

OAKRIDGE SQUAD IS VICTOR IN CONTEST

Oakridge pushed across one run on an error yesterday and defeated the aggregation of Eugene baseball players 1 to 0 in a contest on the new Oakridge diamond.

Pitching was the outstanding factor during the tilt as the hurlers of both sides were stung with hits and walks. The local men garnered six well scattered singles while Oakridge collected but three. However, these three hits combined with five Eugene errors resulted in the loss tally which proved the winning factor.

Bushnell hurled for Oakridge and his speed held the locals to six singles and kept himself out of danger at all times. Fennell pitched the first seven innings for Eugene and was responsible for the three scattered hits and the one run. Springfield took up the burden in the eighth and his left handed curve and speed balls held the Oakridge men hitless.

An interesting factor of the game was that only two balls carried into the outfield during the nine innings. Yoder pinch-hit for Fennell in the seventh. He connected for a single but failed to be advanced.

The lineup:

Eugene	Oakridge
Wirth	R. Russell
Dixon	Ryan
Springate	Neil
Sims	K. Russell
Towne	Conway
Eberhardt	D. Russell
Welch	Springer
Johnson	Harvey
Fennell	Bushnell
Yoder

*Yoder hit for Fennell in 7th.

Score:	R	H	E
Eugene	0	6	5
Oakridge	1	3	3

Umpires: Fennell, Springate and Dixon; Bushnell and Ryan.

What is the object of the infield fly and why is it necessary that first and second or first, second and third be occupied and there be less than two out for the rule to be operative?

The infield fly was placed in the rule book to prevent the making of double plays by purposely trapping or dropping a fly ball.

With runners on first and second, or the bases filled, it would be an easy matter to pull a double play on a fly to the infield. The runners must hold their bases to avoid being doubled if the ball is caught; by trapping it the infielder has the runners at his mercy.

The rule is not operative with first only or first and third occupied, because there is really no chance for a double if the batsman runs out his hit as he should. Under such conditions taking a chance or trapping the ball couldn't possibly result in more than one out. Thus it would be a foolish play.

Less than two must be out for the rule to be operative, because with two down, there would be no object in trapping or purposely dropping the ball, therefore it must be caught regardless of the runners on the bases.

The infield fly as now interpreted properly protects the base runner when there are runners on first and second or first, second and third and less than two out.

The moment the umpire declares infield fly, the runners know the batsman is out, which removes the force and permits them to advance at their peril as on any other fly ball that is caught or missed.

Moist, sweet, cool —this is pipe tobacco!

Three things determine how good a pipe tobacco is going to smoke:

- (1) the quality of the tobacco itself,
- (2) the way it's mellowed,
- (3) how it's cut.

And in making Granger we give utmost care to all three. We use fine, old Burley tobacco. We mellow it by Wellman's famous secret method. And then we give it the exclusive Granger "rough-cut." And the result is a rich mellowness and cool fragrance like nothing you ever smoked before!
