

EUGENE SOLDIERS AFTER SPORT CUP AT MEDFORD CAMP

Here's Contrast in Athletes

T. Gerard Wharton, Left, and Eugene Von Stanley
Introducing Rutgers University's lightest and heaviest athletes. In other words, meet T. Gerard Wharton, six feet, two, and weighing 137 pounds, and Eugene Von Stanley, five feet, seven, weight 237.

Eugene national guard troops at Camp Jackson are planning to enter the big program of sports at Camp Jackson for the purpose of bringing back some of the prize awards. It is announced by Major William G. White, commander. The athletic program of the camp will call upon virtually every available man in camp.

A tug of war, composed of ten men from each regiment, with addition of team captain for each team, who will not pull. This is to be one of the features of the field meet.

A rescue race, equipment race, three-legged race, wall climbing stunt, centipede and obstacle race will finish the program.

Winning streak of seven straight games. He was Mack's big threat.

Two days prior to a very important series with New York, Naylor, in closing a fly ball in the outfield, tripped over a rope stretched to limit the crowd that was expected at the game. He had to be helped from the field.

The injury proved far more serious than at first expected, Naylor was out for about two months and never regained his winning ways. The weak knee interfered with his pitching stride. It put him out of the majors finally.

The accident to Naylor started the Athletics on the road to ruin, just somewhere, Sam Gray's case may prove a parallel.

Trophies have been secured, which are to go to the winning regiment, as well as an individual trophy.

In addition to the foregoing, a silver trophy is announced for the winner of an inter-regimental baseball game.

When a pitched ball strikes about a foot in front of the plate and then bounces directly over the heart of the plate, considerably above the knee, is it a strike or a ball?

If the ball after striking the ground in front of the plate was so deflected that it struck the batsman, would he be entitled to first base or would it merely be called a ball?

Puzzle Plays

The bases are filled, two are out and three runs are needed by the home team to win. The manager of the team at bat sends in a pinch-hitter who fails to properly announce his entry into the game to the umpire. He doubles, sending over the plate the three runs needed to win the game.

It is then discovered that the player who made the winning hit was a pinch hitter who failed to inform the umpire of the batsman he was hitting for.

The manager of the team in the field appealed to the umpire to rule the pinch-hitter an improper batsman, making the proper batsman out, retiring the side and erasing the three runs. What about it?

While the pinch-hitter was at fault for his failure to notify the umpire of his entry into the game, it was not important enough to erase the three runs that scored on the hit.

When a substitute enters the game unannounced, he immediately takes the place in the lineup of the man he is substituting for. The hit that won the game was therefore perfectly legal.

still C-T-C sales mount upward!

FROM Los Angeles, Salt Lake, Spokane, Seattle, Tacoma, Portland, San Francisco . . . everywhere in the West . . . come reports of increasing C-T-C sales!

In 1924, the number of retail dealers selling C-T-C's, made tremendous increase—120 per cent gain over 1923.

And still C-T-C's sales mount upward! It looks as though unquestionably 1925 sales will at least double those of 1924!

The reason! Engineers behind C-T-C are keeping their promise!

They came West from Akron, where they held high executive positions, to build even a better tire in the West. Motorist say they have done it.

We shall be glad to give you expert information about your tires, and—if you need them—put on C-T-C's—either balloons, semi-balloons, heavy-duty cords or oversize cords!
