HERE'S A FLYING POSTOFFICE

This is how Uncle Sam's flying postoffices will look when clerks are carried in planes to sort the mail while the plane is en route.

Feasibility of the scheme is now being tested by a flight across country by Captain Ira B. Eaker, in the Boeing plane "Shuttle" which was forced down Thursday. The mail cabin shown above is 19 1/2 feet long, five and one-half feet wide, and allows the clerk to stand upright while working.

ditions is the fact that repairs not contemplated even under the reduced budget had to be made at the Woodrow Wilson junior high school this summer to correct a situation which otherwise would have become dangerous.

At nearly every school there is much work regarded as essential to the health, comfort and efficiency of the pupils that will have to be put off indefinitely unless the budget is amplified. In tomorrow's article we will enumerate school by school the curtailments that will have to be made unless the budget is amended.

NOT MANY HOTELS IN SWITZERLAND

GENEVA.—(AP)—Switzerland really is not one great big hotel, as many have supposed.

Hotels stick out from every mountain side and loom up in all the valleys but native statisticians can prove that the tourist trade is only a part of the nation's industry.

Only a ninth of the Swiss workers are engaged in the hotels. Figures show, also, the importance of tips because wages in the hotel industry equal only a twentieth of industrial payrolls.

LONDON (AP)—Douglas Hacking, president of the British Board of Trade, says that since the Armistice 49 British vessels, with a tonnage of 24,268, have been sunk as a result of striking mines left over from the war.

English temperance workers estimate that 250 members of the new league of commons will vote for local option.

INCREASE SEEN IN KENTUCKY TOBACCO

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — (AP) — Estimates of the United States department of agriculture hold that Kentucky tobacco growers are expected to harvest a 400,000,000 pound crop this year, or 90,400,000 more pounds than last year's harvest.

The estimates were made on the basis of a 19 per cent increase in tobacco acreage, as compared with the whole country. A total of 461,700 acres has been planted with tobacco of all types in Kentucky this year, while last year's plantings totalled 388,000 acres.

Burley tobacco, of which Kentucky is the world's largest producer, has a planting increase of 43,000 acres over last year's plantings of 255,000 acres. Green River, one-sucker, and dark-fired tobacco acreage, have been increased from 14 to 30 per cent.
