

"SOCONY CHURCH" ASKED IN SATIRE

NEW YORK, June 8.—(AP)—"Socony Church" is the suggestion of Rev. John R. Straton for the name of the new skyscraper edifice at the new, Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick is to be pastor.

Dr. Straton, fundamentalist and pastor of Calvary Baptist church, yesterday, pointed out the plans of the Park Avenue Baptist church, which is called "Socony" in the trademark of the Standard Oil company of New York.

Dr. Straton suggested that three generations of Rockefeller might hold the new church with an enormous "Socony" electric sign, "Socony" in the trademark of the Standard Oil company of New York.

Newspaper accounts of Dr. Fosdick's first sermon a week ago in the present Park Avenue church all agreed Dr. Straton to satire. John D. Rockefeller, his son, John D., Jr., and the latter's son attended the service and shook hands with members of the congregation. The elder Rockefeller gave alms to several children and one dime fell on the floor.

Said Dr. Straton:

"A picture skillfully painted of the three Rockefeller standing in a row across the chancel and at the base of the shining Standard Oil sign rolling on the carpet and the checky promoter making his wild drive for the money of the Standard Oil company ought to be historically preserved and the best place for it would be directly above the altar."

Mrs. W. Sohlman Of Junction City Accidentally Shot

JUNCTION CITY, June 8.—(Special)—Theodore Sohlman accidentally shot his mother, Mrs. W. Sohlman, Sunday about 1 p. m. He and a companion had returned from a hunting expedition and were preparing to unload their guns. Theodore thought the safety was on his .22 automatic and it accidentally discharged, the bullet striking his mother high in the right thigh.

She was rushed at once to a doctor in Junction City who called the Eugene ambulance and she was taken

Bandon Resort Formally Opened

BANDON, Ore., June 8.—(Special)—With the formal opening of Wecoma Baths, the new salt water natatorium erected by J. F. Kronenberg, Sunday, June 7, Bandon Beach inaugurated the summer tourist season. Although weather conditions have not been favorable, many of the cottages now available for visitors have been occupied during the past two weeks.

Mayor S. N. Croft has named Thursday, June 11, as park clean-up day, an annual event which is made a half-holiday. All the business houses close and the men go out to work in the park, while the women prepare a big picnic dinner at which the entire community gets together for a social time.

Construction work on the various new auto camps is progressing. Altogether there will be about 50 cottages available before the season is well under way.

CENTENNIAL OF NORSEMEN HELD

The Kelllogg home but not until the president clasped the grimy hand of J. W. Murphy, engineer and W. Lang, fireman on the engine which pulled the train into St. Paul with the remark:

"That was a fine ride."

Soldiers Aid Police

Soldiers from Fort Snelling aided police in their efforts to handle the crowd which surged toward the president as he made his way through the station. Even after he had found seclusion at the Kelllogg residence, hundreds of curious folk lingered in an adjoining street.

The president's program today called for a morning of inactivity at the Kelllogg home, followed by his attendance at a luncheon in Minneapolis, tendered by the directors of the centennial. Next in order was Mr. Coolidge's appearance at the fair grounds midway between Minneapolis and St. Paul for his centennial speech, with the later afternoon reserved for rest, preparatory to the state-house reception.

PRESIDENT SPEAKS

MINNESOTA STATE FAIR GROUNDS, June 8.—(AP)—America's success in fostering national unity from its melting pot of diverse racial elements points the way for fraternity and cooperation among peoples on a world-wide scale, President Coolidge declared today in an address at the Norse-American Centennial.

"If fraternity and cooperation," he said, "are possible on the scale of this continent among people so widely diverse, why not on the scale of the world? I feel it is possible of realization. I am convinced that our national story might somewhat help to guide mankind toward such a goal."

The president told his audience that in the midst of "loyalties that are all beyond possibility of question" it was "difficult to choose among the many national and racial groups that have sought out America for their home and their country."

"We are thankful for all of them, and yet more thankful that the experiment of their common citizenship has been so magnificently justified in its results," he said. "If one were seeking proof of a basic brotherhood among all races of men, if one were to challenge the riddle of Babel in support of aspirants for a unity capable of assuring peace to the nations, in such an inquiry I suppose no better testimony could be taken than the experience of this country."

"Out of the confusion of tongues, the conflict of traditions, the variations of historical setting, the vast differences in talents and tastes there has been evolved a spiritual union accompanied by a range of capacity and genius which marks this nation for a pre-eminent destiny. The American people have commanded the respect of the world."

President Coolidge praised the Scandinavian immigrants for their contribution to American life, but made no direct reference to present day immigration problems which prompted congress to enact the law designed to limit the flow of aliens from south Europe and encourage immigration from countries in the northern part of the continent.

Recalling that just one hundred years ago a group of 52 persons set out from Norway on the 45-ton ship Restauration as the first organized party of immigrants from that country, the president said that "Minnesota would not be Minnesota, the group of imperial northwestern states would not be what they are, but for the contribution that has been made to them by the Scandinavian countries."

During the period from 1815 to 1848, Mr. Coolidge asserted, immigration from northern and western Europe not only built the United States "into numbers, wealth and authority in the world, but had a tremendous reflex on Europe."
