

GOVERNOR AND SENATORS HIT

SALEM, Ore., June 1.—Governor Pitcock and 13 state senators were flayed by State Treasurer Kay today in an address before the Salem chamber of commerce. He charged them with plunging the state into the alleged financial morass in which it is now said to be floundering. Nine of the senators, he said, were republicans who yielded to the influence of the only four democrats in the senate, and among the nine he specifically mentioned the two Marion county senators.

Kay went on record today as opposed to the Dennis resolution, to be voted on in November, 1926, and which would inhibit the assessment of income or inheritance taxes in Oregon for a period of 15 years. He explained that while he opposed the recent state income tax, now repealed, he would favor an income tax under proper conditions. One reason given for repealing the income tax act of 1923 was that the federal government assesses a very heavy income tax.

The main issue before the 1925 legislature, said Kay, was whether the legislature would put the governor in a hole, or the governor would put the legislature in a hole.

"I have to admit," he said, "that the governor succeeded, with the aid of a group of senators who stood by him."

The governor didn't stop with putting the legislature in a hole, said Mr. Kay, but put the whole state in a hole and he declared that the governor with the aid of Jefferson Myers, then state treasurer, violated the law in failing deliberately to levy a sufficient state tax, and that they did it for no other purpose than out of revenge for the repeal of the income tax.

Soldier Stands as Soldier's Memorial

A sundial, which not only marks the lofty eminence of Inspiration Point overlooking Eugene, but stands as a permanent monument to the soldier lad who made it, has been installed by C. C. Whitten, on a section of his property which has been dedicated to the public. It is the work of his cousin, Frank Thomas, who enlisted early in the late World war in an engineering corps from Seattle.

NOTI MAN DIES OF INJURIES IN CRASH

Eugene. Apparently Mr. McDonald was caught beneath the wreckage, and crushed about the body.

The auto came to a stop in a mass of logs and tall ferns at the foot of the grade, and passing motorists came to the rescue. A doctor was summoned, and at 2:30 o'clock Mrs. McDonald was brought to Eugene. The scene of the tragedy was 28 miles from Eugene, and the ambulance's round trip was made in 50 minutes, according to those who accompanied it.

Mr. McDonald, who is a well-known citizen of Noti, leaves his widow, one daughter and two sons, Frances McDonald, Chester McDonald, and Fletcher McDonald. He was a member of the Baptist church and the I. O. O. F. lodge.

Funeral arrangements are in charge of the Veatch chapel and will be announced after the arrival here of Mr. McDonald's mother, who resides at Salem.

SCOTT'S TRIP TO POLE RECALLED

sen did. In 1912, He photographed Amundsen's cairn and flag and started back.

The antarctic winter struck with unleashed fury. Food and fuel gave out, Scott and his men blizzard made progress impossible.

They were only 11 miles from a supply depot, but they could not continue. Months later their frozen bodies were found near a long-dead campfire.

Balloon Disappears

Others, too, found an unseen death in the polar lands.

Strangely like a Swedish airman, S. A. Andree, who in 1897, sailed north from Spitzbergen in a balloon. The balloon is still up there, somewhere, its fishy envelope encased in ice and its occupant eternally buried in the white, unbroken silence.

Disease Brings Death

Sir Ernest Shackleton was still another. After a life time of exploration in the ice fields, he died of disease on his ship while at sea near the antarctic continent in 1922.

Sir John Franklin was still another.

In 1845 he sailed from England with two ships, the Erebus and the Terror, to explore north of Greenland. His ship was sighted in Baffin Bay months later by a whaler, and then the cold arctic silence settled down.

nine, making an easy mashie shot all that is required to place the ball on the ample green some 190 yards distance.

Roy Moe, the Corvallis player, stepped to the tee, tapped it lightly and sent it flying for a beautiful approach, three feet from the cap. The Eugene contingent thereupon donated Moe a two, and considered the hole lost.

But Gardner was yet to be reckoned with. Following Moe, he took careful stance, and sent the ball straight to the flag. The shot was perfect, rolling squarely into the bucket without a stray bounce.

The Eugene player took the next hole, and thereby clinched the match.

Word Spoken for Legion Endowment

EUGENE, Ore., June 1.—(To the Editor)—There is in progress in Eugene at present, as elsewhere throughout our state and nation, a campaign for support for a proposed endowment fund, to be devoted by the American Legion to the purpose of extending aid to disabled veterans of the world war and to destitute dependents of veterans. There is also the purpose, as regards the campaign in Oregon, of contributing substantially towards the maintenance of the proposed Dusenbercher hospital for crippled children in Portland.

I believe the public already has been made familiar, with the details of both of these purposes, and the necessity and desirability of the work which both aim to accomplish. I am glad, at the request of the local American Legion campaign committee, to give this campaign my indorsement.

Yours truly,
 GEORGE H. MEMORRAN.

G. A. R. Members Guests at Kiwanis

Veterans of the Civil war were guests of the Kiwanis club at its noon luncheon today. The Memorial day program was planned by Carl McClain and the program committee, J. S. Magidry introduced the commander of the G. A. R. post, who in turn introduced the members present for the luncheon.

E. O. Immel gave a welcoming talk to the veterans, tracing the development of the nation during the span of their lives. The Kiwanis orchestra, consisting of Glen Morrow, Harry Devertaux, Arthur Hendershott and Frank McAllister, played, and the club sang old-time war songs.
