W. W. SHORTRIDGE IS DEAD

MEMBER OF AN EARLY PIONEER FAMILY PASSES AWAY

Mr. and Mrs. Shortridge First Located Near Cottage Grove, Later Moving to Pass Creek

(Register Lane County Special)

COTTAGE GROVE, Ore., May 2.—William Wallace Shortridge, member of one of the earliest of the pioneer families himself a pioneer of 1852 and for 70 years a resident of this section, died Saturday at the age of more than 86 years. The funeral was held Monday from the chapel and interment was in the pioneer Taylor-Lane cemetery.

Mr. Shortridge was one of the first two or three settlers on the Coast Fork south of Cottage Grove and was for 14 years postmaster at Wallace (now London). He and Miss Ellen Jane Keyes, also a daughter of a pioneer family, were the first couple to be married by Squire Vaughn, who later performed several hundred of such ceremonies. The wedding was held August 4, 1861, at the pioneer Hawley place and was one of the earliest weddings of this section. Mr. Shortridge was a relative of Daniel Boone and also of United States Senator Sam Shortridge, of California. He was born March 31, 1836, at Muscatine, Iowa, his parents being Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Boone S. Shortridge.

Located Near Cottage Grove

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Shortridge first located six miles south of Cottage Grove, moving a few years later to Pass creek, about the same distance south of here, later returning and purchasing a place 11 miles south of here (at Wallace), where he lived until moving into the city a number of years ago. Mr. Shortridge was a farmer and a blacksmith and took an active part in the affairs of the community. He was a member of company A in the Rogue River indian war and participated inthe battles of Cow Creek and Big Meadow under Captain Ladshaw. In 1882 one of the pioneer sawmills was erected on his place but was long ago dismantled.

Of 11 children born to the union, all are living, all in Cottage Grove or only short distances away. They are: W. C. Shortridge, Mrs. Bud Thorn and Mrs. George Sutherland, London; Mrs. Wm. Brown, L. A. Shortridge, S. P. Shortridge, A. W. Shortridge, Mrs. Edd Adams and Mrs. Lyman Adams, Cottage Grove; S. S. Shortridge, Lorane, and G. L. Shortridge, Looking Glass.
