to drop the Shepherd matter from now on regardless of Judge Olson's assertion last night that case was not ended.

JURY FREES SHEPHERD

CHICAGO, June 27.—(AP)—William Darling Shepherd was found not guilty of using typhoid germs to kill William Nelson McClintock, his millionaire foster son, after the jury trying him deliberated five hours and forty minutes last night.

Within a half hour he was freed from the county jail, where he has been since March 13 on his personal bond of $5,000 on the charge of slaying Mrs. Emma Nelson McClintock, William's mother.

Fred Falls Named Bugler for Camp

Fred Falls, chief ranger of the central council of the Pioneer clubs of Eugene, is to be the Y. M. C. A. camp official bugler this year. It is announced today, Edward Wells was the camp bugler last year, but succeeded in getting the boys out of bed in the morning and putting them to sleep at night in a creditable manner, as well as calling them to meals on time. This year it was his wish that the honor be passed on to another member of the camp, and Fred has been chosen for the office.

Gilbert Sprague, one of the Y. M. C. A. boys who has attended every "Y" camp since he has been old enough, is to be assistant to the camp chef in camp this year. Owing to the fact that such a large number of boys have been registered for camp this year it was thought advisable to have an assistant for the cook, besides the services of the boys who regularly are on K. P. duty.

125 Auto Licenses Taken Out Friday

Yesterday's automobile license business at the office of Frank Taylor, sheriff, was the biggest in the history of the office, it has been reported. The record-breaking total of 125 temporary tags in one day was the result of the state ruling whereby the regular license fee is required for automobiles on and after July 1. Scores of persons kept their automobiles stored until summer time when they would only require half the fee.

pulled his lacquer smoking-stand up beside his chair, and filled his pipe. It was a little short-stemmed briar pipe that smelled like a bonfire of autumn leaves.

"You've got me all wrong, smarty," she cried. "It isn't dusting I need to make me happy. It's dancing."

"Here's a story of another woman who hated married life," he said. "Read it. That's a lesson in it for you, Gloria."

"I don't want to read about life. I want to live it," she cried. "You Sunday-school prig, you!"

"Fred Falls, chief ranger of the central council of the Pioneer clubs of Eugene, is to be the Y. M. C. A. camp official bugler this year."

"The next morning Gloria started out to walk to her mother's house. Her on the way she changed her mind."

"Good-by," she said to May, as she and Jim danced past the living room door where she was standing.

take me around . . . since you won't, Jim," she answered softly. "Ted does as well as anyone."

"The nasty little cat!" she said to herself. "I'll bet she's trying to land Jim because of his money. In the meantime she's keeping this Ted hanging around in case Jim doesn't bite! Why can't Jim see through her?"

"And she started the story that you were out riding with Wayburn the day you ran your car into the ditch!" May burst out excitedly. "I'll bet she's put you in the same class with me and Jim. . . . She thinks I'm terrible. She doesn't even speak to me when we meet on the street anymore. She hands me the ice-cream right!"

"I tell you what, Gloria! We'll throw a party ourselves!" she cried. "I'll get some of the old gang together for this afternoon! Eh, wot?"

"Fair enough! Let's do it!" Gloria was delighted. "I'm starved for a party!"

"May sat down at the telephone in Dr. John's study. Gloria took Mah Jong into the living-room where a wood fire was burning in the grate. She rubbed the little beast until he was dry and fluffy. The minute she set him down on the floor he scurried away to find a fly."

"The delicatessen was a mile away. And when Gloria returned May's 'Party' was under way."

"Ann Somers was making cinnamon toast in the kitchen. She was a shy little widow with mouse-colored hair and big gray eyes. She was very popular with men. She let them all make love to her and then she cried about it afterward. Apparently it made a great hit with them."

"Ann, you're some kid," he was saying to her when Gloria came into the kitchen. "You know darned well that you're not going to marry Ted Sawyer. Why don't you tell him so. Instead of letting him dangle in the wind?"

"Well, I've got to have someone to dance with," she said. "You're all wrong, Gloria! When a man really cares about you he loves you just as much when you're ugly and blue and have a cold in the head. . . . as he does when you're wearing a marmalade-wave, a pound of make-up and your rumpstuck clothes. . . . That's the way John cares about me. He likes me, not my looks."

OREGON NEEDS FOR SCHOOL FUNDS TOLD

1924, an increase of 283 per cent.

Many districts are at present carrying debts up to the limit permitted by statute, and many are making no effort to pay off the principal of their indebtedness, but are having to refund it whenever it becomes due.

"The state is poorly organized for financing education, and gross inequalities exist. Some districts are taxing themselves one hundred times as heavily as others to provide educational facilities. Those that are least able to pay are making the greatest effort. Under the district system there are inequalities in ability to support education as much as 25 to 1. If the county were used the unit, there would still be inequalities as high as six to one; that is, the wealthiest county has six times as much property back of every school child as the poorest county."

Table Tennis is Popular Pastime

Between swims the Y. M. C. A. boys do their best to keep cool these days by playing table tennis. From morning to night the three tables at the "Y" are kept busy, and many a ball has been cracked or bent by the fast playing.

School Report for Year is Prepared

Work on his annual report to J. A. Churchill, state superintendent of public instruction, is being carried on by E. J. Moore, county school superintendent, these days. This looms as the biggest job ahead in Mr. Moore's office, and requires almost the entire summer to complete.

The report must include a close check on all regular students in district schools, as well as all outside students, or those who move from one place to another inside the county. It must also show a record of every cent of money spent by the various districts in the county, which, when some of the bookkeeping methods of school clerks in rural districts are considered, bulks as a large job.
