

90 PLAYERS VIE FOR GOLF TITLE AT WORCESTER

WORCESTER, Mass., June 3.—(Special)—Bobby Jones, national amateur champion, was all but out of the running with the first 18 holes of the national open golf tournament completed today. His score of 77 was six above par. Walter Hagen, British open and national professional champion, went around in 72 which placed him up among the leaders.

WORCESTER, Mass., June 3.—(Special)—More than 90 players from all parts of the country were on hand today for the start of the country's annual greatest thrill in golf—the two day 72 hole stroke competition which determines the open championship. Popular belief is that the champion will be one of an outstanding quartet.

Those four are Bill Mehlhorn of Chicago, whose 137 led all qualifiers in the preliminary 36 hole test; Macdonald Smith, north and south open champion and winner of the eastern qualifying play with 140; Walter Hagen, holder of titles galore in the past and incomparable finisher in a pinch and Bobby Jones of Atlanta, present amateur champion, past open champion and holder of the best average record in this tournament ever since he began to play in it as a boy.

When the wrong batter takes his place at the bat, it is not only a matter of the proper procedure for the team in the field to take, provided they notice the error?

The team in the field must make an immediate appeal to the umpire before the ball is pitched to the succeeding batsman. This play is one of the few in baseball that requires an appeal to the umpire. Even though he is aware of the mistake, he pays no attention to it unless the team in the field makes the proper protest.

Baseball is supposed to be a game for five plays. If the umpire ruled on this play it would do away to a certain extent with head-up baseball.

If the team at bat errs, it is up to the team in the field to notice it if they are to profit because of the mistake in the batting order.

Should a ball be pitched to a succeeding batsman before the team in the field discovers the fact that an improper batsman has been at the plate, there is no redress. It must stand as made.

Billy Evans Says—
By BILLY EVANS.
WALTER JOHNSON is pretty generally recognized as baseball's greatest pitcher and deservedly.

Recently, in discussing the great batteries of the game Walter expressed the opinion that Larry Lajoie was the greatest natural hitter he ever faced.

That was rather interesting since Johnson in his long career has faced a flock of great batters.

Walter didn't say Lajoie was the best batter, the craftiest or the hardest to fool. He simply rated him the greatest natural batsman.

He selected Joe Jackson, now out of organized baseball, as a close rival to Lajoie.

When I mention Joe Jackson, Walter explained that his experience against the famous slugger of the Cardinals had been limited to exhibition games, not a very satisfactory way to judge a batter's merits.

Walter named Hornsby as the greatest of the modern day natural batsmen, but puts Lajoie on the pedestal of the greatest natural batsman of all time.

Having inspired with Lajoie and Jackson, who those two players were in their prime. I am inclined to think that it would be hard to improve on Johnson's selections.

Pitcher is Promising

Kenneth Ashby is Keen Hurler

Kenneth Ash
A promising looking youngster is Kenneth Ash, husky right-handed pitcher, who was given a trial with the White Sox during the spring training season. Oldtimers say he has a delivery that reminds of the late Addie Joss, famous Cleveland hurler of 15 years or so ago.

Ash has been let out to the Shreveport club on option but Manager Eddie Collins believes he's a great prospect and will probably recall him at the end of the season.

Los Angeles is Loser to Seattle
SEATTLE, June 3.—(Special)—Preparing for the raising of the Pacific Coast league pennant at the Seattle baseball park today, the Indians defeated Los Angeles in a six inning game yesterday, 3 to 1. Rain halted the game after the first time for a few minutes and the second for good. Brazil hit a homer and Herman a triple for Seattle in the first inning.

Baseball Puzzlers
[There are runners on first and second base and one out. The batsman hits a drive that travels to a remote corner of the playing field. It is a home run, scoring the two men on the bases at the time. The runner originally on second fails to touch third on his way to the plate. The ball is thrown to that base and he is declared out.]

Does the act of the runner who failed to touch third in any way affect the status of the succeeding runner?

The runner scored by the runner originally on first and the batsman who hit the home run count.

The failure of the runner on second to touch third in no way affects the status of a succeeding runner who touches each base in its proper order.

Therefore no consideration should be given the claim that the runner on first should be declared out for technically passing a base runner, since he actually touched third base ahead of the player on second when the hit was made.

Section four of rule 52 fully covers this play.

The NUT CRACKER

BY JOE WILLIAMS

THE phone barked vociferously. The sporting editor, due to some utterly inexplicable cause, was in the office working. He answered it.

A voice sharp with indignation announced itself as belonging to Howling Rover, the celebrated hot-dog in the Halo Both drama.

"I want to know," demanded Mr. Rover, "what you guys on the paper have got against me and how long you are going to keep it there."

The sporting editor returned the flank to the upper left-hand drawer and said he didn't know what it was all about and would Mr. Rover please continue, if necessary.

"I want to know why it is," persisted Mr. Rover, "that whenever Halo Both gets dandruff on his coat collar or fails to fill a one-card draft that I get the blame."

"Simply because the Halo makes his bosom friend the editor suppose Mr. Rover intended to say stomach friend) must I be held up before my peers as an object of ridicule and scorn?"

"I've stuck with the Halo through thick and thin, and I want to say our companionship is something more than a mere passing fancy, if you know what I mean. (The editor thinks he does. Mr. Rover means it is something more than mere puppy love.)"

"What I'm trying to get over is that it's darned unfair to lay the odious lapse of the Halo on me. It gives me a bad name in the community. People who used to say I was all to the mustard are now complaining that I ought to be muzzled. It's things like that that get under my skin."

"You birds seem to forget that I was with the Halo all during 1921 when he cracked out 59 homers. I was thought pretty well of that year. Even stragglers called me by my full name, Hot Zigzaggy Dog!"

"You don't hear the Halo turning against me, do you? And he better not! I've been true to that big egg for a long time now and hell hath no fury like a hot-dog scorned."

(The editor rather thinks Mr. Rover meant scorned.)

Simon R. Lane Dies at Roseburg
ROSEBURG, Ore., June 3.—Simon R. Lane, son of General Joseph R. Lane, the first territorial governor of Oregon, died here Monday morning at the age of 93 years. Mr. Lane was born in Indiana, February 29, 1832, and came to Oregon in 1853, following his father's first term in congress. Soon after his arrival he entered the mercantile business, being located in Winchester, Roseburg and Umatilla landing successively between the years of 1854 and 1864. In the latter year he retired from business and took up the pursuit of agriculture, operating the old Lane ranch east of Roseburg until 1901. He was also interested in mining and during the time of his business career and until 1908 was one of those concerned in the development of the pioneer sand mine in Coos county.

Rheumatism
"Yes! it's all gone."
DO NOT close your eyes and think that health, free motion and strength are gone from you forever! It is not so. You can get rid of your rheumatism by building up your blood. It is a fact that rheumatism means "blood poverty." It is a fact with the increase of red cells in your blood, impurities are destroyed. It is a fact that S.S.S. will help Nature build these red-blood-cells! S.S.S. is one of the most powerful blood cleansers in existence. Its results in thousands of rheumatic cases have been nothing short of amazing! The medicinal ingredients of S.S.S. are purely vegetable. This is very important to remember! What can be more inspiring, more wonderful than to see the shackles of pain released from your struggling body, swellings, lingering pain, stiffness of joints and muscles all disappear; your stomach made strong; your face glow with the old sweet-heart glow, your blood enriched and your cheeks more plump as they used to be. You can do it! Take S.S.S., the great destroyer of rheumatic impurities.
