BUTTER SUPPLY AT PORTLAND HEAVIER

PORTLAND, Ore., May 28.—Holdings of storage butter in Portland increased 92,244 pounds during the week. Firmer prices are prevailing.

According to the federal bureau of markets, storage holdings of butter in all coast cities were 929,873 pounds greater for the week to May 23 than at the close of the preceding week.

At the six principal Pacific coast cities the total of 4,007,149 pounds of storage butter at the close of last week exceeded the total of the corresponding week of last year, by 641,746 pounds.

More eggs are in storage in Portland now than a week ago, the increase being 3788 cases. Compared with a year ago the increase is 3545 cases.

Strawberry prices are firmer in the local market than they were yesterday. This is due to surplus stocks moved from Portland to outside markets and to the rain which will diminish the picking today and tomorrow. Berries that are unpicked will come onto the market Monday because of the double holiday Saturday and Sunday, probably there will be an oversupply early next week, depending much on the weather. Prices today are 25 to 50 cents a case higher than yesterday. They range from $2.25 to $2.75.

Country dressed veal is sluggish. Poultry and hogs are unchanged.

Mill feed was advanced $1 a ton today in the local market.
