FARMERS UNION IS ACTIVE

MEETING IS HELD WEDNESDAY AT CLOVERDALE

(Register Lane County Special)
CRESWELL, Ore., Aug. 26.—The Farmers' Union of Cloverdale met at the school house Wednesday evening, this being their regular meeting. While not an extra large crowd was present, a lively meeting was held and considerable business was done. Some of the business propositions contemplated at a later date by the union were discussed.

The Farmers' Union, while only recently organized at Cloverdale, is gaining strength, as is the county union, and so far has proven to be very powerful to the farmer. The union expects to have some announcements to make in the future. The next meeting will be held on the second Wednesday in September, and every member of the union is requested to be present.

WAS A BROKEN-DOWN WOMAN

Then I Began Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Medicine.

Donaldsonville, La.—"I write with pleasure to praise your medicine—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—which has done so much to restore my health. I was a broken-down woman until my husband brought me a bottle of your Vegetable Compound and one of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Purifier. I have been having and at intervals between, was weak and seemed to be smothering at times, but in a week I felt like another woman. I also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. It did me a lot of good too. I cannot praise your medicines too much and will be more than glad to recommend them to any woman who is suffering from female troubles. You may print my testimonial, as it is true."

Mrs. T. A. LADDY, 612 Miss St. Donaldsonville, La.

Note Mrs. Laddy's words—"As it is true." Every lady recommending Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is genuine. It is a statement telling the merits of these medicines just as the women in your own neighborhood tell each other about them. For fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has sold on merit.

"Mother Why Not Try The Newer Form Of Iron"

And Be Strong and Well and Have Nice Rosy Cheeks Instead of Being Nervous and Irritable all the Time and Looking So Haggard and Old!

"The doctor gave some to Bessie Smith's mother and she was worse off than you are and now she looks just fine." There can be no healthy, beautiful, rosy-checked women without iron. Good physicians have strongly emphasized the fact that doctors should prescribe more of the newer form of iron—Nuxated Iron—for their nervous, run-down, weak, haggard-looking patients. When the iron goes from the blood of women the roses go from their cheeks and strength and vitality from their bodies. This newer form of iron, like the iron in your blood and like the iron in certain green vegetables, is highly recommended to thousands who wish quickly to increase their strength, power and endurance. It is surprising how many people suffer from iron deficiency and do not know it. Iron is absolutely necessary to enable your blood to change food into living tissue. Without it, no matter how much or what you eat, your food merely passes through you without doing you the proper amount of good. You don't get the strength out of it, and as a consequence you become weak, pale, and sickly-looking. Just like a plant trying to grow in soil deficient in iron.

You can tell the women with plenty of iron in their blood—beautiful, healthy, rosy-checked women, full of life, vim and vitality. You can get Nuxated Iron from any druggist under an absolute guarantee that it will do the same for you or your money back. Schaefer Bros., Carroll's Pharmacy, 222 Main Street, Eugene, Ore.

TARRYTOWN FLUTTERS WHEN JOHN D. ARRIVES

Richest Man Drops Barriers for Camera Men

HERETOFORE HAS BEEN SHY

Even to His Fellow Townsmen the Little Man of Wealth Is Very Much of an Enigma

(Correspondence of the Associated Press)

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 26.—

Is John D. Rockefeller, passing the Indian summer of his life on his vast estate in the Poconos Hills, at last letting down the barriers he has always raised against photographers and reporters?

This is a question that has been interesting the newspaper profession ever since the world's richest man, on a recent Sunday, permitted cameramen to snap him to their heart's content after they had consented to follow him into church for service.

Mr. Rockefeller, who bears the reputation of being one of the most camera-shy men in America, may be becoming more lenient in his attitude toward photographers, but as yet he has given no indication of taking reporters into his confidence.

An effort to interview Mr. Rockefeller on the recent occasion of his 54th birthday anniversary—made, as usual, through a third party representing the household—brought the response "Impossible." As no reporters as yet have succeeded in storming the well-guarded gates of the Rockefeller home, the modern Croesus goes unphotographed.

Even to his fellow townsmen the little man, slight of frame, who appears in midsummer in leather waistcoat, overcoat and muffler, is very much of an enigma.

Home Pointed Out to Visitors

Tarrytown points out to each visitor the home of John D. Rockefeller, urges the visitor to go up and see where Rockefeller lives, talks constantly about Rockefeller—but rarely sees him itself.

Very seldom do Tarrytowners get inside the gates which guard the big home back in the hills. Once in awhile they see John D. come down town and sit in his machine while a chauffeur goes into a bank or a store.

Ever since the oil king celebrated his 54th birthday, Tarrytown has been seething over the question of who is its oldest citizen. There is no question as to the most famous.

An ancient who sits in front of the big hardware store, just around the corner from the station, concedes first place to John D. The ancient admits he is only 82.

But an Italian has asserted his grandfathers is 88—and there is a farmer who lays claim to 99. Still, even in the face of odds, Tarrytown stands loyally behind its prominent citizen, and announces to the world that its oldest citizen today is none other than the man who made oil famous.

Still Young in Spirits

But the town maintains that Mr. Rockefeller is still a youngster in spirits.

"Any man who plays golf as frequently as he does," began one citizen, when he was interrupted with a question as to whether John D.'s private links were regular size.

"Certainly it is, but John D. goes around it slowly," replied the citizen, but another Tarrytowner broke in with a denial.

"It is not. It is only about four holes of a normal course. And John D. takes three hours to make two of 'em."

Last but not least, in Tarrytown's viewpoint towards its leading citizen is the tradition of the dimes, the day of days for the boys and girls. Sparsingly, John D. Rockefeller gives 10-cent pieces away to children. How did it start?

Three stories are current:

Number one—Three boys, many years ago, walked up the hill, climbed the stone wall, went up to the porch and saw Mr. Rockefeller. They asked him for a dime apiece—and got it. Since then, it is said, the oil magnate has held his yearly party.

Prodigal with His Money

Number two—A boy was standing down town when the Rockefeller machine drove up. A package dropped out. The boy picked it up and handed it to Mr. Rockefeller personally.

The boy got a dime, and John D. Rockefeller got an inspiration which he has followed ever since.

Number three—A lad was lost. He wandered onto the Rockefeller mystery links. The oil king saw him. He took him into the house, gave him a dime and sent him home. And the 10-cent party sprang from that.

Whatever the cause, "Dime Day" has become to the youth of Tarrytown a day apart, ranking with Christmas and the Fourth of July.

Superfluous

Walter Camp, the famous athlete and trainer, was talking about rough football.

"One of the roughest players Yale ever turned out," he said, "went west to work on a ranch. The cowboys, having heard of his fame, asked him to teach them football."

"So the Yale man made up two husky sleeves, explained the rules and wound up with:

"Mind, men, if you can't kick the ball kick an opponent. Now let's get busy. Where's the ball?"

"Oh, drat the ball," said a cowboy; "let's get on with the game."

All Makes of Batteries are Welcome Here!

Some drivers of cars not equipped with Willard Batteries think they ought to go to the service station that sold the battery. Not at all!

The safest rule is to go to the place that gives you the best attention, has the most skilled workmen and seems to be most on the job—the place that deserves the title of "Battery Headquarters."

That's the kind of battery station we have always run and always expect to run.

Come in and we'll show you how near to 100 per cent we are in skill, courtesy and promptness.
