10-YEAR LEVY OF $25,000 UP TO VOTE

City Council To Ask Relief From Heavy Burden Of Warrants Measure To Come To Vote Of People At Election November 12

The city council on Tuesday, Nov. 12, will submit to the taxpayers a measure for a 10-year levy of $25,000 annually for five years in excess of a six per cent limitation for the purpose of meeting interest on warrant debt.

Final decision on the matter was made at a special session of the council late Friday evening at which various interested citizens were invited to be present, though the resolution itself had been adopted, as a matter of form, at the last regular meeting.

Issue Stands Alone The reason for putting the resolution through prior to the discussion of the time is growing short to get the measure to a vote if the levy is to go on the books for the next year. It will stand alone on the ballot, time having closed to submit any other measures with it.

At the special meeting Friday night, Recorder R. S. Bryson submitted a report which showed that the city is seriously hampered by a $20,000 load of warrants of all kinds. (Collections to meet the interest charges on these warrants are running at $18,000 a year short of requirements and the burden has become serious liability to general operations.)

Warrants to meet interest charges on bonds are one of the most serious factors in the situation. Delinquencies of special assessments are responsible, but the city is proud that despite much pressure property owners, and foreclosure extreme cases it cannot make as

STATE OFFICIALS WILL BE INVITED TO AIR CEREMONY

SPRINGFIELD, Sept. 21.—(Special.)—Governor Isaac L. Patterson will be invited to participate in the annual air carnival in celebration of the completion of the Springfield airport on Oct. 12, the tentative date for Friday's meeting of the Lions club.

Plans for the celebration and dedication, it was revealed by Major G. H. Eckerson, noted aviator, who presided at the meeting of the Lions club at which the plans were discussed, will include air stunts by many famed pilots, inspection of the newly leveled and paved 3000 foot runway and aerial maneuvers by local pilots.

The airport, located a mile east of Springfield where Major Eckerson has established a school for pilots, with an office and two hangars and a paved apron, will be dedicated on Friday, Sept. 27.

AMENDMENT TO CITY CHARTER ASKED BY CLUB

The City Federation of Women's Organization in meeting Friday afternoon voted that a proposed charter amendment be submitted to the city council providing authority for the city council to require property owners to plant trees on their parking strips and to require maintenance of trees and care of parking strips, with stipulation that in case property owners fail to do such, the city council would be granted power to perform the work and assess costs for such against the property owners.

A second amendment proposed and voted at the meeting would require all property owners to clean all rubbish, waste, and grass from unoccupied lots and property with the regulation that if the property owners failed to do the work and assess the costs against the owners.

Lord Cecil Accepts League Compromise

GENEVA, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Lord Robert Cecil today withdrew the British disarmament resolution regarding training army reserves, which had stirred league of nations debates this week and accepted a compromise proposal which he declared accomplished the purpose of the British government.

Lord Cecil's pressure in the general scheme of disarmament has organized the French press and public and developed criticism to the disarmament movement managed by the United States and Great Britain.

SENATE SEEKS MATERIAL FOR TARIFF DEBATE

Local Company Included In List Prepared In Washington

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—(AP)—The development that much of the information contained in tax returns of corporations sought by senators in connection with the tariff debate could not be gathered without months of delay led today to the preparation of a form by the treasury limiting the scope of the data requested.

The form was presented by Under-Secretary Mills to republican members of the senate finance committee, who decided to most Monday to appoint a sub-committee of three republicans and two democrats to consider it.

Data Is Needed In connection with the treasury's proposal on the tax returns, Chairman Smoot of the finance committee announced that the information called for by the form constituted all the treasury felt it could furnish the senate within a reasonable time and comply as nearly as possible with the resolution authorizing collection of the data.

Seventy-four additional names of manufacturing concerns about which tax information has been requested were made public today bringing the total to nearly 700.

The list embraced lumber and shingle companies of the west, and was submitted by Senator Walsh, democrat, Monday.

The list follows: West Oregon Lumber company, Portland; Silver Falls Lumber company, Silverton, Ore.; Lamm Lumber company, Modoc Point, Ore.; Forest Lumber company, Pine Ridge, Ore.; Anderson Middleton Lumber company, Cottage Grove, Ore.; Booth-Kelly Lumber company, Eugene, Ore.; Inman Paulsen Lumber company, Portland; Eastern and Western Lumber company, Portland; Crockett Western Lumber company, Wauna, Ore.; Shevlin Hixon Lumber company, Bend; Evanson Box company, Klamath Falls, Ore.; Studard Lumber company, Baker, Ore.; Pelican Bay Lumber company, Portland; Clark and Wilson, Portland; Hammond Lumber company, Portland; Benson Timber company, Clatskanie, Ore.; Blue Lake Logging company, Ore.

Quiet Hero Of Argonne Discovered

BROOKLINE, Mass., Sept. 21.—(AP)—A quiet employe of the Brookline highway department approached his superintendent with a request for time off. Asked the reason, he instantly produced a letter from Army War college, inviting him, as one of the seven survivors of sergeant Alvin C. York's famous exploit in the Argonne offensive to come to the annual military exposition in Washington.

Otis D. Maritew, the modest employe, was, it developed, the Corporal William B. Cutting mentioned in Sergeant York's book, "Wounded," he fought beside the sergeant the day 132 Germans surrendered to seven Americans. Friends here never knew until today that Maritew was Corporal Cutting.

MILK SUPPLY SHORT; HIGHER PRICE LIKELY

The milk situation in Eugene is looking toward a shortage next week with the opening of the University of Oregon and increased demand, coupled with recent extensive sales of cows by local milk producers to the California market.

This was the statement Saturday of Chester M. Lawrence, city milk inspector, who stated that there is also a prospective advance in price for October 1, which will give milk producers $2 per hundred pounds for four per cent butterfat milk, and at the same time be retailed to the consumers at an advance of one cent a quart, from 11 to 12 cents.

"This will be the highest in Oregon for market milk," said Mr. Lawrence, "with but little change to the consumer. It would insure a high grade of milk to the consumer."

The shortage is probably being adjusted within the course of a week's time, Mr. Lawrence stated, as already he has had two applications, one from a producer at Junction City, another from one at Monroe, asking for inspection of their plants so that they can bring their milk in to the Eugene market.

PEACE TICKET FOR CHAMBER TO BE SOUGHT

E. C. Simmons Gathers All Factions In Move For Harmony

A healing of the breach between rival factions in the Eugene chamber of commerce is in prospect if present plans for a coalition of forces in the annual election to be held Monday night carry through.

A committee to select a slate of officers and directors is now at work, according to E. C. Simmons, who has been instrumental in bringing together leaders of the various factions of the chamber. This committee will hold a meeting at the Osburn hotel Monday afternoon, at which time it will endeavor to select a final slate of seven, including recommendations for president of the chamber, vice-president, treasurer, and four directors, to be presented at the Monday night meeting of the chamber.

Committee Named The committee was named at a meeting of the heads of the city's service clubs, chamber officials, the four laborer directors, and others. Eighteen men in all were present, representing every faction among the membership in the chamber, said Mr. Simmons, who called the meeting.

All present expressed their views on what was to be done about the future life of the chamber, most of whom present favoring the club instead of the committee changes in the arrangement and furnishing of the club rooms, and building up a large membership roll. The idea that the chamber headquarters should be made a center for community activities such as the Red Cross, Community Chest, boy and girl scout work, and the like, seemed to be especially attractive, said Mr. Simmons.

Projects Planned Some sentiment was voiced in favor of the chamber continuing to devote its attention to the city planning project, matter of improving the aviation field and similar chamber projects for the next six months before taking up internal chamber problems.

Sentiment at the meeting was unanimously in favor of preserving the chamber and with all elements represented on the slate-picking committee, Mr. Simmons reported that it was felt the committee's selections would be acceptable to the chamber members at the annual meeting.

Shades Of The Wild, Wild West!

An ancient pistol with three notches on the grip and engraved of a fork of sections of an oak tree which has grown so as to almost cover it is being shown at the chamber of commerce rooms.

The pistol is said to be more than 50 years old, estimated by the type and the size of the tree. It is thought to have been once the property of a desperado.

Fred Jones, the owner, found it recently on his place in Butte county, California. The tree in which it was encased was standing near an old stage road, and it is thought that some bandit may have left it there resting on the crook of a tree.

BARNARD SEES NO DELAY ON SIUSLAW ROAD

County Judge C. P. Barnard and Commissioner Crowe said Saturday that they expect the second draft of the agreement between the Southern Pacific and the state and county in regard to Siuslaw highway railroad encroachment to be accepted at the meeting of the highway commission Thursday, Sept. 26.

They said that while the court had not taken official action on the agreement, it met with their approval generally, and with a few understandings which will be made at the highway meeting Thursday, the contract will be drawn without further delay.

One of the questions which they will present for consideration is the new clause in the second agreement which would provide that the county and state must build a double track for the railroad company in case the company asks for it in the future. The court's stand on the matter is expected to get more information of this nature than would be reported by the press, and denied that it was expected Shearer would delve into the activities of the conference.

Inquiry Into Shearer Case Brings Out Admissions Of Propaganda

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Employment of William B. Shearer, naval propagandist, by American shipbuilders as an "observer," at the Geneva conference was described as "most unwise," today by a senate investigating committee by Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the board of directors of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation.

Schwab said he knew nothing about the Shearer deal until many months later. When first asked about the Shearer arrangement by a newspaperman, Schwab said he had denied it because "I couldn't believe it and knew nothing of it."

The Bethlehem shipbuilding corporation, a subsidiary of the steel corporation, was one of the three companies which employed Shearer at Geneva.

Lit' Beth In It The Bethlehem chairman added he was confident that Eugene Grace, president of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding corporation, knew nothing of the Shearer deal.

Asked who was responsible for employment of Shearer by his company, Schwab hesitated to name S. W. Wakeman, vice-president of the shipbuilding corporation.

"Did you take some action?" asked Senator Robinson, democrat. "I left that to Eugene Grace, president of the company," replied Schwab. He added that he would leave that for Grace to relate upon his appearance before the committee.

Have A Tilt Senator Robinson became greatly aroused because Schwab would not disclose what action Grace took. There was a heated exchange between the two. Robinson finally told Schwab "no" to lecture me.

"And likewise," responded Schwab calmly.

Grace then was called to the stand. He first said he had been interested in the Geneva conference as a citizen but not from a private business standpoint.

"Why did you send an observer there?" asked Chairman Shortridge. "I didn't."

"But your company did."

"Yes, your president?"

"Yes, I thought I was but I didn't know about Shearer."

Grace said he never met Shearer. He said he learned first of his employment in December, 1927, several months after the Geneva affair.

Buck Is Passed He testified he had been asked by newspapermen about the Shearer arrangement and had denied it, but later he said that he heard the rumor again and then questioned Wakeman about Shearer's employment at Geneva.

Asked by Senator Shortridge whether he had rebuked Wakeman, Grace replied:

"I told him it was rather unwise and a thing I couldn't approve of. I told him it was contrary to the policies of our company."

"But your company?"

"Yes, Mr. Wakeman felt Shearer could give some technical information and ascertain what was transpiring and report it." He added that Wakeman expected to get more information of this nature than would be reported by the press, and denied that it was expected Shearer would delve into the activities of the conference.
