SEVERAL HUNDRED VISIT THOMPSON JERSEY FARM
American Authority on Cattle Addresses Crowd
CALF CLUBS WIN AWARDS

Stockmen from Remote Parts of County on Hand to See Noted Herd and Hear Talks

Feeding, weeding, breeding and advertising—these are the four points of a good Jersey raiser's eleventh commandment, according to Frank B. Astroth, field manager of the American Jersey Cattle club, who yesterday afternoon spoke to over 350 Jersey raisers from all parts of the county attending the meeting held at the Owen Thompson farm in the Lake creek valley. Enthusiastic Jersey admirers from places distant as the coast were on hand to see the famous Thompson herd and to hear some of the noted Jersey authorities of the country.

Last night the Lane County Pure-bred Jersey Cattle club, through its president, T. Q. Green, publicly expressed its appreciation of the work done by Ira P. Whitney, county agricultural agent, who has been the nucleus of the program at the Thompson farm yesterday. People who attended said that it was the best of its kind ever held in this county.

Mr. Astroth said that many cows were scrubs, not because of poor stock, but on account of improper feeding. Touching on his second point, Mr. Astroth said that Jersey herds should be weeded by some of the recognized tests and the culls should not be allowed to stay in the fold. Considering breeding, the speaker referred to the necessity of obtaining good sires if owners expected to raise good cows. The importance of thoroughly testing out the herd and then properly advertising the stock was touched upon by Mr. Astroth, who also referred to the Jersey men of the county by T. Q. Green of Coburg, president of the Lane county cattle club.

Prize Herd Is Seen
The crowd began arriving on the picnic grounds near the Thompson ranch shortly before ten o'clock yesterday morning and by noon the beautiful site among the trees was filled with people and cars. The feature of the setting was Mr. Thompson's entire prize herd of Jersey cows tied to a great tree that had fallen across the grounds. Each one was tethered to a peg stuck in the big tree.

The judging contests between the various calf clubs of the county was another feature of the program. The Deadwood calf club was awarded first prize, Blachly second, and the Middle Willamette club, third. Two boys tied for first award, Roy Prindle, who lives on the upper Deadwood creek, and Ross Taylor, of Blachly. The three calf club members who tied for third were Earl Myers, Lucienne Norton and Walter Tusp. Curtis Robinson, of Laurel Home, won the award for the pig club boys. It was pointed out that the calf clubs are carrying on work which is very essential to the proper development of livestock of the county.

Informal Program Held
At noon yesterday the people who took part in the Jersey tour enjoyed a cafeteria lunch served under the shade of the trees. During the afternoon an informal program was carried out and many of the prominent Jersey raisers of the county were called upon for a brief talk. Some of the men who talked during the afternoon were W. J. Burke, of Canby; L. Furnish, of Adair; Francis Addis, editor of the Oregon Farmer, and M. C. Jamison, Jersey expert from O. A. C.

Last night a small group of the Jersey men met in the rooms of the chamber of commerce for an informal gathering and a social chat. It was planned to show pictures illustrating work carried on by various Jersey farmers, but the visit to the Thompson ranch did not terminate until after four in the evening and few were able to come into the city.

JAIL STILL DISCOVERED
PRISONERS TRY TO MAKE PRUNE MOONSHINE

Have Dried Fruit With Water and Sugar in Pitcher; Had Begun to "Work"

Had the plans of some of the prisoners of the Lane county jail been carried out, at least a gallon of prune moonshine would have furnished exhilaration enough for them to make a bold attempt to escape.

Yesterday Deputy Sheriff Croner in searching the cells for files and hacksaws discovered beneath the bunk in one of the cells a gallon pitcher filled with crushed dried prunes to which had been added water and sugar, and the deputy sheriff said it had just begun to "work." The prunes had been taken from the regular daily ration. Deputy Croner says that no more prunes will be served.

Discovery was made yesterday morning of a very small three-cornered file and with this a hacksaw had been partially fashioned out of one of the case knives used by the prisoners. It is believed an attempt to make a break for liberty had been planned.

FOREST FIRES CHECKED
AVIATORS REPORT THAT FLAMES ARE NOW CORRALLED

Erratic Winds Have Cleared Skies and Switched Blaze Back Over Path Traveled

The two army planes which flew over Douglas and Lane counties yesterday reported no new fires and brought back to the base here the word that all forest blazes in Western Oregon are now under control. According to Captain Lowell Smith, in charge of the 81st aero squadron here, the cool weather has assisted greatly in checking the flames which until a few days ago were sweeping through the timbered hills.

And which has been blowing steadily but erratically during the past few days has also helped the fire fighters in the battle with the flames. The wind has been constantly switching and the fires have been blown back over the path just traveled. These winds have also cleared up the atmosphere and Captain Smith has reported that the skies over this part of the state are now very clear.

Communication from Washington, D. C., yesterday, stated the patrol would be kept on duty over the state forests here for the next 60 days, or until the wet season starts in.

MAY RAISE CRESCENT LAKE
BIG DAM EXPECTED TO BE BUILT AT OUTLET

Application for a special-use national forest permit in connection with the construction of a $36,000 storage dam at the outlet of Crescent lake which will raise the level of the lake ten feet has been filed by C. M. Redfield, engineer for the Deschutes county municipal department district, formerly the Tumalo irrigation district.

The dam, to be started within fifteen days and completed in three months, will store surplus flow, to be turned into the Deschutes river in the spring and drawn out at flood by a diversion canal which will connect with the Tumalo feed canal.

AVIATION TRUCKS ARRIVE
FOURTEEN ENLISTED MEN FROM CRESSY FIELD HERE

Train Comes in at 7:30 Last Night After Having Been on Road Since Saturday Morning

Fourteen enlisted men of the 81st aero squadron from Cressy field, San Francisco, arrived in Eugene last night at 7:30 with four trucks and two touring cars to be used in connection with the airplane forest patrol from the main base in this city. The men left San Francisco Saturday morning and half on account of a broken wheel on one of the trucks.

It was pretty rough going a part of the way, the men said after their arrival. It was good as long as the trucks were on the pavement but there were so many detours around construction work that it made the trip rather disagreeable, they said.

Camp will be pitched today on the municipal flying field and the routine of army life will be resumed.

ROAD WORK SOON TO START
