RIFFS STAND GROUND IN FRENCH ATTACK

RABAT, French Morocco, May 23. —AP—The Riffian tribesmen are standing their ground stoutly against the forces seeking to oust them from the French zone and although General Count De Chambrun's success in Thursday's and Friday's operations is unquestioned Abd-el-Krim and his followers still loom as formidable foes.

French military men at the headquarters here say the Riffians have shown themselves to be thoroughly disciplined along the lines developed during the World war and that the French everywhere in De Chambrun's operations captured the enemy's positions only by bayonet charges.

The French found that the enemy offered the stiffest resistance and Riffians successfully only after good artillery preparation exactly as was the practice in the World war.

General Cambray on the right wing has had particularly hard fighting in the recent operations. His men were constantly exposed to a biting fire and won only with the point of the bayonet.

Realizing the difficulties of the campaign, the French are re-inforcing their advance posts, many of which heretofore have been surrounded and often dangerously threatened.

TITLES ANNOUNCED IN MUSIC CONTEST

Selections to be studied by school pupils in the Music Memory contest during the coming week were announced today by Miss Leona G. Masters, supervisor of school music. Following are the titles, and the accompanying descriptions:

La Paloma (The Dove).....Yradier

This is a Spanish love-song that is very popular with the Spanish people. The rhythm is distinctly Spanish.

Festival of Bagdad ..... Rimsky - Korsakow

Rimsky-Korsakow was a modern Russian composer who liked especially to create musical pictures—to describe scenes with music rather than with words.

He composed a group or "Suite" of pieces called "Scheherezade Suite" to describe scenes in the "Arabian Nights" tales.

One of the pieces of this "Suite" is the "Festival at Bagdad." It describes the city in a general way—its crowds, bazaars, curious buildings and winding streets, with the hot sun over all. Occasionally a light and delicate dance movement is heard.

Hungarian Rhapsody No. 2....Liszt

Franz Liszt was a great Hungarian pianist and composer of the nineteenth century. He composed many "Hungarian Rhapsodies" but probably the second is the best known.

The Hungarians have a national dance called the "Czardas." This composition tells you what it is like. It is divided into two parts, as is the dance; the first part called the "Lassu" is slow and the second part, called the "Friska," is rapid and eccentric.

Secretary Weeks Will Recuperate In New England

WASHINGTON, May 23.—(AP)—Secretary Weeks will spend three months resting in New England, expecting to return to his desk at the war department, by September, fully recovered from an illness which began April 12.

He left Washington for Boston last night to consult physicians regarding a possible operation to relieve him of gall bladder trouble, which developed during his convalescence after a thrombosis attack.

President Coolidge talked with the secretary at his home yesterday and was advised that Mr. Weeks had about shaken off the effects of the thrombosis ailment and that he hoped to resume his duties after a rest at his New Hampshire farm.

Blue Bell Butter Highly Commended

T. B. Klock, of Seattle, who is a butter broker, stopped at the Eugene Farmers' creamery on his way to Los Angeles, where he will handle butter temporarily because of the present high price at that market.

Mr. Klock examined the Blue Bell brand of butter and spoke very highly of it, saying it would sell well on any market. Its high quality is due to the cream grading campaign that the Eugene Farmers' creamery is putting on, by paying premium for high grade cream, M. M. Boney states. The farmers are favorable to this campaign and are co-operating to turn out quality goods, Mr. Boney says.

The three essentials for high quality cream, according to Mr. Boney, are cleanliness, quick cooling of cream, and maintaining this cold temperature; and frequent delivery.

"Cleanliness of all utensils that the milk touches is a big factor," declares Mr. Boney. "Good butter is never made from poor cream."

A number of groups of farmers are co-operating in the hauling of cream, one group of eight men bring it in twice a week at a distance of 40 miles. By co-operating each man makes only one trip a month.

AMERICAN AUTHOR DEFENDS COLLEGES

fancied and largely the result of prejudice. The man who has attended a men's college like, say Amherst, is more or less prejudiced against co-education, not realizing that the difference between the two kinds of colleges is primarily a fancied one."

Mr. Seldon further pointed out that as a rule wherever there is a men's college there is usually a college for women not far off, and that there is generally a kind of social life, corresponding to that existing in the average co-educational institution, arranged between the two.

With regard to college athletics, Mr. Seldon was somewhat non-committal. "Personally, I cannot help but believe that there is too much time and money devoted to athletics in the larger universities. We are having too many million-dollar stadiums ,and it seems to me the money could be used to promote much greater needs; procure better instruction, construct new buildings or something else more vital to real student life."

When asked if he thought the fraternities and the sororities on the average college campus were in complete control, Mr. Seldon answered yes and no. "From a social point of view they seem to be in control, but politically they are not so strong." He added that in a majority of the universities he had visited thus far, notably at Stanford and California, the heads of the student bodies were non-fraternity men. The fraternities, it seems, are unable to get together on any one candidate, while the "barbs" are pretty well consolidated.

Parents Should be 1000 Miles Away Says Salem Judge

SALEM, Ore., May 23.—"If I had my way about it there would be a law on the statute books requiring all young married couples to live at least 1,000 miles away from their parents."

"If every wife whose husband took a drink were to be given a divorce, two thirds of the families in the country would be disrupted."

Thus commented Judge L. H. McMahon here today in refusing to grant a divorce to Josephine Cook from her husband, William Cook and the case was continued for the reason that the court found there had been too much parental interference. Cook was recently arrested here and bound over to the grand jury along with ten other men on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor girl, but the judge said that the nearest he could determine relative to that affair was that "about all Cook did was to make an ass of himself." Cook is said to have driven the car that carried several men and girls.

The trial showed that for a time the Cooks lived with the wife's parents and couldn't get along well, then tried living with the husband's parents and couldn't get along there.
