ENSEMBLE EFFECT NOW IN BATHING SUITS

Manufacturers Apparently Sold on Ziegfeld's Idea That Beauty of American Girl Should be Glorified

Bathing costume at left illustrates new ensemble effect. It is made of bright-colored printed cretonne. Other models illustrate new suits, with embroidery in brilliant colors, and new bandana bathing caps.

(By NEA Service) NEW YORK, May 27.—The bathing suit manufacturers evidently are completely sold on Ziegfeld's idea that the American girl should be glorified, and never more so than when taking a daily dip. For there's many a "revealing" suit among the new models. And the girl who likes to look lovely on the beach and doesn't care much about the water has every type to select from. There are suits of silk, satin and velvet, and then the more summery type of gingham and flowered chintz in gay colors, usually bound and trimmed with plain colors. There are corsets and shoulder bouquets of rubber that are quite as lovely as those of velvet or silk before they strike the water and infinitely more lovely afterward. There are scarfs and ties of rubberized silk that make it possible to carry out the latest effects in the line of collars and belts. In bathing caps, nothing is more popular than the printed scarf of rubberized silk, under which the swimmer may wear a close-fitting cap and save her waves. Other caps of rubber are trimmed with flowers and applied effects that are copied after the most advanced styles in millinery. If the waves are wild this summer, no one can hold it against them.

on the McKenzie, were used about the rooms, while potted plants were arranged around the parlors. Mrs. McMurphy was assisted by Miss Leah McMurphy and Miss Irene Livermore. For this occasion especially invited guests were present and included Mrs. E. A. Lewis, Mrs. S. J. Wilson, Mrs. Fred Clark, Mrs. H. F. Hollenbeck, Mrs. Nettie Harris, Mrs. William Mayer, Mrs. Portland, Mrs. G. C. Akers, of Wasco, Oregon, Mrs. Austin Dodds, and two women from the club with a one o'clock luncheon at her home.

Cynthia Grey Says:

SUPPOSE that you are a girl just out of school. It is not necessary for you to work. Yet you feel that you want to be independent—like so many modern girls do. And so you go into the business world. But are you independent? Believe me all this talk about gaining independence by going into

WHAT IS SO LOVELY AS JUNE BRIDE?

A bride's dress in which beauty of line and richness of material make rich ornamentation unnecessary. Flat crepe and duchess lace make the flounced dress, with matching lace banding the subtle veil. Long pearl tassels from the right shoulder strike a new fashion note.

the business world is sheer bluff," says a young British woman who has been very successful in business. "I fail to see any independence in being at the beck and call of a man, in strap-lugging six days a week, and poor tea-shop luncheons. You don't find the gaiety and change in work that you expect. The girl at home is much more independent. "But more than that, every girl, no matter how independent she may want to be, dreams of marriage. And, believe me, most men prefer the home girl over one who has asserted her independence."

Home Hints

A LITTLE salt added to the crushed strawberries for short cake will bring out their flavor.

To Clean Chandeliers

A soft brush should be used for cleaning the ornamental portions of chandeliers and wall fixtures.

So It Won't Scorch

When filling gem pans with muffins or cake dough leave one section empty and fill it with water and the cakes will never scorch.

To Dry Luggage

Dry luggage in paper toweling if you must use it immediately after washing it.

Washings Plants

Wash house plants in soapsuds occasionally to keep the insects away.

To Revive Colors

A spoonful of vinegar to each quart of rinsing water will often revive faded colors in wash goods.

Fashion Plaques

THE matching bracelet and ebbler of pearls in their natural or colored state, are accessories that are very much in vogue with the sheer summer frocks. Never before have pearls been used so lavishly as this season, and never have imitations been more convincing.

What to do and What Not to do

Directions About Planning Wedding and Honeymoon

ALREADY the approach of June, the month of roses and weddings, has set the heart of many a bride-to-be aflutter with thoughts of the small cares incidental to the wedding and the honeymoon.

It is a wise bride that plans her wedding so as to have a day or two of complete rest at the end, minus the frantic rush that often brings the bride to the altar on the verge of hysteria.

Two frilly afternoon dresses, one formal gown, several dainty house dresses, four pairs of slippers, one of oxfords, a street hat and a sport hat, a light wrap and a heavier coat, two pairs of gloves and a fur scarf will fill the needs of the summer bride.

Lingerie, of course, must be prepared in plenty, and may be as elaborate as the bride's purse will permit.

Household linen should be bought as soon as the bride knows what her house is to be like, and should be chosen, not only for beauty, but for durability.

Wedding invitations should be sent two weeks before the wedding. Four o'clock and 8 o'clock are now favorite hours for weddings, though Catholic and Episcopalian ceremonies are often performed at high noon.

A church wedding will accommodate a great many more guests than a home wedding, of course, but is much more expensive. Decorations should not be overdone, and a simple color scheme harmonizing with the bride's gown should be followed.

Candle light ceremonies are increasing in favor. One of two brides usually preside the ceremony, and the wedding march is played either on the organ or the piano, with a violin obbligato.

A bride chooses her sister or her best friend for home maid or matron, and three or four bridesmaids from her intimate friends. The groom chooses the best man and the bridegroom together select the bridesmaids. If the groom has a sister, she may be included in the bridesmaids. The bride's father or nearest male relative if the father is dead gives her in marriage. It is essential that the entire bride
