Don't Delay Strawberry Canning

The strawberry season promises to be short this year, so we advise you to order your canning berries at once if you haven't already done so. As has been our annual custom for years, we are specializing on the famous Goodell berry for canning purposes. The Goodell is a wonderful canning berry, so you can't afford to be too late.

Campers Should Make Food Arrangements With Us

We are making a special effort to give campers and vacationists the same service at their outing place that they enjoy from us at home. We have employed an expert food packer especially for this service and we can assure you that groceries, meats, bakery goods and prepared foods sent out to you by us will arrive in perfect condition. Remember, we can serve you with your daily needs if you are on any stage line.

Order a Malted Milk-Mix from Our Ice Box

Something very new: A malted milk shake right from the ice, perfectly sealed—all flavors, and just like you get it at the fountain. These sealed milk-mixes make a cooling and nourishing drink for any time of day. Keep a few on ice, or we will send them right out from our ice-chest.

A New Preserving Aid—"Certo"

"CERTO," known as sure-jell, is another addition to our ever growing stock of very latest specialties and aids to better cooking. Certo is a contracted fruit pectin and is said to cause fruit juices to jell in about one-third the usual time, thus preventing the flavor from being boiled away. Certo makes perfect jellies and jams. Shall we send you a bottle today?

Fine Radishes Now

If you are searching for some novelty or green vegetable to brighten up your table we recommend radishes. We have both the red and icicle varieties. Just order a few bunches and note the approval they instantly receive.

And Green Onions, Too!

Of all vegetables obtainable in spring and summer the green onion is probably the most healthful and the most popular—onions contain considerable iron, you know.

We have loads of other vegetables, too—new peas galore, asparagus, cucumbers, lettuce and new potatoes. Some fine gooseberries, too.

Picnic Service Par Excellence

Just tell us how many in your party and what you would like to serve and your picnic food troubles are ended—we will prepare and pack your picnic food, and probably just as cheaply as if you went to all the trouble.

Tales of Those Who Tour

"I've traveled enough now to know just what I have," said M. F. Jones, of Los Angeles, who with his wife and nephew, intends to spend a few days fishing on the McKenzie. His outfit is complete in every detail, even to electric lights, and the whole takes up far less space than would be imagined. Mr. Jones has toured across the continent three times, and his collection of photos is unsurpassed.

T. B. Eckhart and his family started on a real "joy hunt" and they've enjoyed every minute of it. They don't much care how far nor how fast they go, so long as they are outdoors, and "living" good. They expect to spend the entire summer along the coast, and will probably go as far north as Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. V. Eymott, Charles Medley and H. Immer have driven over from The Dalles, and will spend several days here visiting around. Mr. and Mrs. Eymott lived here seven years ago, and though Mrs. Eymott says "the place has grown so I'd hardly know it," they are planning on feeling at home just the same.

Dr. B. F. Shoemaker, of Portland, is on his annual vacation tour, and this time intends to take his family clear to the Mexican border. His youngsters were busy rigging up their "fishin' tackle" which, says the doctor, will be used quite a bit since the party is in no hurry. They will return some time in September.

George Rasmussen, with his wife and baby, started out from Nelson, B. C., and so far have suffered no bad luck, except the loss of their travelers' checks. A wire to their bank from here however, brought relief, and so impressed are they with the treatment they have received here that they have decided to remain several days, and as Mr. Rasmussen says "know more about these hospitable Oregon people." They will spend several days up the McKenzie, where Mrs. Rasmussen will use her skill with a camera to advantage.

W. K. Sheperdson has driven over from Lewiston, Mont., and may locate here, if he can complete present plans. His son, Don, is with him, and wants to look over the university with a view to entering in the fall.

Y. M. C. A. TO LEAD HIKE

ALL NIGHT PARTY PLANNED ON COAST FORK OF RIVER

Today at 1 o'clock, 35 boys, accompanied by W. B. Walter and Ray Murray of the city Y. M. C. A., will hike up the Coast Fork of the Willamette on an all-night hiking party. The boys will take along blankets, plenty of food, and fishing tackle. Swimming facilities are also said to be excellent and the party will probably spend a portion of the time in the water.

Several hikes are planned for the summer, and the boys of the city, under the guidance of Y. M. C. A. men, will visit most other places of interest within hiking distance. Blankets and camp equipment will be carried up in a car, while the entire party will walk all the way. They will return late tomorrow.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE THEATRES TODAY

Rex—Constance Talmadge in "A Primitive Lover." Charles W. Hawley playing "Why Should I Cry Over You?" Ben Turpin in "Love and Doughnuts."

Castle—Doris May in "Gay and Devilish." Buster Keaton in "Hard Luck."

Coming offerings—Marshall Neilan's production "Paul First" University of Oregon Quartet; Charles W. Hawley in organ concert; Priscilla Dean in "Wild Honey." Carter De Haven in "My Lady Friends." Star Cast in "The Prodigal Judge." John Gilbert in "Arabian Love."

Reminiscent of a day that has passed, yet apropos to the theme of "Why Should I Cry Over You?" a short strain of "I'm Sorry I Made You Cry" is interpolated by Charles W. Hawley in an organ solo rendition of the first named late song hit, which is being presented with pictorial words on today's Rex program.

Choosing between two men is the difficult task for a woman (who is already married), that is assigned to Constance Talmadge in "The Primitive Lover" at the Rex. One of the men happens to be her screen husband, who discovers a method, not original but forgotten through long disuse, of retaining his wife's affection.

Cynthia Stockley's novel, "Wild Honey," has been read by thousands and liked because of its strongly dramatic plot construction and the human appeal of its central character, Lady Vivienne. The pictorialization of it will be at the Castle theatre on Monday, with Priscilla Dean in the principal role.

"Gay and Devilish" opens at the Castle theatre with Doris May, Cullen Landis, Otis Harlan, Jacqueline Logan, Bull Montana, Kingsley Bendict and other fun-makers. Miss May has one of her delightful flapper parts.

A welcome augmentation to today's Rex Program is Ben Turpin in "Love and Doughnuts," a two part comedy of the Muck Sennett brand.

"Fools First" is the bewitching title of the next production to be seen at the Rex, where it will begin a three-day run on Monday. It was produced by Marshall Neilan and is one of the strongest photoplays ever made by that noted producer. The theme of the story is based on the famous statement of Robert Louis Stevenson: "I have seen wicked men and fools a great many of both, and I believe they both get paid in the end—but the fools first."
