COAST RED CROSS MEET AT SEASIDE

The annual first aid and life saving institute of the Pacific branch of the American National Red Cross will be held at Seaside, May 31 to June 7, announces Miss Grace Norton, executive secretary for Lane county Red Cross. Several persons who are interested in the work, in addition to those connected with the Red Cross work, are expected to go from Lane county, it is stated.

The preliminary purpose of the institute is for intensive instruction in life saving, swimming, camp protection and first aid, and a corps of competent instructors will be in attendance to supervise the work, it is said. Commodore W. E. Longfellow, assistant national director of Red Cross life saving service, will head the faculty. He will be assisted by L. E. Palmer, former University of Oregon student, now life saving representative of the Pacific branch office; E. H. Carroll, life saving field representative; Paul H. Haudepohl, physical director Yakima public schools and Miss Mille Scholth, swimming instructor, Portland public schools.

The courses will include life saving, elementary and advanced, swimming, elementary and advanced, with analysis of swimming strokes and easy progression for beginners; aquatic competition in life saving; aquatic recreation, games, pageantry; and use of life saving equipment, protection of pools and bathing beaches.

An important part of the course will be a thorough training in first aid in the standard and advanced courses. Water first aid will also be taught. The duties of examiners will be a separate line of instruction.

Men and women interested in Red Cross work from all over the Pacific coast are expected to attend the sessions, says Miss Norton, since this is the most important Red Cross meeting to be held on the coast this year.

Public Recital by Miss Ruth Akers to Be Given Thursday

Miss Ruth Akers, soprano, assisted by Miss Bernice Yeo, pianist, will give her senior recital Thursday evening, May 28, at 8:15 o'clock, in the school of music auditorium, it is announced today.

A comprehensive program will be sung, which will include groups from Italian, German, French and English schools. An aria from the "Persian Garden" by Liza Lehmann, will complete the program. Miss Yeo will contribute two charming numbers by Faure.

Miss Akers is well and favorably known on the campus as the possessor of a lovely soprano voice, and has been very active in things musical. She is a member of Mu Phi Epsilon, and is assistant director of the Girls' Glee club, and has appeared repeatedly with that organization as soloist. She also has been soloist in the Presbyterian church for several years. She is a pupil of John B. Siefert.

Miss Yeo, who graduates this year, is an accomplished pianist, and has a very fine reputation as a musician of high order.

The public is cordially invited to the recital, it is announced.

Permits Issued for Four Residences

Several permits to build residences were taken out at the office of the building inspector, W. H. Alexander today. A general increase in building, especially in homes, is looked for now that good weather seems to have arrived, says Mr. Alexander.

A residence will be built by Lars Kaurhus at 2343 Columbia street, to cost $2500. Work will start on this at once. Albert Ok will also build a house to cost $2500 at 2350 Columbia, according to permit issued.

Marjorie V. Leonard obtained a permit to build a residence to cost $2500 at 1758 Willamette street, yesterday. A permit to build a small bungalow to cost $1000 at 1961 Agate street was granted to H. R. Axtell. E. H. Bingenheimer will remodel a residence for Irene B. Crossley, at 371 Seventh avenue west, according to permit issued.

Portland to Have Greeting for Ship

SALEM, Ore., May 26.—Members of the battleship Oregon commission, who returned to Salem yesterday from Bremerton navy yard, reported that the Oregon will reach Portland harbor June 8, being brought down the coast from Bremerton by three government tugs. Only steam enough will be carried in the Oregon's boilers to operate the steering gear. The queen of the Rose Festival will be aboard when the ship comes into Portland.

The commission has been unable to find any trace of the famous silver service that the people of Oregon presented the ship after the Spanish war at a cost of $35,000.

Scout Troop Takes Hike to Row River

An overnight hike was enjoyed by boys of the St. Mary's Catholic church troop last Saturday night, when the scouts, with their scout master and assistant hiked to Row river, near Cottage Grove.

were enjoyed by the scouts, and Sunday morning all attended church services in Cottage Grove. Other hikes are planned by the troop for the coming summer.

The Lane county council approves Sunday hikes only when it is possible for the boys to attend church services on Sunday, states C. R. Clark, scout executive. During the summer camps services for boys of all denominations will be held, and this will be an important part of the boys' work.

FIELD TRIALS CLUB MEETS HERE MAY 30

A meeting of the Oregon Field Trials association has been called for Saturday night, May 30, here, announces W. R. (Obak) Wallace, president. Many members of the club are to be in the city attending the state trap shoot at that time, and as many matters of importance are coming up, it was decided to call the session.

H. Y. (Hy) Everding, sportsman of Portland; Dr. John Gill, past president of the association last year; C. S. Whitmore, editor of Sportsman and Fancier; and several other members will be at the meeting to discuss the coming field trials next fall. A record number of entries for the Eugene event is expected, and committees to attend to preliminary arrangements for the big meet will be appointed at the session, it is reported.

The association will also discuss the proposal to hold a bench show in conjunction with the Lan county fair here September 22, 23, 24 and 25.

The dog show, which would include the entries brought down from all over the coast for the field trials, would attract a lot of attention at the fair, it is believed, and at the same time would interest many people in the county in the field trials. The matter has already been mentioned to the fair board, and it is believed favorable action will be taken if room can be found on the grounds for the show.

A large number of field trial dogs are now in training in and about Eugene for the fall trials. Walter McCornack, local sportsman, has 36 in his kennels now, and is expecting others within a short time. Many prominent Lane county sportsmen will enter dogs in the trials here and other places in the northwest, it is said.

INVESTIGATION FOR JURY 'FIXING' PLAN

have been attempts to "fix" prospective jurors in the Shepherd case.

An inquiry into all cases conducted by Shepherd's lawyers in the past six months was ordered by the prosecutor after receipt of a letter from Robert White, missing witness, which contained charges that he had been forced by defense attorneys to make an affidavit in behalf of Shepherd.

White, claimed also by the state as an important witness, wrote from Philadelphia after several days disappearance, declaring he had been forced to flee for his life.

A detective was sent last night to return White here for the trial.

Mr. Crowe announced that even the wives of jurors in the Stewart-O'Brien cases and members of their families would be interrogated by his office.

Attorneys Stewart and O'Brien expressed resentment when appraised of Mr. Crowe's plan.

"We welcome any investigation that anyone wants to make," said Stewart. "It is no hardship on us to have an investigation conducted," but it is a hardship on honest jurors who returned the verdicts.

EUGENE TO BE MADE KNOWN TO SHRINERS

The Shrine convention at Los Angeles June 2, 3, and 4, will be an event of national interest, local Shriners say, and several are planning to attend the sessions. The Shriners going from here will join the Portland and Salem parties en route, it is said. Many special features are planned by the southern California city, and from point of attendance, the convention will be one of the largest to be held on the coast this year. Special trains are coming from all over the United States for the event.

Although the thousands of Shriners who will pass through Eugene to and from the national convention will for the most part stop here but a few minutes, they will all be royally welcomed to Eugene, says E. Eugene Chadwick, secretary of the chamber of commerce. Literature, especially the booklet, "Eugene, the Heart of Oregon's Outdoors," will be distributed on the trains, and an invitation to stop here will be given to all passing through.

Trains Through Here

Nearly every special train en route to Los Angeles will be routed through Eugene, according to L. L. Graham, district freight and passenger representative of the Southern Pacific. Most of the trains are coming to Los Angeles by the southern routes, and will be sent up this way on the way back east. This is a great advantage to the northwest, since it will give the visitors a chance to stop over at the various scenic places en route.

"If Eugene is properly advertised to these men, many will stop off here for fishing parties, and to look over the Willamette valley," says Mr. Graham. The Southern Pacific will also help to advertise the various points of interest along the line, and Eugene and the surrounding country will be talked up as one of the high lights of the trip, it is said.

Specials to Start Today

The special trains are scheduled to begin arriving this week-end. The delegation from Boston, 500 delegates in their own special train, will pass through here Saturday morning, it is announced. More than 1000 Shriners will pass through here June 7, bound for Portland, where a special celebration is planned. And 2800 are due to pass through the following day.

An idea of the number of delegates who will come west can be gleaned from the information that 32 trains, carrying only Shriners, will leave Chicago today. The convention at Los Angeles is expected to be the biggest in the history of the order, it is stated.

Editorial

We are trying to make every minute in this store a busy minute.

We want to get our overhead expense to the minimum, and we will sell merchandise accordingly.

Help us help you.

When it costs us less to sell goods we will sell them for less.

We are now operating with an overhead expense of only six per cent, which is only one-third the average for grocery stores throughout the United States.

We are going to cut that overhead to five per cent if we get the right co-operation from our customers.

That's the reason we say again—

Help us help you.

Yours very truly
