WOMEN WILL HAVE PROMINENT PART IN COUNTY FAIR

No small part in this year's Lane county fair, coming next week from Wednesday on, will be played by women of Eugene and Lane county. It is revealed in announcements of plans by the various groups participating. While the male fair visitors are examining the county's best horses and livestock on display in the barns, the feminine contingent will find much of interest in home process, home textile, and art exhibits in the main pavilion at the fair.

Mrs. J. R. Coleman has been placed in charge of the home exhibits, to be a large block of space in the eastern division of the main pavilion. Here the canning work of Lane county women will be displayed, always one of the most interesting exhibits at the fair. The textile division will include needlework, and awards will be made both in this and the process displays. Mrs. Marvin Fields has been placed in charge of the art department.

These exhibits, while contributed to largely by women, will also be of considerable interest to men, and it is expected that many of the art pieces will be entered by men. The exhibits will be nearby in the main pavilion. Women also are expected to help materially in the flower show, superintended by County Assessor Ben F. Keeney.

The Chambers building at the fairgrounds, donated last year for the purpose, will be used this year for service and display headquarters of the Girl Scouts of Lane County Health association, the Lane County Chapter of the American Red Cross, and the county home demonstration agent, Miss Gertrude Stokoe.

Each group will be given a corner of the building and it is planned to have displays showing the work of the organizations among the people of Lane county. Here also will be a health service headquarters, with easy chairs and other rest room facilities, and possibly first aid headquarters planned against emergencies.

Probably the most ambitious plan of a woman's group at the fair is the roadside improvement project, which will have a model highway in front of the main pavilion. This exhibit will illustrate the sort of roadside improvement which the Garden club urge as a means of retaining the beauty of Oregon's highways. Mrs. L. J. Temple is in direct charge of the project.

While the sponsoring committee is headed by Mrs. Jessie Honeyman, chairman of the Eugene and the state fair committees. A number of women's and girls' organizations will have booths on the fairgrounds, which will be the Campfire girls have plans for such a booth, as well as several Ladies Aids and similar groups.

Exhibitors at the fair will also find much of interest in the livestock and poultry exhibits, and the general community and industrial exhibits which play such an important part in the big exposition. The horse racing, rodeo, and entertainment program each afternoon and evening before the grandstands also will find a generous feminine following. It is expected.

Afternoon programs at the fair will start at 1:30 o'clock, and evening programs at 7:30 o'clock. Both season and single tickets may be obtained for the fair, although the seasonal pastebards will provide a saving for those who have time to attend more than a single event at the fair.

GEORGE H. GIBBS DIES FROM WOUND

George H. Gibbs, 48, resident of the Siltcoos lake district, died at the Eugene hospital at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning from an accidental shotgun wound received Monday afternoon about a quarter of a mile from his home.

It is thought that the trigger of the gun caught in a blackberry vine discharging it. The blast carried away Gibbs' lower jaw. Dr. Geo. P. Edwards of Florence was summoned immediately after Gibbs was found and he and Earl Hill of Cushman brought the injured man to Eugene by car. From there the three came to Mapleton by boat and were met by Dr. P. J. Bartle of Eugene.

The wounded man arrived at the Eugene hospital about 5:30 o'clock and was still conscious, according to the physician's report, but he went rapidly, dying seven and a half hours after reaching Eugene. The remains will be sent from the Veatch funeral home to Cushman, Ore., for burial Thursday morning.

How to Make Home Brew

Chase wild bull frogs for three miles and gather up the hops. To them add ten gallons of tan bark, one-half pint of good shellac and one bar of home made soap. Boil 36 hours, then strain through a I. W. W. sock to keep it from working. Add one grasshopper to each pint to give it a kick. Pour a little into the kitchen sink if it takes the enamel off. It is ready to bottle.
