DAIRYMEN HOLD MEETING

PLANS FOR MANUFACTURE OF CHEESE TAKEN UP

(Register Lane County Special)

BLACHLY, Ore., June 14.—A special meeting of the Lake Creek Dairymen's association was held today for the purpose of discussing the advisability of organizing for the manufacture of cheese instead of butter, as is now being done.

It was decided, owing to lack of statistics touching on the cost of manufacture, buildings, equipment, etc., that more information was necessary before anything definite be done.

MRS. HELEN SILSBY DIES

COTTAGE GROVE RESIDENT SUCCUMBS TO LONG ILLNESS

(Register Lane County Special)

COTTAGE GROVE, Ore., June 13.—Mrs. Helen Silsby died early Tuesday morning from illness which had confined her to the bed for several months. She never fully recovered from the amputation of a limb a year or more ago. Funeral services were conducted Wednesday afternoon from the home on Third street and the body taken to Ashland for interment beside that of the husband, who died there in 1898. The services at Ashland were in charge of the Eastern Star lodge there.

Mrs. Silsby's maiden name was Helen Smead. She was born September 8, 1838, at Franklinville, N. Y., being in her 84th year at the time of death. She moved to Iowa, then to Ashland, Oregon, and came here in 1912. She was a beloved member of the Eastern Star lodge. Surviving children are John S. Silsby, of Oregon City; Mrs. George G. Kerr, of Wedderburn, and Miss Esther Silsby, of this city, all of whom were with their mother in her last hour.

Prunes to Be Heavy Crop

(Register Lane County Special)

COTTAGE GROVE, Ore., June 14.—That prunes are going to be a heavy crop this year is indicated by a limb which broke from a four-year-old tree on the W. G. Bittinger place. The limb broke because of the weight of the fruit. In a space of two feet there were 125 prunes. There were no frosts this spring to injure any fruit and no rains to interfere with pollenization and the indications are that prunes will be the heaviest crop for several seasons. All prune growers report heavily-laden trees.

Wool Clip Larger That Estimate

(Register Lane County Special)

COTTAGE GROVE, Ore., June 13.—A Eugene wool buyer was quoted a few days ago as stating that he had shipped 16,000 pounds of wool, which was said to be practically the entire Lane county wool clip. Powell and Burkholder, of this city, have themselves bought and shipped 32,000 pounds of wool and two other buyers have shipped quantities nearly as large, so that 16,000 pounds was only a small part of the entire clip of the county. Cottage Grove always makes large shipments of wool and mohair.

DAILY MARKET REPORT

OREGON JOURNAL MARKET SERVICE

PORTLAND, Ore., June 14. — Storage holdings of dairy products are greater at Portland this season to date than a year ago, despite the backward weather conditions which gave a very late start.

The increase has been shown in both butter and eggs, although as yet ice house holdings of cheese are much below this period in 1921.

That there should be a greater input of butter into storage this season at this time as compared with a year ago is really surprising in view of the fact that the outside demand has up to a short time ago been so abnormally good that it was only with difficulty that the trade here could secure anything for its own coolers.

EGG SITUATION IS ABOUT SAME

Practically no change is shown in the egg market situation here. Receipts continue to show slight losses but demand is not very heavy. Sufficient stock coming for all requirements here.

VEAL SITUATION IS VERY POOR

While no further change in top price of country-killed calves is shown along the street, considerable good stuff is selling from 1 to 1½ cents under the top. Hogs are about steady. Trade generally overstocked with poor veal.

FIRST BING CHERRIES ARE HERE

Hollam and Co. had the first Oregon Bing cherries of the season on display Wednesday. The stock arrived Tuesday and initial sales were at 25c a pound. Shipment was from The Dalles. Quality is good.

STRAWBERRY MARKET BETTER

Better tone was shown for strawberries on the East Side Farmers' market at $1.25 @ $1.50, while in Front street similar prices ruled most of the day for good class fruit. Receipts showed a loss.

BRIEF NOTES OF PRODUCE TRADE

Asparagus firm, scarce and high at $2 a dozen bunches.

Mississippi tomatoes offered around $2.75 @ $3.50, the latter for repacked.

Qued local and California peas are scarce and around 9@11c, but poor stuff was very plentiful and sold around 4@6c.

Cabbage market considered steady with best at 4@4½c pound.

Gooseberries are slow sale around 8c per pound generally.

Chicken trade about steady at prices listed.
