AN OPPORTUNITY
In a little booklet issued by the Hill group of railroads as a part of the advertising campaign which they are carrying on in behalf of the Pacific Northwest, the statement is made that there is room in this region for not less than 16 additional pulp and paper mills with a combined yearly capacity of 800,000 tons. The U. S. forest service, quoted in the booklet, believes the Pacific Northwest can produce 1,500,000 tons of pulp and paper annually on a perpetual basis—that is, a new timber growth will equal consumption to that extent.

These figures recall the fact that in New England, where the bulk of the nation's paper is made, the paper industry is facing the practically immediate prospect of having to pull up stakes and move bodily to a new location. New England's pulp wood supply has been nearing exhaustion for some time, but the mills have been able to continue operation by the expedient of importing pulp and pulp wood from Canada. Canada, however, has forbidden export of pulp or pulp wood from crown lands, which in the past have been a chief source of supply. Canada's idea, of course, is to force the American mills which have been using Canadian raw materials to move their plants to Canada, bringing their payrolls with them. It appears to be inevitable that the mills will have to move somewhere—either to Canada or to the Northwest.

Oregon has more timber than any other state, and approximately one-fourth of all of Oregon's timber is located within Eugene's wholesale and retail trade radius. Already a considerable part of the pulp wood for the paper mills at Oregon City and Salem is passing through Eugene. An even greater share of it will pass through here in the future. The paper industry of the Northwest is facing exhaustion of its raw material supply, and therefore must move its plants or go out of business. Eugene is the marketing center for one of the largest timbered areas in the world. The conclusion is obvious. It ought to be possible, if the facts were presented in the right place and in the right way, to secure the location of paper mills in Eugene or Springfield.

WHERE LIFE IS BETTER
A resident of Eugene who is spending the summer in the East, writes that the days, on the average, are miserable, while the nights are nightmares. Not infrequently, he says, the mercury stands at 90 at 10 or 11 o'clock at night, and varies somewhere between 80 and 90 from then until morning. Refreshing sleep, of course, is impossible under such conditions. He adds that he would not accept the whole country as a gift if compelled to live in it.

Compare this with Oregon. There has been hardly a day all spring and summer when the heat has been even unpleasant, and there has been not a single night when moderately heavy covers have not been needed. Out here there is the guarantee that the weariness resulting from the day's labors will be banished by a night of restful sleep. In the East in midsummer the night merely adds to the fatigue of the day.

We of the Pacific Coast maintain that life out here is better, and it is no idle boast. Back in the interior there are two months in the summer when people do not live—they merely exist and wait longingly for the coming of cooler weather in the fall. Similarly there are from two to four months in the winter when instead of living as human beings out to live, they retire within their shells and shiver and freeze and wait for spring. Out here we live, really live, all the time; there are no extremes of blistering heat or biting cold. We do not have to waste whole seasons waiting for enduring weather.

To each of us there is given but one life to live. We who live out here get immeasurably more out of a lifetime than they get in regions less favored.

Professor Voronoff announces that he has learned how to take 30 years from any man's age. Pooh! Pooh! Any woman can take more than that off her age without half trying.

They've had an earthquake shock in Los Angeles; thus disproving the contention that nothing can shock Hollywood.

Down in Texas they are suing a candidate for libel. Shucks! Hasn't Texas learned yet never to take a candidate seriously?

Mexico is still speculating over the reason back of Villa's death. One moderately sound reason is that he deserved killing.

Earlier Days in Eugene
(From the Eugene Morning Register, July 24, 1904.)
A delegation of Eugene business men interviewed the county court this week requesting that the county add to a special fund raised in the city for the improvement of the McKenzie highway. The county court will match the city fund. The business men asked for $2 for each acre of the McKenzie road. The county court will match the city fund. Thomas Heersma, farmer, residing one mile and one-quarter west of Eugene was instantly killed in a runaway accident on West Eleventh street about 11:30 o'clock yesterday. Mr. Heersma was thrown from his wood wagon as he was driving into town. The accident happened near Lawrence street when his team became frightened. E. Broders caught the runaway team near Charleston street.

Yesterday Don E. Meldrum, former U. of O. student, arrived here with a crew of surveyors to establish the boundary lines of the extensive balm timber holdings of the Willamette Pulp and Paper company of Oregon City. The party made its way up the McKenzie about eight miles from Springfield and from that point will work back down the river to Oregon City.

G. R. Chrisman, mayor and county judge has appointed following delegates to represent Lane county at the organization of the Oregon Development League: Portland and Astoria, J. W. Atkinson; Lanes, R. Bowers; Llewellyn; G. C. Millett; Junction City, Frank Osburn; Eugene, R. A. Booth; S. R. Eakin; Eugene, Gus Washburne; Springfield, W. W. Scott; Creswell, J. W. Shumate; Waller, and James Hemenway, Cottage Grove.

The remodeled M. E. church at Springfield will be officially dedicated Sunday, July 31, at 10:30 a. m. Bishop Earl Cranston, Presiding Elder Ford and Dr. I. D. Driver will officiate. The church has been extensively improved. Quite a number of Eugene people will attend the ceremony.

W. J. Lloyd, representing the R. L. Polk directory publishers, is here to start work in the compilation of the Eugene and Lane county directories.

BUY MORE WHEAT IS SLOGAN FOR NATION
Wheat growers' association in conference with Mr. Brown approved the program and indicated that they will seek to sign up 65 per cent of the Washington tonnage by October 1 of this year. An intensive campaign is contemplated, it was announced.

In connection with the statement that a price-fixing plan was part of the program of the American Wheat Growers, Associated, Mr. Brown said:

MOTHERS AND THEIR CHILDREN

Traveling with the Baby
One Mother Says:
In making a long journey with my bottle-fed baby in the summer I prepare, boil and pack his milk in ice before starting. I use two covered tin pails, one fitted into the other. The space (about an inch) between the two is filled with sawdust. The bottles of milk, packed in cracked ice, are put in the inner pail. Both pails are covered tightly then with a canvas cover made for the whole. It makes a very satisfactory "thermos bottle."

To warm the bottle I take a small enamelware pitcher holding a pint and have it filled with hot water (from the dining car if on a train). Then I stand the bottle in it to heat.

PRESIDENT WINS MATCH
PLAYS SHUFFLEBOARD TO WHILE AWAY TIME
(By The Associated Press)
ON BOARD THE U. S. S. HENDERSON, WITH PRESIDENT HARDING, July 23.—President Harding won his first match today in a shuffleboard tournament arranged aboard the Henderson to while away the time on a three-day voyage from Sitka, Alaska, to Vancouver, B. C. The tournament began this morning with 40 entries, including the president and most of the members of his immediate party.

The Henderson left American waters shortly before noon and steamed through Dixon entrance to the inside passage off the coast of British Columbia. A stop is to be made near Campbell river, British Columbia, tomorrow, for the President to take a short fishing trip.

Attempts are being made to arrange Mr. Harding's itinerary from Seattle to the Yosemite national park so as to provide for a stop at Sacramento, California. Nothing has been concluded on this point. The present schedule brings the presidential train in Sacramento before daylight Sunday.

BAN ON RUHR RESISTANCE
INTER-ALLIED COMMISSION ISSUES ORDINANCE
(By The Associated Press)
BERLIN, July 23.—The inter-allied Rhineland high commission has issued a sweeping ban on resistance, according to press dispatches received here, aiming to throttle the German passive resistance in the Ruhr and Rhineland.

The ordinance apparently leaves no loophole, but the Berlin news papers declare it will serve only to stiffen the resistance. It provides extreme penalties for participation in propaganda or written or spoken opposition to the prevailing ordinance, for interference with the commission's activities or otherwise organizing resistance.

Punishment is provided even in the case of offering a sack of potatoes as an inducement for holding out against the occupational authorities, according to the dispatches.

"There is only one reply to this arrogant assumption of authority—passive resistance now, more than ever before," says the Lokal Anzeiger.

POLAND, TURKS PARLEY
NEW TREATY NEGOTIATIONS ENTERED AT LAUSANNE
(By The Associated Press)
LAUSANNE, July 23.—Poland and Turkey entered into new treaty negotiations today. Their representatives signed three documents—a general treaty establishing friendly relations, a commercial treaty on the basis of the most favored nation, and an additional commercial convention. This last document includes features of the European treaty with Turkey which will be signed by the allied and Turkish representatives tomorrow.

Serbia will not sign the treaty between the European powers and Turkey, it is understood, as she finds certain of the economic and financial clauses unacceptable. A protocol of accession will be opened after the signature, leaving the possibility of further negotiations in Serbia's future.

How Linit Brings Out the Dainty Freshness of Your Children's Garments

THERE isn't anything quite so charming as the crispness of your children's dresses, nor anything in which a mother takes more pride.

The trouble is to keep the little dresses looking fresh and dainty. One reason for this is that ordinary starch does not resist the dust or permit the fabric to stay clean.

That is why mothers welcome Linit, the remarkable new starch discovery.

Because Linit remains thin and free-running like water, it penetrates every thread of the fabric, and helps strengthen it, preventing wear, thus increasing the life of the material. Linit was originally developed for the use of the makers of fine fabrics, and is now for the first time available for family use.

For baby's dainty clothes, there is nothing that produces quite such a delightful effect as Linit—or gives such a fresh, spotless appearance.

Important To You

Be sure to use Linit according to directions, and unlike other starches, you will not find Linit stiff or jelly-like. This is why Linit goes much further than the old-fashioned kind of starches—and why it is easier to iron with Linit.

Makes Cotton look and feel like Linen

Go to your grocer, ask for a 10c package of Linit and begin to use it for all fabrics. Perfection in starching guaranteed—or your money refunded.

Linit is made by the Corn Products Refining Company—makers of the famous Argo Starch—Karo Syrup and Mazola Salad and Cooking Oil.

Old Port Wine Mingles With Olive Oil—A Boon To Good Health—Portolive

Portolive builds up brain nerve and body. It recharges the run-down nerve battery, brings back the old gusto, "go get" the things you are ambitious for.

A simple, food-value, top-value combination of the old port wine and the famous oil of the olive combined with other health-toning ingredients restores in a moment the body against the ravages of colds, fevers, influenza, and other ailments which strike when the body is at low ebb. Carrots, tomatoes, and other vegetables are rich in carotene, which is the source of the vitamin A. This vitamin is essential for the health of the body. Portolive is a good source of this vitamin.
