The Algebra period Tuesday afternoon was turned into an hour of fun.

Several days before Mr. Spencer gave a test. In a spirit of fun it was decided that everyone receiving a grade below ninety would have to serve the lucky members.

Ice cream, cookies and jaw-breakers were the refreshments. The remainder of the hour was spent in racing to see who could finish the algebra problems first.

The junior VI English class has begun the study of short stories. The text used is "The Short Story" by Atkinson. The book contains such well-known short stories as: Poe's, "The Gold Bug"; "Howe's Masquerade," by Hawthorne; and "The Outcasts of Poker Flat," by Brete Harte.

The members of the class are learning to analyze the short story; and Mrs. Goodall hopes that the students will be able to tell good stories from poor ones after completing this work.

The cause of actions, and the reactions to various forms of stimuli in animal life, is being studied in the advanced biology classes, directed by Mr. Hoskins. The work is intended to give the student a better knowledge of his actions and reactions under various circumstances and to allow him to turn his instinctive impulses into useful channels.

Work on the reactions of plants to various forms of external stimuli has been completed by the class, as well as a short study of the human nervous system and its functions, giving the student sufficient background to carry on the present work. Each student is required to make observation of the actions of some animal under controlled conditions. Robert McKnight took kodak pictures of his plant thus showing the plants reaction to its environment.

HARRISBURG SCHOOL NOTES

HARRISBURG, Ore., May 20. — (Special to the Register.)—A number of the high school students are going to enjoy a picnic near the McKenzie bridge at Coburg Sunday.

Rev. John T. Stivers, of the Eugene Bible university, spoke briefly before the students of the high school Friday morning on the value of an education.

Miss Merritt and Miss Holden, high school teachers, left Friday afternoon to enjoy the week-end in Portland.

The members of the Spanish class of the high school under the direction of the teacher, Miss Holden, gave a dramatization of different parts of the text Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock in the high school assembly before the students and the eighth grade. The conversation was carried out in Spanish. Owing to the fact that there is only a few in the class it was necessary for some to take two characters.

In their fourth game of the season the Harrisburg high school baseball nine won an overwhelming victory Friday afternoon on the Maxson grounds when they played the Halsey high school team. The score at the end was 8 to 1. Halsey succeeded in scoring in the fifth inning and would have scored, but for outs, two other times. They were given straight outs in the first two innings. The locals scored twice in the first inning, twice in the second, once in the sixth and three times the seventh. A larger number than usual were present at the game. A return game with Halsey at Halsey is planned for next Friday.

Not to Each Other

Senator Lodge was prolding forth about small nations. A little nation that has been put in its place by the allies was under discussion and the senator from Massachusetts held that nations, like individuals, occasionally stood in need of reproof. "The allies conducted themselves very nicely, I think. They were like the beautiful girl to whom a bald-headed and poverty-stricken bachelor had the effrontery to propose. 'Let's get married,' the bachelor said, grabbing the girls' hand. 'But who'd have us?' she laughed.

WOMEN KEPT FROM THRONE

ROYAL RESCRIPT OF EGYPT EXCLUDES FEMININE RULE

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

CAIRO, April 17.—Women are excluded from the throne of Egypt under a royal rescript which has been issued establishing the right of succession by primogeniture. Prince Farouk, son of King Fuad was designated as present heir to the throne.

The rescript provides that if the king has no male children his eldest brother succeeds to the throne.

The Mohamed Ali family are eligible for the throne except the former ex-Kedive Abbas Hilmi (who was deposed in 1914), but the exclusion does not apply to his descendants.

Each king will secretly nominate three persons as proregent but parliament is allowed the right of approval or change.

A REAL DWARF

From giants, the conversation had turned to dwarfs, and the various accomplishments of the various Tom Thumbs had been related at length. Then the club liar hustled in. "All those dwarfs you've mentioned are right enough," he declared afrily, "but none can compare with a stunted specimen I once came across in the wilds of Central Africa." The audience began visibly to dwindle. "Now he was short, if you like," continued the club liar, speaking rapidly. "I know you are a set of unbelievers, so I will not venture to give you his height in actual inches; but I will tell you this, friends—that the man was so short that every time his corns hurt him——" "Well?" queried the only member of the audience who remained. "Every time his corns hurt him," repeated the narrator, "he fancied he had a splitting headache."

Changes with Time

A story going the rounds: "I suppose that girl in the short dress is your daughter, that young man in riding breeches is your son, and the woman in the tea gown is your charming wife?" "Nope, you're wrong. The girl in the short dress is my grandmother, the young fellow in the riding breeches is my wife and the woman in the tea gown is my twelve-year-old daughter who likes to dress up in her great-grandmother's dresses."
