All Kinds of Material---All the New Patterns Visit Our Store, This Week!

In your spare moments, at very little cost, you can make any of these charming dresses. Our piece-goods counter offers you a large selection of suitable materials—serge, crepe de Chine, charmeuse, Georgette, poplin, taffeta, etc. And the Deltor, enclosed with each Butterick Pattern, shows you how to make the dress from start to finish.

4269-4235—This is one of the new three-piece suits, with jacket and skirt made of serge, tricotine or poplin, and the body of crepe de Chine or printed silk in contrasting color. You will find an excellent assortment of materials at our piece-goods counter, and at the Butterick Pattern counter you will find your patterns. The Deltor, enclosed with each pattern, fully explains every unfamiliar detail in the making of the suit. For instance, it tells you how to bind the edge of the pockets.

4237—In soft silks this dress is very effective. And you will find many silks to choose from at our piece-goods counter. The beaded ornament at the belt need not worry you, since full instructions for making it are given in the Deltor, that wonderful dressmaking guide found only in Butterick Patterns. And on the back of the pattern you are told what bead needle and how many bunches of beads to buy. Every little detail is taken care of in Butterick Patterns.

4249—Success in a dress of this sort depends largely on the suitability of the material used. Heavy crepe de Chine, or charmeuse, or similar heavy soft materials will give the circular skirt the right hang. You will find these materials at our piece-goods counter, and the pattern at our Butterick Pattern counter. Before you buy your material, consult the pattern to find out how much—or rather how little—you need. The Deltor, enclosed with each pattern, enables you to lay the pattern out on the least possible amount.

4244—Made of taffeta this dress will be useful indoors now. In organdy, or in voile or dotted swiss trimmed with organdy, it is suitable for the South or for the Summer. Make it in your spare moments. The materials you will find at our piece-goods counter, and the pattern can be had at our Butterick Pattern counter. The Deltor, enclosed with the pattern, shows you how to make the dress from start to finish—even the streamer and flower worn at the side.

SLABWOOD and Planer-Ends

Our Slabwood has been piled since early summer, and has more fuel value than second growth fir, and many of our customers claim it is the equal of body fir. Order a load and convince yourself of its quality.

Our Planer Ends is light wood, especially recommended for kindling and quick fires. Try some of them, and you will find starting the fires these cold mornings a real pleasure.
