Why We Do Not Begin With Notes

By ZAY RECTOR BEVITT (Author of Harmony Diagrams) The question oftenest asked concerning piano playing by Harmony Diagrams is, "When do we learn the notes?" The members of the Eugene Guard-Sherman, Clay piano classes now in progress, will be interested to know that notation is not to be neglected, but will be developed while you enjoy the ability to play more advanced music than you can read right now.

When a little child begins to talk, it would be folly to ask him to read first, but how often have children approached the study of the language of music in that way! As so many of our great educators have said, the child comes to us to be taught to play music, and instead of satisfying his wish, we teach him things about music, notes, signs, technical exercises, scales, etc.

And therein lies the cause of so much discouragement and apathy among music students. All of these essentials are taught in due time, but the world is crying for music and if the great desire to play is gratified first it is far easier to teach all of the above mentioned principles, because with a better understanding of the "language," a reason is provided to show the necessity for theoretical study.

We do not neglect essentials, but simply reverse their order and no principle that you will be taught in these lessons will ever be outgrown, no matter how far you advance in music. You may be assured that whatever time and effort you give to the work will not be lost.

reported down another cent. Signs were up around town Thursday at the service stations selling at 18 1/2 cents and The Guard received several calls, indicating the news was spreading fast among motorists.

VANCOUVER, Wash., Feb. 21.—(P)—Gasoline dropped to 11 cents at two service stations here today. One pump was a General gasoline station while the other, just across the street at 21st and Main, was selling Richfield products.

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 21.—(P)—After an entire morning of argument, the Portland Retail Gasoline Dealers association announced today that members would meet the General Petroleum Corporation's reduction of gasoline to 18 1/2 cents a gallon. The association has more than 500 members in the state.

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 21.—(P)—Two things were certain in Portland's "gas war" Thursday—gasoline at the General Petroleum corporation's filling stations was selling at 18 1/2 cents a gallon and motorists were happy.

Following the announcement of the General Petroleum corporation here Wednesday night that beginning Thursday their brand of motor fuel would retail at 18 1/2 cents, the Portland retail gasoline dealers' association went into a huddle Thursday morning. Up until a late hour members had made no decision on what price they would advertise.

The Richfield Oil company said "there are no price changes yet" but that changes were "coming in every 15 or 20 minutes."

The Texas company "hadn't received official announcement of reduction but policy was to meet competition." Union Oil company officials said they would stick to the 19 1/2 cent a gallon price until officially notified to meet the General Petroleum slash.

Efforts to get at the bottom of the war between major oil companies proved fruitless, officials saying they were "in the dark" as far as the actual cause is concerned.

Bell and Schulerich is neither approved nor disapproved by Dr. Arnold Bennett Hall.

Upon hearing of details of the debate on this bill in the senate Thursday morning, Dr. Hall immediately sent a statement to the press in which he urged that his stand be made clear. "Together with Dr. Kerr of O. S. C., President Inlow of the eastern Oregon normal school, the governor and members of the senate attended a meeting called to discuss the bill in question," said Dr. Hall. "I plainly stated at this meeting that I could not approve or disapprove of any measure dealing with consolidation of regents or any other phase of higher educational administration. This is a matter for the university regents to take up and pass on."

"At the present time I am interested only in the university's legislative program as approved by the board of regents. I wish to point out that the institution is facing financial crisis."

"As I stated to the ways and means committee, I only request the legislature to consider our case on its merits, and to allot state funds where they are most needed. If in the long run the university and college can benefit from a merger of their governing bodies I personally am not opposed to it."

Note: Authorities attribute the enormous increase in Cigarette smoking to the improvement in the process of Cigarette manufacture by the application of heat. It is true that during 1928, Lucky Strike Cigarettes showed a greater increase than all other Cigarettes combined. This surely confirms the public's confidence in the superiority of Lucky Strike.
