DENTAL CLINIC TO BE HELD AT GROVE

St. Vincent de Paul society, charitable organization of the Catholic church, will conduct a dental clinic for needy children in Cottage Grove Thursday and Friday, May 24 and 25, at the headquarters of the Cottage Grove unit, the Lane County Health association.

Dr. E. Gordon Milne, dentist for the St. Vincent de Paul society, will conduct the clinic and give the dental service. Sisters of Corpus Christi will be in charge.

This will be the last clinic of the society this month. Fifteen children in the Deadwood district received treatment last week.

X-ray Urged

In preventing disease in the mouth the society urges the x-ray as a valuable assistant that makes the dentist's diagnosis and treatment more accurate than it was in the years before the x-ray was known.

"A great number of conditions that cannot be seen by the unaided eye or determined by laboratory tests are readily shown by the x-ray. As our knowledge of the causes and treatment of dental troubles increased, so did the value of the x-ray increase.

"There are a large number of teeth which look and feel perfectly sound and healthy, yet show signs of disease when a routine mouth examination is made. Many persons are in the habit of cracking nuts and doing other stunts that give the nerve or pulps of the tooth a sudden shock which are often great enough to destroy the life of the pulp. A full mouth examination reveals many such teeth which would not be suspected of being diseased as readily.

Infection Shows

"The x-ray picture shows infection and pus pockets at the roots of the teeth. Leaky fillings, overhanging crowns and other imperfections all of these conditions are injurious to health. By its use we are enabled to know the roots of children's teeth are full formed, to watch moving teeth and determine whether to extract temporary teeth.

"Nowadays the taking of x-rays is so efficient and so economical that it is within the reach of all classes. A complete x-ray of the month takes only a short time and because of its value in uncovering hidden dangers in the mouth, it is advisable to have it taken at regular intervals, say twice a year.

"In the examination of the mouth the x-ray is not all, it is not even half. To take an x-ray of the mouth and consider it a complete examination is daylight robbery of the worst sort. No dentist will do this, he knows it cannot be done, but with mouth mirrors, mouth lamps, pulp testers and explorers working together with the x-ray letting one check the other, chances for error if not entirely eliminated, are reduced to an agreeable minimum. And it pays in comfort, health and wealth."

Acting as mascot for all the "Devil Dogs" is a good-sized job for a 3-month-old pup. But "Private Padgett, jr." is confident he can hold down the job. He succeeds his deceased sire as official mascot of the U. S. Marine Corps.

down Delight valley. Bert, a brother, has his ranch on the Pacific highway near the Coast Fork bridge.

Three Large Ranches

What was one small operation beginning in 1915 has grown to three very large ones. The three ranches having close to 3,000 laying hens. The equipment is the very latest word—incubators hot water heated, eggs turned daily by a roller arrangement. Their eggs and chicks find constant demand. Although a member of the egg producers' cooperative, Mr. Hands finds it convenient much of the time to market direct to Portland.

"But I hold my stock in the organization and it's a good thing."

It was interesting to learn that the Hands family came from the famous "Egypt" country of Illinois, the richest corn land in the world.

"Go back to Illinois?" said Roy.

"Not me. In the Delight valley as in the Coast Fork valley the corn is comfortable, well equipped farm homes tell more than a volume—such homes as those of W. T. Townsend, R. C. Barfield, W. A. Keene, O. Jackson, L. M. Nixon.

Farming is Varied

There is a wide variety of farming in the valley, including a number of very fine orchards of prunes. Back from the river the farmers handle a good deal of livestock, cattle, sheep, goats, for which they have abundant grain and hay.

One could not help calling to mind a chance remark by a Cottage Grove citizen, otherwise an ardent worker for his city.

"We live on the lumber business," said his neighbor. No, frankly, there isn't much to speak of around here. Too hilly. Too much wet clay.

But it's only ten minutes from the Grove to either the Coast Fork or Delight valley and only about half an hour from Eugene. See some of these places before you venture advice to those who make inquiries.

Grant stayed at the hospital until Sunday night when he announced that he was leaving to join the circus at Portland. Doctors and hospital employees tried to dissuade him as he was too weak to leave. Grant insisted. Police were called. Grant said he was going.

The district attorney's office was called and the advice obtained that there seemed no way to stop him from leaving the hospital. He left for Portland although still pretty weak.

McKenzie Water and

Eugene Beautiful
Water on Tap.

The water tap is such a very common thing that we do not stop to think that it is the symbol of success in community living.

Village life began around some form of natural water supply. In the Far East we may still see surviving the centuries picturesque customs of bearing water. There are still countless Rebecas at the well in Oriental villages, and the cry of the water carriers driving patient, laden donkeys echoes from morn till late at night in many storied cities.

All this is interesting, but crude, wasteful and costly.

Making Water Run to Us.

By every test of human experience, the closed pipe line best answers the purpose of carrying and distributing water. Water seeks its level. As a liquid it responds freely to the pull of gravity. In the old phrase, we say of water moving responsive to gravity that it "runs."

When we divert water from the McKenzie River into our steel pipe line, thirty inches in diameter and seven miles long, WE MAKE IT COME RUNNING TO US.

This water, analyzed and treated to insure its purity, is pumped into our city reservoirs, holding 6,000,000 gallons. From them it flows through mains and smaller pipes, many miles of them, to be drawn as required from hydrants and thousands of taps in our yards and residences. To every home is brought water for household uses and complete irrigation system. That is what it means to have water on tap.

The next story, "WHAT PRICE WATER?" will appear in Wednesday's Guard.
