

WARNINGS ON CARE TO BE TAKEN WHEN CAMPING SENT OUT

With the start of the outdoor season and the danger of typhoid that lurks in the water of many springs used by campers for drinking purposes, warnings are being sent out by the state board of health, according to announcement today by Dr. S. M. Kerron, city and county health officer.

"It is advisable to boil water taken from these springs unless there is absolute certainty that the water is pure," the health officer states. Boiling will kill all harmful bacteria. It may be remedied by vigorous stirring after it cools.

"Many a healthy, good-tasting spring water, which was highly esteemed in the neighborhood, and which was even bottled for shipment, has been found to be contaminated and a prolific spreader of intestinal diseases, such as typhoid fever and dysentery. The stagnant pool, on the other hand, though it may contain plant life which might give a slight taint, is not likely to be the vehicle of disease. This is for the reason that during the weeks that the water remains stagnant, disease germs starve to death. Most disease germs cannot live long outside the body, they are killed by sunlight, and by the process of purifying city water in large reservoirs, for several weeks, so that germs such as those of dysentery and typhoid die off.

"These germs live in human bodies, and are cast off through the excretions. Where these come into contact with water or food taken into the body, they have an excellent chance of gaining a foothold and producing another case of disease. They are more apt to get into springs and shallow wells than any other water supply by seeping from a deposit of waste through a crack in the soil, or by being washed in by heavy rains. There is no such thing as a spring which, once infected with typhoid germs, retains this infection indefinitely. But often there is a continual pollution of the spring from a constant supply of the germs such as an intermittent outbreak.

"City water supplies have means of procuring pure water, or of making it pure. Smaller supplies often use the chlorine method, which is perfectly safe, relatively cheap and does not require expensive installations. Either a minute quantity of the gas is used directly, or a small amount of bleaching powder is added; the latter receding the 'chlorine bags' used by the army during the war."

Miss Ayers Tells Of Missionary Work

The Christian religion was first brought to the South Sea Islands, where the cannibals are very much in evidence, by Miss Mary F. Ayres, who is now in this city conducting a revival campaign under the big tent on 14th Willamette street.

Miss Ayres states that she felt called to the missionary field when but 17 years of age and since that time has visited several out of the way places where aborigines abound, including New Zealand, India, Australia, both in the densely wooded interior and incorporates her varied experiences with these black and brown men in her sermons.

In addition to her missionary work among savage tribes, Miss Ayres has met many distinguished persons and her pleasing personality coupled with her broad education easily makes one feel that she is no ordinary woman and it is not too much to say that her ability to interest her audience—which are growing larger each evening, is putting it very mildly.

She related a graphic story of some exciting experiences she and a companion went through among the black men of interior Australia, and how her girl companion took sick with tuberculosis and died and she was compelled to bury her in a lonely spot where, white men seldom tread; how she labored among them singlehanded, how she superintended the building of a house by the natives, something she knew nothing about and the natives still less, how poverty stricken they were of the most simple tools and utensils—without a pan, a kettle, a bed, a stove, or anything the white man feels are the most essential to one's meagre requirements.

Miss Ayres will continue her campaign here in Eugene for ten days, or possibly two weeks longer at 7.45 each evening.

Carrier Pigeon is Lost; Owner Sought

"A carrier pigeon came to my place at Elmwood about 10:30 o'clock Wednesday morning," reports George Wilson from Mapleton. "She appears to be lost, and apparently is not inclined to leave our place, but will not let us catch her. The bird has two black bands on her wings. Her feathers are blue gray with green and purplish blue feathers around her neck. Can you put this in the Guard where the owner can see it? Somewhere this pretty pigeon is being missed by someone, who ought to know of its present whereabouts."

PIGEON AT EAGLE POINT

MEFORD, Ore., June 12.—Mrs. A. R. On the right leg the pigeon has a rubber band with the inscription 717 on one side and 746 on the other. On the left leg there is an aluminum band with the inscription A. J. 20-D7810.

McKenzie Pass to Be Opened June 21

With present weather conditions it is expected that the McKenzie pass will be open for traffic not later than June 21, according to the opinion of H. D. Farmer, maintenance engineer of the bureau of public roads, who has an inspection of the work now under way, passed through Eugene yesterday on his return to Portland. The steam shovel at work at about 15 miles west of Sisters is cutting through the drifts and it is expected that the pass will be moved further west within the next few days, the engineer states. Heavy drifts are reported at Cold Springs camp.

AID TO BE ASKED ON MAPLETON ROAD

Assistance from the state highway commission for the Mapleton-Cushman road will be asked by the people of western Lane county, according to Louis E. Bean, local attorney. Residents in the vicinity served by this highway see little chance of obtaining help from the county although they have petitioned to have it declared a market road.

The state commission will be urged to adopt the Mapleton and Florence route to the coast rather than by way of Thompson and North Fork highway. Mr. Bean will present the plans to the state highway commission.

"We have, on this route, 12 or 13 miles of road, eight feet wide, that could be made into an excellent and much needed highway by the expenditure of a few hundred thousand dollars," said Mr. Bean.

"At present it is so narrow that over a stretch several miles long it is impossible for two cars to pass. Some of its grades are steep. It needs improvement badly, but one can easily see that the groundwork is there for expansion."

"It is a state road by reason of its location and the topography of the country. It is a primary highway, being Lane county's outlet to the ocean and this section's most desirable recreation center, and should be so recognized by the state."

"We who have studied the situation believe that the state, which has already spent a million and a half dollars in the Cheesier-Rainrock highway, could do no better than to continue on to the coast by the river route. As it is, the completed road

Fire Fighters to Get 40 Cents Hour

Scale of wages fixed by the state board of forestry, United States forest service and the fire patrol associations for common labor when fighting fire in logging camps or forests in this district the coming summer will be 40 cents an hour, according to information received today.

This uniform rate of pay has been established in an attempt to eliminate the friction and difficulties experienced in former years when varying wage scales were used, it is explained. BUILDING HERE THIRD IN STATE

Eugene stood third in building permits issued during May in Oregon cities, according to the monthly building survey of S. W. Straus and company, just received by W. H. Alexander, city inspector of buildings.

For the first time this year, Eugene was headed by Astoria, which showed $221,435 in comparison with Eugene's $209,000. Klamath Falls' total was $151,099; La Grande, $39,265; Marshfield, $88,950; Medford, $58,225; Salem, $120,950.

Portland's $3,511,195 for May shows remarkable gains. This figure is 6 per cent over April, 32 per cent over that of last May, 39 per cent over May of 1923 and 23 per cent over the May total of 1922. This figure has been exceeded only by March of this year. Six of the nine Oregon cities in the survey show substantial gains over April and last May totals.

Eugene's total is higher than that of any town in Idaho, Utah, excepting Salt Lake, and 55 of the 89 cities reported in the Straus survey.
