

CASCADE FOREST MEN TO BE GIVEN TESTS ON WORK

All employees of the Cascade National Forest will be given a written examination on their phase of forest work, announced Nelson F. Macduff, supervisor, today. A series of questions will be prepared by Mr. Macduff and by Smith L. Taylor, senior forest ranger and every forest man, whether new or old, will be required to pass the tests.

The examinations will be based on the manuals which are issued for each brand of service. It is said. Thus the look-outs will be required to show a knowledge of the material in the look-out book, the firemen will be tested on the fire fighting instructions, and road and trail foremen and workers will be tested both on road and trail work, and on fire fighting methods as well. All examinations will be written and will be given by Mr. Macduff or Mr. Taylor.

Knowledge is essential. "It is highly essential that every forest worker know his duties," says Mr. Macduff, "and we are giving these tests not so much to determine his fitness, but to give him an idea of what is required of him."

Even the cooks will be examined, declares Mr. Macduff. "A cook, to pass the examination will have to prove that he can prepare a meal without a frying pan, a pair of lard and a can opener," he says. Good cooks are essential to efficient crews, it is stated.

Camp fire permits are to be required in national forests in Oregon this year, according to a letter received today from the chief forester received at the Cascade National forest office. The Santiam and Deschutes forest officials have set June 1 as the date that this order becomes effective, and since there will be quite a bit of interforest travel, the Cascade officials have also decided that all campers will have to obtain the permit after that date.

Regulations Remain Same

The order to obtain the permit applies to all persons entering the forest, who intend to build fires. The regulations governing the permits will be the same as last year, and permits may be obtained from the office in the postoffice here, from the stations at McKenzie Bridge, Blue River, Reserve, Oakridge, and from forestry officials.

Persons building fires without permits, or persons failing to extinguish them, even though they have permits, will be arrested and punished, it is announced. No firecrackers or fireworks of any kind will be allowed in the forest, it is also stated.

Last year approximately 6,000 permits were issued to campers and the number who go to the Cascade forest this year is expected to be even greater, according to advance inquiries, says Mr. Macduff.

Four Areas May Close

The Cascade forest officials have also recommended that four areas be closed to the public this summer. These are: the Salt Creek area, about 50,000 acres; Fall creek and Winberry creek areas, together about 100,000 acres, and the Western Lumber company purchase area, about 2,000 acres. Reasons for closing the Salt Creek area are that the construction work there has resulted in an accumulation of a great deal of inflammable material, and also over 2,000 men are now employed there who would be placed in danger of their lives should a fire start.

The Western Lumber company and all construction companies have prohibited the sale of cigarettes, and are expected to prohibit smoking except in certain selected places. The Western Lumber company area is dangerous due to the fresh slashing caused by logging operations.

Winberry and Fall creek have not been used by many persons, so their closing will not work a hardship on campers, it is stated. Both regions contain old burns that are highly inflammable, and should be given every protection, it is explained. Both also contain valuable timber.

SPY SYSTEM STILL ATTRACTS MANY IN EUROPEAN NATIONS

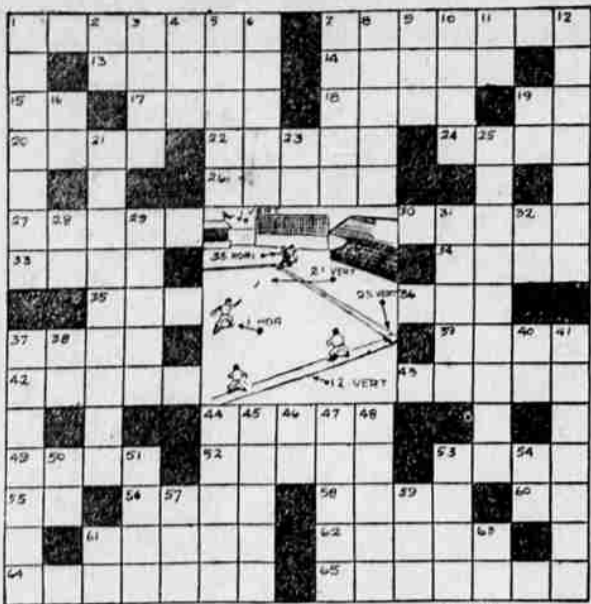

LIVERPOOL, England, May 20.—(AP)—Prof. Bernard John Wilden-Hart, who has made military intelligence in Europe a study, in a lecture here before members of the Liverpool Geographical society, asserted that for several years before the war Germany had spies scattered at various points between Berlin and Brussels. The German army billets in Belgian towns and villages had been straggled and scheduled three years before a shot was fired in 1914, Prof. Wilden-Hart asserted.

The lecturer, who was professor of English at the Imperial Japanese university, Nagoya, from 1910 to 1915, and has written numerous works on the espionage systems in Russia, Germany, Japan, Poland and other countries, said that the German naval plans concerning the battle of Jutland were ascertained by British intelligence officers 24 hours before the Germans moved a vessel for the fight, and that as a matter of fact the English fleet moved first.

For young men desiring a romantic, adventurous career the speaker recommended the intelligence service, and said there were plenty of jobs on the continent awaiting the right men. There were more spies in Europe today, he said, than at any time prior to 1914.

- his arrival there, Adams said, White told.
- Adams quoted White as saying he would accept, "if they mean business."
- White was known as the bodyguard of C. C. Falman, science school head, who confessed he supplied typhoid fever germs to Shepherd and taught him how to administer them. White and Shepherd at one time nearly came to blows when they confronted each other and White identified Shepherd as the man he had seen at Falman's school.

- Thirty-six veniremen have been examined to obtain three tentative jurors, 13 being excused by agreement, 17 for cause, two by state's preemptory challenge and one by a preemptory challenge by the defense.
- White's mysterious disappearance was in line with other intimations and efforts to bribe state witnesses, said the state's attorney.
- Earl P. Clark, former salesman for Falman's school reported recently he had been offered a bribe of $17,000 if he would make affidavit that the entire prosecution against Shepherd was "fraud."
- Shepherd's attorneys, William Scott Stewart and W. W. O'Brien denied knowledge of White's whereabouts or what made him disappear.

Recital Given by Mrs. M. L. Barger

Under direction of Arsh Holt Rae, Mrs. Myra L. Barger of Eugene, assisted by Mrs. Lyman Warnock of Portland presented her vocal recital to an enthusiastic audience at Laraway hall, and earned applause by the excellent rendition of her entire program.

Mrs. Barger was perhaps best in the Polonaise from Magnon, delighting the audience with her coloratura and clarity and brightness of quality. Mr. Warnock proved himself a favorite of real ability and finish. Both soloists were called and recalled for encores. Miss Josephine Taylor as accompanist played with unusual excellence.

CASTLE FURNITURE OF SCOTLAND SOLD

ABERDEEN, Scotland, May 20.—(AP)—Many of the picturesque castles of Scotland are gradually disappearing, or at least being stripped of their articles of historic interest, despite efforts on behalf of various individuals and organizations to preserve them for future generations.

The most recent to be inventoried by the antiquaries is Slains castle, on the Aberdeenshire coast, where the Earl of Kroll, heritable high constables of Scotland, held their state. Most of the castle owners aver they have been forced to sell the ancient dwellings because of high taxes and the cost of upkeep.

Before the war Slains castle counted among its visitors the Earl of Oxford and his family, who spent a summer there. In 1914 Dame Clara Butt and her husband made a stay of several months. Recently, however, the castle has been uninhabited, and now the last of its furnishings have been sold under the auctioneer's hammer.

At one time the art treasures of the castles were worth thousands of pounds and its library consisted of more than 8000 volumes. Among its manuscripts were the charters of Bruce and the paintings included works by Vandyke, Reynolds, Gainsborough and others.

The castle stands in a unique position. A person cannot walk around it. It was "built upon the margin of the sea," so that the walls of one of the towers seem only a continuation of the perpendicular rock, the foot of which is beaten by the waves. "I would not, for my amusement, wish for a storm," wrote Dr. Johnson in his "Scottish tour," "but as storms, whether wished for or not, will sometimes happen, I may say that I should willingly look upon them from Slains castle."

Suicide try With Mud Leap is Fluke

BERKELEY, Cal., May 20.—(AP)—Following a quarrel with her husband, a comely young Berkeley matron early today fled their home and walked hurriedly and tearfully in the direction of San Francisco bay with the announced intention of "ending it all."

Stumbling through the darkness out onto a little wharf, the woman who was tired of life paused for a moment and shuddered as she gazed down into the black waters. Then she gritted her teeth and jumped.

The tide was out. She landed in six inches of water and four feet of mud and ooze. Her screams summoned police.

At the emergency hospital attendants scraped off the thickest of the coating of mud and sent the patient home, weeping but with renewed determination to carry on.

Patterson School Beats Campus High

Patterson school's baseball team won over University high school's seventh grade yesterday afternoon, by a score of 11 to 10. The line-up was as follows:

Oxford Boys Step Out in Real Style

OXFORD, England, May 20.—(AP)—For several years past Oxford men of adventurous character have been experimenting with new fashions in evening clothes. They have tried coats without tails, and coats with white lapels, and double breasted coats with knee breeches, but always in vain.

At last a new style has been accepted. Young Oxford men of means and spirit now go out on an evening in silk stockings, light silk knee breeches, blue or purple velvet jackets, and cream silk shirts much frilled at the throat and the cuffs.

While the fashion is not greatly suitable for subway or rainy evening wear it is declared by its proponents to be certainly more picturesque and a vast deal more pleasing than the "fall dress" which what they characterize as the dullest of last centuries, has decreed should enslave mankind when he steps out for a bit of an evening.
