Good to Begin Well Better to End Well

When you buy a suit at a bargain you may begin well or you may not. It certainly will be a poor bargain if the suit doesn't end well.

If the suit or overcoat does give good service, you've made a bargain certainly. If it doesn't, you've made a poor investment no matter how little you may have paid for it.

After all a bargain in clothes, as in anything else, cannot be judged upon initial expense alone. It must be based upon the proper ratio between first cost and last--between the price you pay and the service you get.

More and more are people beginning to realize that good clothes really are the best investment one can make—Kuppenheimer Good Clothes especially. They not only look better but look better longer.

We have a mighty interesting selection from which to choose. Here you are certain to find a suit or overcoat that will agree with your ideas of correct style and good appearance. And the price will please you, too.
