I SAW—

A short time ago I went to a grocery store for berries. A clerk had a crate sitting on the floor from which he was taking the small boxes and setting them on a shelf. In doing so quite a number of berries dropped on the floor—none too clean. These he picked up and scattered across the tops of the small boxes, and then stood up and asked, "I wanted anything?" I told him I did want some berries but had changed my mind.—G. F. C.

SMITH REPLIES TO CRITICISMS OF HIS RECORD

Governor of New York Calm On Eve of Notification Of Nomination

By D. HAROLD OLIVER (Associated Press Staff Writer)
ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 21.—(AP)—Democratic legion swarming into Albany from all sections of the nation to see their new leader officially notified of his presidential nomination tomorrow night today found Governor Smith calmly waiting his hour of triumph as well as the reaction to his sweeping counter thrust at critics of his long record in the New York legislature.

Early tomorrow evening on the east steps of the capitol the nominee will deliver a speech formally launching his campaign for the presidency.

Clearing his desk for the momentous event, the governor made public a detailed reply to William Allen White's charges that he favored the saloon and was lenient towards gambling and prostitution in his votes on a long list of bills while an assemblyman—an answer which he said must be considered final.

Declaring his legislative record "as an opponent of immorality is fixed and secure," and that he was satisfied the people of New York state did not concur in the "slandering attack," the nominee assailed the republican national committee for "openly associating itself" with a matter he regarded as personal.

He aimed the rejoinder, principally at the Kansas editor, but he intended it to apply to his other critics, including Dr. John Roth Straton, New York Baptist minister, who has charged the governor with being the greatest foe of the forces of moral progress in the country today.

After taking up each bill covered by White's denunciation, the governor said the whole thing was "unfair, unmanly and un-American," and added: "I have the satisfaction, however, of knowing that it is not concurred in by the people of this state who have year after year expressed confidence in me, notwithstanding that a large part of this matter herein referred to was laid before them in the past by agents of my political enemies."

"I am sure that I am right," he continued, "when I say it is not concurred in by the far-minded, intelligent, thinking people of the country."

He said he was "glad to have this matter out of the whispering stage and put in the open." He regarded it as "purely political," and said "when

Exceptional success of the clinic for retarded children which was begun at the University of Oregon summer session by Dr. Grace Fernald, associate professor of psychology at the University of California at Los Angeles, has resulted in a continuation of the work until Sept. 6 under the direction of Dr. B. W. DeBusk, professor of education at the University of Oregon, and Miss Lillian E. Ray, a teacher in Central Junior high school, Los Angeles.

The Eugene Kiwanis club has assisted in financing the continuation of the work to the extent of $100. Dr. Fernald, who began the clinic here, has gained wide recognition for her activities in this line, while Dr. DeBusk has done a great deal of remedial work in Portland, and Miss Ray also has had experience in this line.

The theory upon which this remedial work is based begins with the assumption that all children are not visually minded, correcting a defect in the work to the extent of $100. Dr. Fernald, who began the clinic here, has gained wide recognition for her activities in this line, while Dr. DeBusk has done a great deal of remedial work in Portland, and Miss Ray also has had experience in this line.

HOOPER BACK TO SCENES OF HIS CHILDHOOD

Has His Breakfast in Little Frame House Where He Was Born

By JAMES L. WEST (Associated Press Staff Writer)
WEST BRANCH, Iowa, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Herbert Hoover is back today in this cross-roads village of his birth, cares of the presidential campaign forgotten as he renews old friendships and revisits scenes of his childhood.

Arriving early, the republican candidate drove directly to the little frame house where he was born to have breakfast as a guest.

With him were Mrs. Hoover and their two sons, Herbert, Jr., and Arthur. Color ran high in the cheeks of the white-haired, motherly woman who owns the homestead which Jesse Hoover built for his family half a century ago, as she shook hands with Mr. and Mrs. Hoover and their sons and invited them into the living room where a table had been set, with simple white china. The only decoration was a small bowl of marigolds.

The breakfast menu was typically Iowa, consisting of peaches and cream, ham and eggs, fried potatoes, rolls and coffee. Mrs. Hoover had prepared the meal herself. She dug the potatoes herself from her own garden.

Savants at Salem See New Fruit

SALEM, Ore., Aug. 21.—(AP)—W. G. Allen, district manager of Hunt Brothers string of northwest canneries, may have discovered the progeny of the strangest wedding on record. Growing in the brush in a hidden spot on his farm, he found a seedling tree and the fruit savants of this fruit center are debating to use ancestry of the fruit produced. To every appearance the parents of the child were Mr. Plum and Miss Royal Anne Cherry. The title fellow slightly larger than the fullest grown Royal Anne cherry, and as they ripen develop the flush of cherry red on their cheeks. In shape and appearance they have the cherry effect, but when eaten there is no doubt as to the plum blood that courses through their veins.

Some fruit experts say they can taste a distinct cherry flavor in them, and it is difficult to determine by a look whether the pit is a cherry pit or a plum pit. Some fruit men say that plums and cherries will engage in no marital ventures together. But the child remains to confront them.

TROPICAL STORM TAKES 200 LIVES

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Desolation was widespread today over the southern peninsula of Haiti, where a tropical storm early last week wrecked whole towns, killed 200 persons and left 10,000 homeless. Only one of the 200 buildings in the town of St. Louis remains standing. A fishing craft, stranded three city blocks from the waterfront, is mute testimony to the force of the tidal wave that accompanied the storm.

Giving It an Overhauling

W. F. WHITING IS NAMED TO CABINET POST

Head of Paper Company to Succeed Hoover As Secretary

SUPERIOR, Wis., Aug. 21.—(AP)—President Coolidge today accepted the resignation of Secretary Hoover from the cabinet and appointed William F. Whiting of Holyoke, Mass., to succeed him.

Whiting, who has been a personal friend and political supporter of the president for many years, arrived here today and was administered the oath of office in the chief executive's room at the executive offices here.

Whiting is head of the Whiting Paper company of Holyoke, Mass. He has never held political office but has been active in state politics, especially in western Massachusetts. He was a delegate to the republican national convention in 1924 and 1928. He is about 45 years of age.

President Coolidge accepted Secretary Hoover's resignation by telegram, addressed to Washington, in which he praised the commerce secretary's effort in promoting the commercial and business activities of the nation. The knowledge acquired by Mr. Hoover of business and government while in the cabinet was "unsurpassed," President Coolidge said.

Your resignation as secretary of commerce rendered some time ago is hereby accepted," the president said. "I wish to express to you my appreciation of the character of the service you have rendered in that office. It has been of great benefit to the commercial life of the nation and has given a new impetus to our entire business structure."

"You have gained a knowledge of the mechanics of business and government that is unsurpassed. It will always be a satisfaction to me to have had the benefit of your wise counsel in meeting the problems which have arisen during my administration. My best wishes will always attend you in the broader field to which you have been called."

ENGINEER OPPOSES CROSS STATE LINE

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 21.—(AP)—Another railway locating engineer opposing here the proposed east-west cross-state railway would pass when he took the stand at the interstate commerce commission hearing on the line today. The testimony of E. Stacy locating engineer for the Oregon Short Line, was quite similar to that given a few days ago by George W. Back, former locating engineer and now Multnomah county roadmaster.

Mr. Stacy made his first survey in 1907 and crossed the territory again last year. There were few farms, he said. In all that first trip he saw just three stacks of hay. William T. Ellis, attorney for the public service commission, asked if he "saw any cattle."

BOAT FOUND ASHORE AND 2 MEN GONE

Washed Over Seawall Above High Tide, North of Linslaw

Both Missing Men Seasoned Sailors; Left Last Saturday

Washed above the seawall, above high tide on the ReedSPORT ocean beach four miles north of the new-law rack, "The Crackerbox," fishing boat owned by Clyde Chase of ReedSPORT, keeps the secret of the mysterious disappearance of the two men who manned her, Carl Miller, 37, of Siletto, and Peter Olson, 37, of Marsfield.

Lupinus coast guard is patrolling 20 miles of beach in a search for the bodies of the men, believed drowned. The two men, both seasoned sailors and experienced fishermen who have followed fishing for 20 years, left ReedSPORT Saturday, Aug. 11, to troll for Chinook salmon. Sunday afternoon, Aug. 19, the 35-foot fishing boat was found, right side up, by the coast guard, beached high, with engine in running order, and a gasoline tank nearly full of fuel.

Disappearance of the two men was further complicated by the fact that their clothing, and the blankets from the boat were missing, but as it appeared that the boat has been beached for two or three days when found, it is believed that passing campers carried these off.

The theory advanced by Mr. Chase, and shared by the coast guard, is that the boat got caught in one of the heaviest storms at sea during the season, Monday or Tuesday, Aug. 13 or 14, and possibly in a fog at night drifted into breakers and the men were washed overboard, or, one might have been washed ashore and the other in effort to save him, perished with him.
