Our baker is making a wonderful new kind of devil-food cake, and have you tried the French fruit cake? Fresh pumpkin pie today, too—what a treat! Also blackberry, lemon, apple and butterscotch.

Our Bread Is Sent Far to an Appreciative Customer

STRAWBERRIES ARE HUGE
MRS. L. F. WOOLLEY CARRIES OFF HONORS FOR FRUIT

(Register Lane County Special)
COTTAGE GROVE, Ore., Aug. 9.—A person need not be much of a mathematician to fill boxes with strawberries such as those growing on the city garden of Mrs. L. F. Woolley. Certainly Mrs. Woolley is a mathematician in the field of fruit. She has raised to fill a box to running over full. Some of the berries are as much as five inches in circumference. The vines are of the everbearing variety and continue to produce the luscious and beautiful monsters until frost in the fall. If frost should fall to come the berries, which have no way of keeping track of the time, probably would keep on producing indefinitely.

Mrs. Woolley has a Gravenstein apple tree that is so heavily loaded with almost ripe fruit that she has hardly been able to find enough loose timber about the place to prop the limbs.

DAILY MARKET REPORT
OREGON JOURNAL MARKET SERVICE
PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 9.—Advance of 2c a pound which took effect in the market for prime butter today, was more or less followed by the market. The trade here was not fully inclined toward the advance in prints, but owing to various conditions was forced to follow the lead of other markets.

Quality considered, this market is rather high. The disturbing influence appears to be Northern and Southern interests who are favorably situated and therefore a position of strength is even 94 score butter. Practically only a limited number of creameries anywhere in the West are able to turn out a product at this time that will compare with the quality of the California trade, in fact the score there is usually one point higher than even the quality-desiring New York trade.

Cube butter was quoted at 29¢ 40c for state extra, while the limited volume of centralizer stock offered was around 41¢ 42c a pound.

All butterfat quotations are 2c above previous values.

Trading in the egg market is very firm and active with full prices realized.
