CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—(AP)—Showery weather in Argentina tending to afford relief from drought havoc in the Argentine wheat belt led to slightly lower prices today for wheat. Fair buying support for the wheat market developed on price breaks and domestic mills were said to be purchasing, but bulges brought about increased selling. Further rains were looked for tomorrow in parts of Argentina. Wheat closed unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to 3-8 lower. Corn moved 3-8 off to 1-4 up, oats 1-8 to 3-8 down, and provisions varying from 7/8 setback to a rise of 2c.

Scout Camp Trip Postponed by Fire

The closing of the Cascade national forest because of the forest fire danger has indefinitely postponed the trip planned by a group of Eugene Boy Scouts to the winter camp site near Grants, according to C. R. Clark, scout executive.

The boys will make the trip later and make plans for the improvement of the winter camp site, it was announced. The renovation of the cabins to protect them from snow is the chief purpose of the trip.

Who can afford this tire

PERHAPS we should say, "no one can afford not to have it," because it is the poorest economy to trust your family, your guests, or even yourself, in your fast-stepping car on tires which may cause trouble—and even worse.

The best insurance you can place on your car is to buy a set of LEE Supers. Then you'll have the grand and glorious feeling that comes when you've taken every tire precaution possible.

LEE Supers give trouble-free miles by the tens of thousands, of course, but more than that, they give you the most comfortable riding you ever had on any tire, due to their 8-ply sidewalls that cut down the "throw-backs" before shock absorbers get a chance to work.

Added safety comes from the years-lasting tread, which is so deeply and cleverly recessed that skids and slips are practically unknown.

For your peace of mind and, for real value, you can afford nothing less than LEE Supers.

Let us tell you the value of your present tires, new or old. We'll take them as part payment on a set of the LEE Supers.

Come in and let us quote you prices . . . you will find them surprisingly low.
