MAIL ROUTE IS URGED

COLLEGE CREST MAY HAVE POSTAL DELIVERY
Proposal to Provide for About 75 Families of District Is to Be Discussed

Establishment of a rural free delivery mail route for the College Crest district is being discussed among residents of that section and it is possible that efforts will be made to have the service extended, according to officials of the College Crest Community club, who have been active in promotion of the plan. A meeting of the board of directors of the club is scheduled to be held this evening and it is possible that Postmaster Edwin Yonker will attend the session to confer with those interested in the proposal.

A survey of the needs of the district in the way of mail service and the sending of this data with recommendations to the postal department is necessary to have the proposed rural route established, according to those favoring the arrangement. About 75 families of the College Crest district would be benefited by the extension of rural route 1. All residents of that district at present have to come to the Eugene postoffice for their mail. A tentative mail route of about five miles has been worked out and this will probably be discussed as a suggestion for the service.

Plans for the summer activities of the Community club will be arranged by the directors. Whether a July 4 celebration will be held as in former years has not been decided, officials report.

FRUIT MEN COME TODAY

CARAVAN OF 30 OR 40 CARS TO MAKE TRIP
Will Start from Salem and Go Through Part of State Inspecting Plants

Fruit growers of the Willamette valley will start a part of today in Eugene on a tour from Salem to the southern part of the state. This will be the first annual fruit caravan arranged by the Oregon Eugene Fruit Growers' association. The party will start from Salem this morning and visiting different towns along the route, will arrive in Eugene some time about the middle of the forenoon, according to arrangements. The plant of the Eugene Fruit Growers' association will be visited and the party will then proceed south, taking lunch at Sutherlin and going on to Roseburg where the night will be spent.

The party will visit Grants Pass, Medford and Ashland and then a trip will be made by the number of the party to Crater lake if the snow has disappeared sufficiently on the roads to permit the trip.

Earl Peary, district manager of the association, is directing the caravan and reports that 30 or 40 cars will be at the Eugene fruit grower's office. The first stop out of Salem will be at the B. W. Johnson's famous Oregon apple orchard at Monroe.

PILEDRIVER IS AT WORK

BRIDGES TO BE BUILT ON TERRITORIAL ROAD
Commissioner Roney Looks at Several Construction Jobs and Secures Right of Way

A pile driver will be put to work today on the Cheshire north section of the old territorial road, which is now being macadamized according to N. Roney, county commissioner, who was out in that part of the county yesterday. There are a dozen or more small bridges on that route which will require piling and the driver will be at work for a number of weeks, said the commissioner.

Commissioner Roney yesterday obtained about three-eighths of a mile of new right-of-way across the old Ferguson place west of Beer Creek postoffice for the high pass road improvement which is now under way. This will eliminate a pretty sharp grade. Nearly two miles of the grading on this section of improvement has been done, said the commissioner, and excellent headway is being made. The work is under the direction of Walter Campbell, supervisor.

The commissioner was also out in the Elmira and Nott vicinity and found that another week's work will complete the surfacing of a short stretch between those two towns that has been under way for some time. He made arrangements for the dressing up and smoothing of the rough crushed rock on the road up Elk creek out of Nott. It is now almost impassable, he said.
