

'HELL!' CRIES OUT YOUNG SCOPES, IN GRIP OF HIS AIDES

By GENE COHN
(NEA Service Writer)
NEW YORK, June 20.—The first round of Tennessee's far-famed evolution battle is being fought here over the dem-tasse.

There really hasn't been a cause worth getting excited about in ever so long and—oh, my dears! This one is so thrilling! And, really, so terribly important!

In the gathering places of the liberals, the feminists, the radicals of all degrees and shades, the birth controlists, the psycho-analysts, the philosophers and Lucy Stoners, the Socialists, social service workers, professional "causers," in the Greenwich Village coffee houses and the up-town tea rooms the tea cups clink and there is chatter without end.

The pleasant little city of Dayton, Tenn., may be the place where the trial of John Thomas Scopes will take place, but all the preliminaries will be completed here. The lawyers, the defense fund, the experts, the professors and technicians—all have been corralled in New York, preparatory to the spectacular march upon some-what worried and disturbed little southern town.

And this parade will carry with it a vanguard of "ringside seatsers," the followers of a dozen liberal causes who feel that a great moment is not far off.

Helpers Almost Obscure Scopes
In all this milling of various forces the helpful and slender Mr. Scopes has all but been obliterated. Everybody is ready to carry his cause upon ready shoulders. Everyone is ready to show him how to do it. Never was there a readier army of willing ones.

Yes, something has happened. John Thomas Scopes, since that day in Robinson Drug Store, Main Street, Dayton, Tenn., when the timid school teacher with the charming southern accent, agreed to "be the goat" in the evolution trial.

He has even heard the word "marry" linked with his name from public platforms and, confused and tired, he has fled back to the quiet of his home town.

If ever there had been a doubt in his mind of man's kinship with lower animals one week of New York would have convinced him. He says he has learned more about mankind at firsthand than he had ever absorbed in his studies of the subject.

"We read about the similarity of instincts between man and the animals," he commented. "Well, I found them in New York. I have seen the herd stamped—on buffalo upon the western plain. I have seen the greed—in hotels, restaurants, everywhere. And the selfishness—and that goes for newspapermen and that goes for me, moment to myself. Do you know I didn't even get time to see the Folies? Oh, yes, and there has been a great deal of kindness and sympathy, a lot of it marked by the cunning of animals who are friendly for a purpose, and a lot of it sincere."

Tennessee is mismanaged.
"What isn't generally known is that the evolution bill was slipped over on them," he said. "It got through the legislature before the people realized what had happened. Tennessee is still bewildered. It's bewildered by all the fuss—do you see. I. The people are fine. Why, since that bill was passed more copies of books on evolution have been bought by the Tennessee people than ever sold before. They're willing to find out."

And, with a final boost for the "home town":
"Whoever may come to the trial will find real southern hospitality awaiting. Sure, they can get into all the arguments on anything. The drug-store dealers will take them on in any subject and they have the world to run. But they seem to know how to run it just as well in New York as in the drug store."

"I don't own any real estate or hotels, but you'll find that Dayton has no humidity, no mosquitoes and is a fine place for a vacation. Come along!"

SCOPES AND HIS DEFENDERS

DR. GEORGE W. RAPPLEYEA, DR. J. R. NEAL, JOHN THOMAS SCOPES, MRS. LOUISE ADAMS FLOYD

Darrow will conduct the cross-examination. Mrs. Floyd is president of the Civic Club, New York City, and a leading defense worker. Dr. George W. Rappleyea, of Dayton, Tenn., encouraged Scopes to violate the law. J. R. Neal is "home town" defense counsel.

That another delegation from here will go to the celebration. Ten drill teams and 100 campers are expected to take part in the meeting. The committee of the Eugene lodge in charge of the caravan is composed of L. O. Beckwith, Roy Loomis, H. O. Pinkstaff, and Stanley Knapp. Seventy-five new members have been added to the Eugene camp during the past five weeks, it is reported.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC

SAN FRANCISCO, June 20.—(AP)—The Southern Pacific company has forwarded to the interstate commerce commission an application on behalf of the Central Pacific railway a proprietary for authority to construct and extend a line of railroad from a point of connection with the existing line at Klamath Falls, Ore., about 40 miles in a southeasterly direction through Merrill and near Malin, Ore., to Cornell, Calif. It was announced late yesterday by William Spruille, president of the Southern Pacific.

"This is another step in the Southern Pacific company's development program," Mr. Spruille said, "which was stopped by lawsuits involving the Central Pacific, compelling the company to hold in abeyance its plans which are the construction of a standard gauge railway connection between the Klamath Falls region and the Central Pacific main line across Nevada, so as to provide a direct rail route between the northwest and the inter-mountain region, and also between Southern Oregon and the east with such branches and feeders as may be necessary to give service to the public.

Rights of way for about 20 miles of the proposed route, already acquired in the name of the Medco Northern Railway company, have been transferred to the Central Pacific, it was stated.

SCOPES DEFENSE TO MEET MONDAY TO DISCUSS MOVE

DAYTON, Tenn., June 20.—As prosecution attorneys today returned to Dayton, local interest centered in the visit next week of the legal experts who will defend John T. Scopes, when he comes before the court July 10 on charges of violation of the state law prohibiting the teaching of evolution in Tennessee public school.

Charles Darrow, Chicago attorney, who will serve as one of the champions for the defense will come to Dayton Monday to go over the ground with Dr. John H. Neal, chief defense counsel. Arriving here early in the day, after a conference with other attorneys, he will be the guest of the Dayton Progressive club at a meeting at which the defendant also will be an honor guest.

At the same time preparations were being pushed forward for the reception of visitors expected to attend the trial. A newspaper club, patterned after the club at which reporters of the New York democratic convention were entertained, was being prepared by the Chattanooga News.

Quarters have been rented and were being fitted up with working equipment for the visitors with a lounge room for the newspaper men after work hours.

With the exception of speculation centering around the plan of the opposing counsel, the case itself virtually had been relegated to the background by the present work of preparing for the influx of visitors.

Results of the conference of prosecution attorneys in Atlanta yesterday were not disclosed upon their return. Judge J. G. McKenna, H. E. Hicks, S. L. H. H. W. C. Haggard and Harry Lawrence conferred with William Jennings Bryan, chief prosecutor, upon general plans to be followed during the trial.

OREGON REGENTS TABLE INCORRECT DRAMA PETITION

A petition to reinstate the department of drama and speech arts at the University of Oregon, with Prof. Fergus Reddie as head, was brought to the attention of the board of regents at the regular meeting last Monday, it was learned here today.

The whereabouts of the original document, bearing some 800 names of known university officials is not known, university officials say. Only carbon copies, which had been sent to some members of the board, were seen at the meeting. It is stated, and since the original petition, with the signatures, was not presented, no official action could be taken, it is pointed out.

Address is Wrong
The petition is also addressed to "the board of regents of the state of Oregon," and not to the regents of the University, and nowhere in the petition is the University mentioned. Unless properly addressed to the board of regents, and the original document delivered, with the request correctly stated, it would be impossible to take official action on the petition, it is stated.

The copy brought to the attention of the regents was simply ordered filed. It was sent to Judge J. W. Hamilton, of Roseburg, together with a letter signed by a student in the department of drama, Helen Van Cleave Park.

The letter said: "Inclosed you will find a copy of a petition signed by some 800 students of the University of Oregon which speaks for itself." The petition was circulated by students of the department of drama, and no effort was made to publicly circulate a petition. Hoping you will give this matter your unbiased consideration, I remain, sincerely, Helen Van Cleave Park."

Petition Given
The petition, in full, was as follows: "We, the undersigned, hereby petition that the department of drama and speech arts be reinstated, and that Fergus Reddie be maintained as official head of the department.

"We beg leave to state that majors and other students in the department feel entitled to the advantages that the department of drama and no other can give them.

"Students enrolling in this department have done so because of the high rank this department holds among other departments of its kind in the country; and because of Mr. Reddie's reputation as an executive and director. This can be attested to by the fact, that registered in the department of drama and the speech arts, there are students from all parts of the country."

This is signed by 804 persons.

MOTORIST WARNED OF GRAFT SCHEMES

Warnings to individual motorists, to the automotive traders, to the campgrounds and merchants in general throughout Oregon to beware of the many schemes being advanced by the smooth-tongued, "slicker" variety of high-powered salesmen seeking to collect some "easy money" are made by the Oregon State Motor association. Selling worthless map advertising, promising so-called "service clubs," "tourist associations," "tourist camp associations" and other "gold brick" propositions which promise much but give nothing in return for the money extracted from a gullible public, are opposed by the association, according to announcement at the local office at the Osburn hotel today.

The Man That Sells Them All

AMERICAN WRITER BATTLES LEOPARD

NATROBI, British East Africa, June 20.—Although Stewart Edward White, the American writer, received some nasty gashes in his recent encounter with a wounded leopard, while hunting big game in the Tanganyika region, the wounds are healing well, and he intends to continue on his expedition.

The incident, according to details just received, occurred near Kilimafesa. Although the party hunts in native style, with bows and arrows, rifles are taken as a precaution. Mr. White was accompanied by a native gun bearer, and a native boy. Apparently he had wounded the leopard with a rifle. The animal escaped in to the bush, followed by the gun bearer who was attacked and badly mauled. The boy followed with a rifle which he fired, diverting the leopard's attention from the gun bearer, but the boy himself was also mauled.

Mr. White dashed to the scene and fired again, wounding the animal, which sprang upon him, tearing his left arm and shoulder. The author was able to unhook his hunting knife and kill the leopard.
