

To fill Lane county's quota of 20 recruits for the annual citizens' military training camp to be held at Camp Lewis June 19 to July 15 an effort will be made to enlist the interest of boys who will complete their high school work next month, according to Colonel J. M. Williams, who is actively boosting for the camp here.

The government is offering an opportunity for young men between the ages of 17 and 21 to attend their summer training camps. The quota for Lane county is 20, and should be readily filled," Colonel Williams said. The daily routine of the camp is something like this: Men arise at 6:30 a. m., after nine hours of refreshing and undisturbed sleep. Breakfast comes at 7 and at 8 the drills begin and for half an hour there are exercises which develop the muscles and coordinate the movements. Then follow a couple of hours of drill and by that time all are ready for dinner. Interspersed with the drills is instruction in citizenship and personal hygiene. This instruction teaches duty to himself, home, and finally to his country.

Later in the afternoon men are allowed to participate in various athletics. Every evening classes with a military ceremony and retreat, men retiring to their bunks at 9:30. All of this training, which occupies a full month, is absolutely without expense to the young man who attends. The government pays his way from his home to the camp and back again, including meals and other expenses enroute. The outlays need not cost a cent out of his pocket. The government provides uniforms, equipment, arms, laundry, medical attention and all other necessities. Even recreation is provided for with moving picture shows and other forms of entertainment.

CREED C. HAMMOND WILL VISIT EUGENE

Major General Creed C. Hammond, head of the United States militia bureau, is expected to be in Eugene the latter part of the week, probably Friday, on his trip south from Portland where he arrived yesterday. General Hammond left Washington, D. C., last Saturday on an inspection trip over the Pacific coast to various national guard centers, including Portland and San Francisco. A stop is also scheduled for Eugene according to advance word of his itinerary received here.

Thursday night General Hammond will attend the review to be given in Portland on occasion of the retirement of Master Sergeant George H. Bates, United States army. Following this review the guard officers will give General Hammond a reception in the officers' clubroom at the armory. General Hammond plans to leave Thursday night for the south. He will visit at Omaha, Neb., and Columbus, O., on the way east.

Junior Vaudeville Will be Given at Heilig This Week

One of the leading theatrical attractions of the week will be the Junior Vaudeville, which will be staged at the Heilig theater Friday and Saturday by the Junior class of the university. The best of campus talent, musical, dramatic and humorous has been selected for the performances by Paul Krauss, who is in charge. From the opening number to the closing turn the action will be fast and snappy, announces Krauss, and every act will be a "headliner." An act that is shortly to enter the professional field, a dancing act by Desbert Faust and Edna Dipple, two talented young actors, will be a feature. A certain act written by Al Clark will be presented with all the rattle and fire of this type.

The prize winning April frolic act, with elaborate additions, will be staged by Gamma Phi Beta, and Jane Scriptures will present a number of popular songs in the manner so popular at present.

A musical act, "sans man" will be put on by Alpha Xi Delta, in which elaborate costumes, a rich setting, and a variety of numbers will vie for attention. A "barber shop quartet" has also been rounding into form for the affair.

The Pied Pipers, one of the best orchestras that has ever been heard on the campus, is rehearsing daily on a number of selections. The few that have been privileged to hear these have declared them to be startling as well as musical.

One complete performance will be given each night, Friday and Saturday.
