CITY WILL ENDEAVOR TO COLLECT ASSESSMENTS

Delinquents Must Pay, Says Mayor Peterson

PROPERTY TO BE SOLD

Many Thousands of Dollars Due for Street and Sewer Work, Records Show

Efforts will at once be made by the city officials to collect many thousands of dollars due on assessments for street and sewer work, according to Mayor C. O. Peterson, who at tonight's council meeting will present the subject.

According to the records of the city, there are outstanding a large number of property owners have failed to pay a cent for paving and sewers abutting their premises and some of the assessments have been delinquent for many years. In some cases there are delinquencies on the first pavement laid in Eugene about 14 years ago and the interest on some in a number of instances amounts to about as much as the original assessments.

The law enables the city to sell property upon which these assessments are due in just such a manner as the county can sell property for delinquent taxes. No attempt has ever been made to sell a piece of property on this account but the mayor declares that this will have to be done, at least in the case of property on which the assessments have been due for many years.

It is expected that the council at tonight's meeting will adopt the mayor's recommendation.

At tonight's session a contract with R. H. Thomas, the Seattle engineer, who was here a short time ago and looked over the Amazon slough, whereby he will be employed to make a survey of the stream and furnish plans for its improvement, will be accepted and drawn up and has the O. K. of the mayor and City Attorney Foster.

J. DIETEL IS FOUND DEAD

VENETA FARMER DIES ALONE IN HIS CABIN

Jacob Dietel, aged 64, was found dead in his cabin on a farm near Veneta Sunday, and, according to Veneta farmer, who took charge of the remains, it appeared as if death had occurred a week previous. There was no evidence of foul play, the coroner said, and death probably resulted from heart trouble or something of the kind.

Ross Huston, neighbor, found the remains. Mr. Huston had been ill for about a week or he would have noticed that Dietel was not around the place. Sunday when he came to his barn, there was an answer to his rap on the door and upon opening it he found Dietel dead in his bed.

Dietel had been living there alone for about seven years. He leaves two daughters, one at Corvallis and the other at Portland.

SNOW PILES UP HIGH IN HILLS AND MOUNTAINS

Reported to Be Several Feet Deep in Cascades

LOGGING CAMPS CLOSED

Only Flurries Occur in Eugene and None Remains on Ground Except on Higher Elevations

While the snow on the nearby hills and back in the mountains is quite deep, none remained on the ground in Eugene and vicinity except on the higher elevations on College Hill and on the heights back of Fairmount. Flurries occurred at frequent intervals yesterday and the day before. Yesterday morning the snow began to fall as if it intended to keep it up and the ground was white for a short time but soon melted.

Reports from the mountains indicate that there was an exceedingly heavy fall of snow. The Booth-Kelly logging camps after having resumed operations only a few days ago after a two weeks' layoff because of the previous storm, were compelled to close again. Twenty inches fell on top of the 16 or 18 inches of old snow that still remained on the ground and made operations impossible.

While the snow in the city yesterday that the McKenzie river stage was stalled above Blue River and that the mail had to be carried out to a point where cars could operate.

In the hills only a few miles southwest of the city the snow is reported to be quite deep. While they are only 100 to 150 feet higher than Eugene it is reported that it was a foot deep in places. Even as located three miles west of the city it is several inches deep.

Late Sunday night the wind was very strong, disabling telephone and telegraph wires and poles in different parts of the valley. A line of telephone poles on the McKenzie highway between Springfield and Thurston was blown down for half a mile or more and poles on other lines were propped up.

The storm in the lower valley and in various other parts of the Northwest has been much more severe than it has been here. Southern Oregon is covered with blankets of snow, the principal cities and towns reporting a fall of several inches while Willamette valley points north of Eugene report much more than has fallen here.

HEALING ADDRESS TOPIC

DR. CONKLIN TALKS TO INTERESTED AUDIENCE

Gives Brief History of "Suggestion" Movement and Tells of Its Results

The large crowd that gathered at the Congregational church Sunday night in spite of the inclemency of the weather to hear Dr. Edmund S. Conklin's address on "Healing by Suggestion" shows the great interest being taken by the public in the whole question of healing by other than the ordinary methods of medical science.

Dr. Conklin gave a brief history of the whole "suggestion movement" covering magnetism, hypnosis, Christian Science, the emanation movement and other phases of the same phenomena, telling something of the experiments that have been conducted, together with their results. He showed how the basic principle underlying them all is the same, and how functional diseases can be cured.

At the close of his address he was asked a number of questions by the members of his audience. In the way he answered these questions as well as in the presentation of the subject he showed a complete familiarity with the whole field of suggestion.

The address, which was timely owing to the Coe movement, was pronounced to be enlightening and was well received by the audience.

WELFARE PROGRAM READY

RED CROSS OUTLINES WORK FOR COMING YEAR

Major Activity of Chapter Will Be Confined to Work Among Disabled Veterans

Outlines of the peace time program of the Lane county chapter of the American Red Cross were presented at the monthly meeting of the board of directors of the organization last night by the committee that has been in charge of the work. Recommendations were made that the major activity of the chapter during the coming year be confined to part time service with assistance and relief to ex-service men having service disabilities and to their families. That the chapter assume responsibility for the care of all civilian cases reported by competent direction to some authorized agency, was also recommended by the committee.

Preparations for the taking care of cases of disaster were also suggested as a part of the work of the organization for the year. A report on the activities of the chapter for the month of January was submitted to the directors. The report shows that 67 disability cases of former service men, four civilian cases, 12 general cases and 52 office calls were handled during the month. Supplies for the sick were contributed by members of various organizations of the county including pneumonia jackets by the members of the Business Girls' club, according to the report. Plans for the registration of those who will enroll in the women's life saving corps are being directed by Carolyn Cannon, supervisor, were also made during the month.

NEW MILLS WILL OPEN

TWO PLANTS BEING EQUIPPED BY LOCAL FIRM

Oregon Machinery Company Is Providing Much Equipment for Lumbering Industry

Mechanical equipment for two new Lane county sawmills is being made here at the plant of the Oregon Machinery company. One plant with a daily capacity of 25,000 feet will be established on the Sluslaw near Walton by the Martin Mill company. This mill will be in operation within 60 days according to the present plans of the owners. The other plant is located near the town of Corvallis and is expected to be in operation within another month.

The Oregon Machinery company is also sending out a carload of sawmill equipment to the Woodcock brothers' plant near Grants Pass, according to A. E. Lohr, president of the company. Other mill machinery is being made ready for Milo Pierson who operates a mill near Lakeside. The "Gallop engine" designed by Fred Walters is being shipped to the Lohr plant for use in the transportation of logs. Mr. Lohr states that the demand for sawmill equipment is on the increase and that much activity during the coming summer is indicated for the Lane county lumber industry.

WOOL GROWERS GET COIN

TWO HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS DISTRIBUTED

Several Payments Made During Year to Farmers in Oregon, Idaho and Washington

The Pacific Co-operative Wool Growers in January distributed another wool payment amounting to $200,000 to 1200 Western Oregon wool growers. In December, the association distributed $150,000 to growers in Idaho, Washington and Eastern Oregon. In November it sent out $44,000 to some 400 growers representing sales of its graded mohair. There will be still another substantial payment before the entire 1922 pool is finally closed, it is announced. These wools were graded, some being scoured, by the association in a manner throughout the year. As a result, member growers will receive several cents per pound more than was obtainable for mixed, ungraded wools at shearing time. This margin is based on three to twelve cents per pound depending upon the grade of wool.

The Pacific Co-operative Wool Growers sold wool for the highest price ever of Ohio in 1922, when one carload of Southern Oregon wool was sold at three-eighths sold for 51.52 and 52 1/2 cents respectively. On the finer and medium grades the association average prices established new high points for the wool in 1922. Over half a million pounds of wool were sold at these prices.

Growers of good wool received substantially more through the association's grading process, as the wool was sold on its merits for actual value. Wool manufacturers and wool growers believe the educational value of grading and marketing the clip in the best known commercial market, as carried out by the association is worth thousands of dollars to the wool industry of the Northwest.

The association, whose headquarters are in Portland, represents wool growers residing in Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Northern California. Directors of the association are Fred W. Herin, Ashland, president; C. L. Beckler, Corvallis, vice-president; J. B. Cornett, Shedd, secretary-treasurer; other directors are J. W. Smith, Aurora; T. D. Tyrer, Friday Harbor, Wash.; G. H. Thompson, Macleay, E. A. McCormack, Eugene; W. E. Hurd, Madras; Wm. J. Hurd, Jr., Monmouth; R. Roy Booth, Yoncalla; Scott Henry, Oakland; Frank DeFord, Central Point; W. W. Poland, Shedd; H. G. Hurd, G. A. C. Corvallis.

BASEMENT WORK STARTS

R. A. BABB PLANS TO EXCAVATE NEXT WEEK

Salesrooms for Establishment Will Be Provided for in Improvements Under Way

Work of excavating for a basement in the Coleman building on Willamette street, owned by the R. A. Babb Hardware company will be started next week if the contracts can be completed by that time, according to Mr. Babb, who announces that estimates on the job of work are now being made by contractors. Announcement of the proposal to build the basement early in the spring was made by Mr. Babb several months ago.

A full concrete basement with a dimension of 56x110 feet is included in the improvement plan which also includes an entrance from the present store of the Babb Hardware company. The basement is to be established in the basement to provide for additional facilities owing to the growth of the business, according to the store owner. The building in addition to the Babb Hardware company, is owned by the photo shop and Carroll's drug store on the ground floor and the United States rooming house occupies the two upper floors. The entire basement will be used by the R. A. Babb company. The building is owned by the Eugene Bible university and Mr. Babb last fall closed a lease on the property for eight years.

OUTSIDE AUDITORS COME

SAN FRANCISCO FIRM TO GO OVER COUNTY BOOKS

Commissioners Say That It Will Be Different From Others That Have Been Made

The annual audit of the books of the different county offices of Lane will commence in a few days, according to announcement of Commissioners Emmett Sharp and L. N. Roney, who have closed a contract with Robinson, Sharr and Nowell, an auditing firm of San Francisco, for the work.

A representative of the firm was expected to arrive February 19 but he had not reported to the court up to last night.

"We have learned that there is quite a demand all over the county for an audit by someone who has never been connected with any of the offices in the courthouse," said Commissioner Roney. "We expect this audit to be more than a mere check-up. It will be thorough in every way."

For many years past local accountants have been engaged each year by the county court for the annual audit. C. A. Horton, M. S. Wallis and J. M. Williams are among those who have had charge of the work in the past.

Chamber of Commerce Discusses Arrangements for Church Conference Here

Arrangements for the holding of the annual meeting of the Seventh Day Adventist church at the county fair grounds here were discussed at a meeting of the board of directors of the Eugene chamber of commerce last night. The meetings were held here two years ago and the chamber provided for the furnishing of light and water for the tented colony during the ten-day session. It is expected that at least 500 Adventists from various parts of the state will be here for the meetings this year which will be held in June, according to word received from Rev. T. H. The board of directors also planned for the holding of a reception for the 165 new members that have joined the organization during the past few weeks as a

2 BOYS REPORTED LOST

WANDER AWAY IN SNOW ABOVE WENDLING

Two boys living at Wendling are reported to have become lost in the deep snow in the mountains back of that place yesterday and a searching party was out during the day but as far as could be learned last night they had not met with success. The names of the boys were not learned. The report of their disappearance did not reach here until after the telephone office at Wendling had closed for the day. The office at Marcola and Mabel also close early and no information could be obtained from these places.

The officials in the office of the Booth-Kelly company here had heard of the report of the boys being lost but had heard no names.

NEW BRIDGE IS WANTED

CRESWELL PEOPLE ASK FOR SPAN OVER COAST FORK

Commissioners Look Over Site and Say It Will Be Expensive to Build There

County Commissioners Emmett M. Sharp and L. N. Roney, at the request of a number of Creswell citizens, yesterday made an inspection of the site of the proposed bridge across the Coast fork, a mile east of Creswell. The people of that town are anxious to have this bridge built as it would provide a much nearer route from the Cloverdale country to Creswell and would naturally attract more business from that section of the county to the merchants of the town.

The present bridge across the Coast fork is two miles out of the way for the farmers of Cloverdale and it is said that rather than travel these two extra miles the farmers come to Eugene instead.

The commissioners said they did not hold out a great deal of encouragement regarding the early construction of this bridge. Commissioner Roney, who is a bridge man, said that it could be built for $100,000. The amount left in the bond issue for the Cloverdale road, he said, is a difficult place to build a bridge. A long fill would be necessary at one end and the cost itself would have to be longer than the present one above.

SPIRITUALITY HELD NEED

GREAT DROUGHT OF IT, SAYS EVANGELIST EDDINGS

Too Much Formality and Too Few Follows with Spirit, He Declares

Sunday morning at the Church of God Evangelist S. H. Eddings took as his text Ephesians 5:8: "Be not drunk with wine wherein is excess but be filled with the spirit."

"I am not going to preach a 'temperance sermon,'" said the evangelist, "but will take up rather the latter clause of this scripture. There is a great drought of spirituality in the land today. There is too little spirituality—too much formality—too few filled with the spirit—too many cold professors."

"God is more willing to give the holy spirit to them that ask Him than earthly parents are to give good gifts to their children, so reads John 14:16. There are many mistaken ideas in the world such as the common belief that we receive all at conversion. The twelve apostles were converted before they received the holy spirit. Also Cornelius was a real Christian man when he received the holy spirit. But we see weaknesses of carnal nature in them before the holy spirit came upon them."

"Some people demand that all speak in tongues and they tarry and agonize and work themselves up into a religious frenzy. The spirit does not work on this manner. The gospel says let everything be quiet and in order. The holy spirit bestows the gifts as he sees fit to bestow. We do not need to expect a duplication of what happened in the day of pentecost. What happened then was the witness and confirmation of the fact that the Comforter had come into the world."

Sunday evening the text was as follows: "And what will ye do in the day of visitation and the desolation which will come from afar, to whom will ye flee and where will ye leave you in glory?" Isaiah 10:3.

"When Christ comes again," said the evangelist, "it will be his second visitation. Christ had a purpose in his first visitation. He came to preach good things. He came not to condemn the world but to save the world."

"Some people say they have salvation but to look at them you'd think they had the colic."

"Christ doesn't put a burden on people when they become converted but takes the burden off. The way of a Christian is a happy, holy, clean way full of joy. Christ came to bind up the broken hearted. Every heart must break sooner or later. If death has ever entered your home you know the meaning of a broken heart."

"There always comes a time when sin gets you if you continue in it. But the blood of Jesus can set you free, if you will," said the evangelist in closing.

There were 22 conversions at the close of these services Sunday. Meeting will continue throughout
