

PRaise VOICed FOR PROGRESS OF LANE

Executive secretary of Oregon Agricultural college, J. A. Hecell, dean of the school of commerce at O. A. C., and Robert M. Kerr, They arrived in Eugene at 10 o'clock, made a flying visit to the new Eugene hotel, and went direct to the chamber of commerce.

The speaker's 20 listeners gathered in a semi-circle around his chair. As he was presented with a glass of ice-cold milk he said:

"Do I understand I am among dirt farmers? Let's see the hands of those who are dirt farmers here."

Dirt Farmers' Absent.
Only two men displayed hands. Mr. Jardine was then informed that the group consisted chiefly of heads of cooperative enterprises, business men of Eugene, and retired farmers.

"Cooperation is a hard job," he told the group. "We're making lots of failures. It's one job to be a good farmer and another to be a good merchant. But if we can get the leaders of all our groups together we're going to succeed. We have enough opposition without fighting among ourselves."

Farming has passed its period of depression, Mr. Jardine told his listeners. The depression has served as a lesson of the danger of over expansion and the special need of improving the methods of marketing agricultural products. The big market for American soil products is America, he said, and prices must be in reason.

Prices Held Good
"Prices now are good. You farmers here are getting good returns from your sales. Beef is going up. Prices for sheep are good, and for hogs unusually fine. Corn is commanding a good price and so is wheat. Wheat will be from $1.25 to $1.50 this year. I know I can get a good price for my wheat in Kansas this year, anyway."

"Farmers generally ought to be feeling pretty good. We ought to keep feeling that way, quit fighting each other, and go out after the business. Look at the coal men. They have been creating a big surplus and they're going broke. Lumber business is in a bad way. We must watch that surplus."

Mr. Jardine emphasized the need of getting a good reliable business man to head any cooperative group. Such a man does not necessarily have to be a dirt farmer. He stressed the need of loyalty to a cooperative organization if it is to be made worth while. These organizations and other producers choosing to organize can take advantage of the federal intermediate credits bank for financing agriculture, he announced.

Many in Group.
Among the officials in the group were C. D. Rorer, chairman of the agricultural committee of the American Bankers' association for the twelfth federal reserve district; M. E. Harlow, president, and J. O. Holt, manager of the Eugene Fruit Growers' association; M. M. Boney, manager of the Eugene Farmers' Creamery; E. E. Morrison, manager Lane County Cooperative Farmers' warehouse; E. B. Harlow, master of the Lane county Pomona grange; O. S. Fletcher, county agricultural agent; C. P. Barnard, county judge; K. B.

Spencer, manager of the Grangers' Eugene warehouse.
Mr. Jardine, whose name, his secretary mentioned, is pronounced to rhyme with "fine," and the party expected to arrive in Corvallis in time for lunch with a large group of farmers and business men at the Hotel Benton, where he will remain for conferences in the afternoon, spending the night at the home of his brother. They will leave Saturday morning for Portland, stopping at Salmon to visit Governor Walter M. Pierce.

Revival Campaign To be Continued

The revival campaign which closed Sunday under direction of the Ayeza-Lemmerger evangelists held under the tent on south Willamette street is to continue the balance of this week, by Rev. Miller of Astoria, who will conduct a series of evangelistic services.

Sides of the tent have been rolled up on all sides, and the breeze that blows through makes the audience perfectly free from the hot wave.

Evangelist Miller, discussing the coming of the lord, declared that in the acquisition of education that in fact should be kept in the forefront. A vocal solo was given by his daughter.

SCORES MISSING IN BLAST AT THEATER

That avenue, could tell clearly how he got out.

Heeding and to go, men were seen coming from the building, and some were dragged out of the debris.

Fire Chief Alex Henderson said 30 or 35 persons must have been trapped in the building, basing his opinion on the facts that shrieks were heard from the wreckage after the collapse of the building and it was the belief that it would have been impossible for all to escape in the short interval between the explosion and the collapse of the roof.

The midnight show had just started and a love scene was playing on the screen when the blast rocked the building, bringing down the balcony as the floor gave way, according to survivors.

When the entire section of the building collapsed, it sent bricks and debris into surrounding streets and broke windows in the buildings a block away. Thirty minutes after the explosion, the south wall of the theater fell, crushing several small stores.

A negro porter in a restaurant on the ground floor of the building, said that half an hour before the explosion he detected gas fumes in the basement.

PENDLETON, June 25.—The official government thermometer in Pendleton registered 105 degrees during the late afternoon yesterday. Warm weather prevailed again today, the maximum temperature during the forenoon being 92.

HOT AT BEND
BEND, Ore., June 25.—The temperature reached 89 early yesterday afternoon, according to the government weather observer. This was within one degree of the maximum ever recorded in Bend. During the night the lowest temperature recorded was 61, a higher minimum than any time before this season.

ROSEBURG, June 25.—Roseburg entered upon another hot day, with the indications, however, that the temperature would not reach the high point of yesterday and the day before.

Was A Good Judge of Liquor

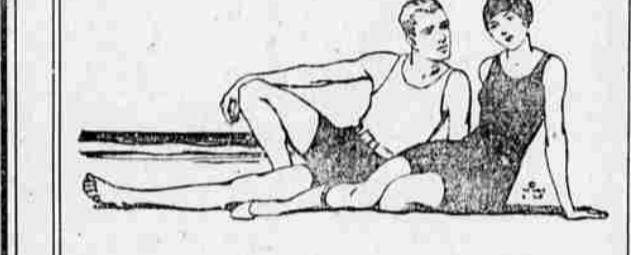

"Since a young man I had a liking for liquor and was considered a pretty good judge of it at one time, but constant drinking became chronic. My stomach would have been a valuable addition to a gas factory. Doctors did not seem to relieve me. One day my druggist got me to try May's Wonderful Remedy, and I am now as good as new." It that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. At all druggists.

Don't Kick Because Its Hot, Try To Enjoy It

Come, be fair to yourself. Stop sweating and toiling the live-long day. Don't fret because summer is here. Remember you asked for it last December when the mercury was below zero. Begin to enjoy a little comfort and leisure.

Many people have learned to get real enjoyment out of hot weather. They profit by knowing where to get the right things to eat, or icy-cold additions to the summer menu; they know what to wear and how to wear it; and as a result they are better wives and mothers, their homes are brighter, their families are happier.

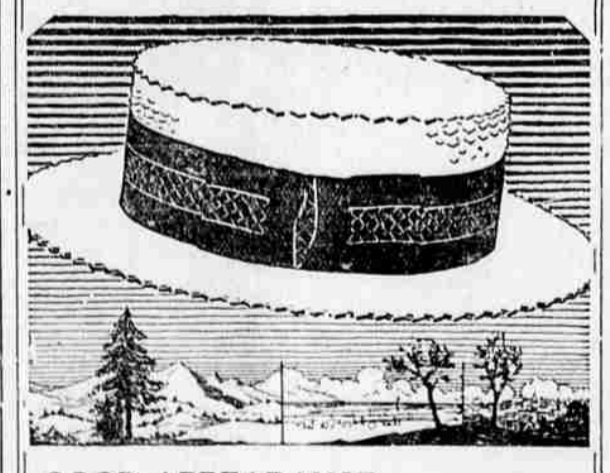

With your food kept cool by a refrigerator, many a cross word at the lunch table is avoided.

An electric fan brings the ocean breezes right into your own home.

Of course, on these warm days, everyone loves good cold soda and ice cream. Don't be afraid to raise a thirst like a Sahara and then quench it with an icy beverage.

On summer days you always feel the best and look the best in lightweight summer clothing, cool, comfortable straw hats and light underwear. And then—oh boy! what fun it is to slip into a good swimming suit for a plunge into the millrace!

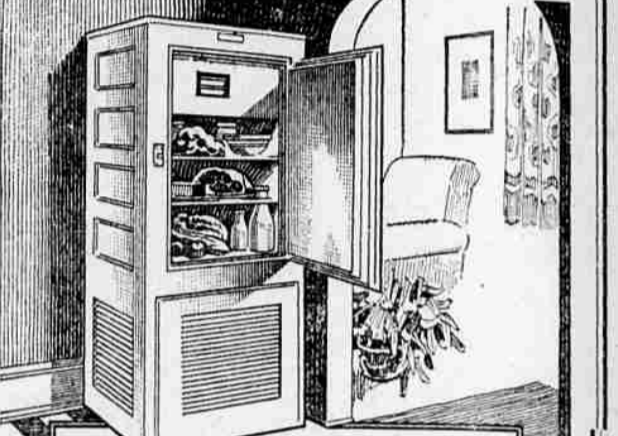

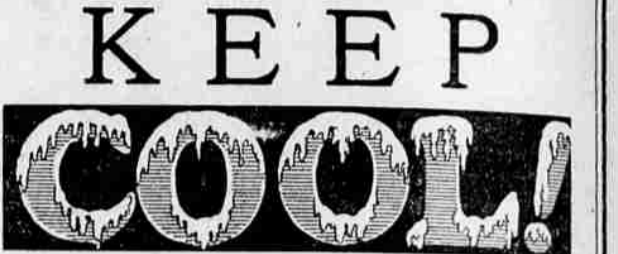

Let's be glad summer is here! If you make up your mind to enjoy it, you will. Certainly you will, if you avail yourself of some of the many hot weather suggestions offered herewith by wide-awake merchants of Eugene!
