DOLLARS ABROAD

There is sound money in Germany, in spite of the worthlessness of the mark. It consists of perhaps $500,000,000 in good American "yellowbacks."

The Germans, as they have seen their own currency vanishing in exchange value, have grabbed every American banknote they could lay their hands on. Their holdings can hardly be considered in circulation at present; they are hoarded against a time of worse stress. But they may form the neucleus of a new, dependable German currency when the mark is officially repudiated.

American bankers say that in another couple of years Germany may have as much as a billion dollars in our money, accumulated from the American army of occupation, American tourists, the sale of German goods in this country and the gifts sent abroad by German-Americans.

The same tendency is observed in various other countries whose own currency is badly depreciated. All Europe appreciates the fact that the American dollar is the soundest medium of exchange in existence, and accepts our gold certificates even in preference to gold itself, because they can be more easily handled and stored away.

Eventually, if the process continues, it may work to this country's disadvantage by draining our supply of currency. So far, it does good rather than harm. There is more than enough money in America for our own business needs. The scattering of a few hundred millions abroad increases respect for our financial soundness and increases foreign ability to purchase American goods.

PROFANITY

"The average educated person uses a vocabulary of 8000 words," says a paragrapher. "Stick around when he has to change a tire and you can prove this statement."

Nonsense! We have observed a lot of different persons, educated and otherwise, changing tires, and the most striking fact about their utterance was the lack of variety and richness. The remarks vouchsafed were usually pungent, but they lost their effectiveness from too frequent repetition.

That is the trouble about profanity, anyhow. Hardly once in a lifetime do you hear a really fluent swearer. The big majority of people, as soon as they begin to swear, begin to limit their expressive vocabulary and thus cripple their style. On the other hand, a non-swearer, driven to seek words and phrases accurately bodying forth his pent-up feelings, can often express himself freely for half an hour without repeating.

CANADA

Many Americans think of Canada as a small country to be patronized rather than respected. As a matter of fact Canada, besides being our best neighbor, has the distinction of being our best customer. This year, as usual, it is buying more goods from us than any other foreign country—more than all Europe together, if Great Britain and Germany are omitted; more than all South America and incomparably more than the great, populous continent of Asia.

"Distance lends enchantment," in appreciation of people and scenery and even in export trade. Exporters are likely to dream of some far-off Golconda where riches await them, ignoring the trade opportunities at their very door. Tourists cross the sea to visit regions far less attractive, especially in the summer time, than the great, lovely stretches of forest, water and mountain, thriving cities and trim villages just beyond our northern border.

As for the people there, it requires a visit to appreciate them. The intelligent citizen from the United States almost invariably finds them "our kind of people," with perhaps a little more calmness and courtesy than is customary among us. The visitor who has been abroad along alien races appreciates especially the advantages of finding so near at hand, in such a fine natural setting, our own language and a civilization and a point of view so like our own that it is absurdly easy either to do business or have a good time. Such differences as there are only enhance the interest and add piquancy to travel and intercourse.

Here are two countries which ought to know each other better. They will profit mutually by closer personal association.

A Brooklyn doctor has just performed an operation on a Spanish prince that restored his hearing. Considering the things that are likely to be said about Spanish princes, that is a doubtful kindness.

The more anyone drives over macadam roads the more convinced he becomes that lack of maintenance is the costliest mistake that can be made. It is a great pity that systematic road maintenance has been done away with in Lane county.

A couple of French astronomers are to make an effort soon to photograph what is behind the sun. What is in front of the sun, though, is what we're really interested in at this season of the year.

Five great nations have started the task of scrapping their battleships. Meanwhile twice that number of nations are busily preparing to do a little "scrapping" with their armies.

Up at Ellensburg, Washington, the other day a motorist collided with a mule, and it is perhaps unnecessary to add that the damage was sustained chiefly by the automobile.

Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes says, through her lawyers, that her reputation has been damaged to the extent of a million dollars. But was it worth that much to begin with?

The hunting season opened yesterday and at the time this was written no one had been shot for a deer. That's a good beginning, anyway.

Early Days in Eugene

(From the Morning Register, August 21, 1904)

Special trains will be run to the Bohemia mines during the session of the American mining congress, which convenes in Portland August 22 to 27.

Henry E. Ankeny, who arrived in Eugene from Ashland yesterday to meet Mrs. Ankeny, who was en route from a visit at Oakland, Cal., was suddenly taken ill yesterday after dinner and for a few hours was in somewhat of a serious condition.

The old brick church at the corner of Ninth and Pearl streets, owned by H. R. Kincaid, and used at present by the Eugene business college, is to be made over into a two-story business block.

George Fisher and Otto Olston left yesterday for Portland, where they will arrange an exhibit of ore from the Blue River mining district at the session of the American mining congress.

Born, in Eugene, August 19, 1904, to Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Luckey, a son.

The Lucky Boy mine has been closed down until after September 10, to install its new cyanide plant.

E. H. Ingham, proprietor of the Ax Billy department store, is home home from a trip to the Bohemia mines.

Roy Knox and Frank Hanson have returned from an outing at McKenzie river resorts.

MOTHER SEVERELY SCORED

Proposal to Give Little Daughter Away Is Held Disgraceful

EUGENE, Ore., Aug. 20.—(To the Editor)—Just reading the article in your paper of Sunday, August 19, in regard to a mother wanting to give away her little three-year-old daughter and all claims to her, just because her second husband did not like the little girl, is enough to make one's blood boil.

The mother who will give up her own helpless little child for such a man deserves to receive brutal treatment from him, simply because of her heartlessness and lack of back bone.

She is not a fit mother, therefore, it is sincerely hoped that some kind person who is capable and able to care for and educate the little one will come to the rescue, as the safety of the little child is at stake with a mother who lacks a mother's love and who can be influenced by a cowardly stepfather.

No doubt others who have read that article will feel that the child should be taken from them at once and that they be driven out of the country. As time goes on, that mother might have found that the love of that daughter would have proven to be much more to her than just a male who could not have been called a man in the true sense of the word. It is a pity she couldn't have learned before marriage that he disliked the child.

It is a true saying that a man who does not like children has something wrong in his getup and needs watching.

MRS. S. J. WILSON.

MOTHERS AND THEIR CHILDREN

Twilight Play Circle

One Mother Says:

During the summer I invite all the children in the neighborhood to come twice a week for a play night on our lawn. They learn new games, stage little plays, or have "club" entertainment. It does not take much of my time to plan these, and it helps greatly in promoting neighborhood harmony, helping the bashful child to fit in the group, and training them to work out things together.

PLAN FOR MEXICAN RELATIONS HEARD

understanding that final decisions must be made by the Washington government itself.

Ambassadors Hopeful

"The two groups of commissioners," said Mr. Warren today, "have agreed on a basis that has been found agreeable to the Mexican government. We hope, of course, that it will be acceptable to our own."

Two claims conventions are proposed in the plan to provide machinery for settling finally and on an impartial basis, all the questions remaining open on the resumption of full relations.

One would deal with claims growing out of the revolution and the other with mixed claims. It is assumed that should all other features of the rapproachment plan be found acceptable and an American ambassador named to the long vacated post at Mexico City, the two conventions could be concluded and brought into effect without difficulty or delay.

Before the death of President Harding it had been the general understanding in Washington that R. B. Creager, of San Antonio, Texas, would be named as ambassador when relations were resumed. Whether President Coolidge will follow out that plan has not been indicated in any authoritative quarter and apparently has not been given serious thought by Mr. Coolidge himself. It was said recently at the White House that the question of selecting an American ambassador would be decided after the larger question of resuming relations had been disposed of.

CO-OPERATION IS URGED

FRUIT MEN LOSE MILLIONS BY LACK OF UNITY

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Aug. 20.—"Northwestern fruit growers must co-operate in the matter of prices as well as on grades, pack and regulations," declared John W. Langdon who returned today from Detroit, Mich., where he attended the convention of international apple shippers' association.

Millions of dollars a year are lost to growers of the Northwest because of the lack of co-operation on prices, according to Mr. Langdon.

Fruit growers of one section may ask a reasonable price for their product but cannot secure it, according to Mr. Langdon, because buyers are afraid that another section of the Northwest will dispose of their product at a lower price. This would mean that the man who bought at the reasonable price would be forced to meet competition at a loss.

FOUR FALSIFIED IN TRIAL

STOKES DIVORCE CASE WITNESSES ADMIT GUILT

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Four witnesses in the sensational W. E. D. Stokes divorce trial have admitted that they testified falsely, it was disclosed today by Chief Assistant District Attorney Ferdinand Pecora. The suit was brought by Stokes, wealthy hotel owner, against Helen Elwood Stokes, his wife.

Mrs. Stokes now is seeking $1,000,000 damages from her stepson, W. E. D. Stokes, Jr., "Weddie," as he is commonly known, on the ground that he was party to a scheme to defame her character.

Mr. Pecora held the alelged false testimony all bore upon one of the most sensational features of the trial, the charge that Mrs. Stokes had been seen in the New York apartment of Edward T. Wallace, wealthy California oil man.

12 BANDITS LOOT TRAIN

REGISTERED MAIL TAKEN IN OKLAHOMA HOLDUP

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Aug. 21.—More than a dozen bandits held up southbound passenger train No. 123 on the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad at Okesa, Okla., south of Bartlesville shortly before midnight, according to messages received by the dispatcher of the road here.

The bandits appeared when the train reached Okesa at 11:06 P. M., last night and forced the train crew to cut off the engine, tender, mail and baggage cars, and proceed about a mile south of Okesa, according to the information.

Passengers were not molested, it was reported, the sleeping cars and chair cars being left behind in Okesa.

The robbers escaped with 36 packages of registered mail, the value of which is unknown.

Light Meal

He was unaware of the eccentricities to be found in the Wild West when he entered what seemed to be the only hotel in the place. After ushering him to a table and giving the stranger a glass of ice-water, the waiter inquired: "Will you have sausage on toast?"

"No, I never eat 'em," the guest replied.

"In that case," said the waiter, "dinner is over."—The Open Road.

WORK ON CUTOFF WILL START SOON

The cost of construction was estimated by the commission at about $16,000,000. No plan of financing was contained in the application or the commission's order other than the reference to retention of excess earnings.

According to figures submitted by the road, the annual gross revenues from the property will average about $2,464,848 during the first five years and will approximate $3,000,000 annually thereafter.

MURDER DONE IN REVENGE

SON-IN-LAW KILLED BECAUSE HE WHIPPED HIS WIFE

NEWMAN, Ga., Aug. 20. — To avenge a whipping given his daughter, John W. Winter told the police here tonight he shot and killed Millard Trouton, his son-in-law, in the presence of his sons and son-in-law, after Trouton had been kidnaped from near his home by them. The father took all the blame for the killing, declaring, the police said, the brutalities administered to his daughter had "preyed on his mind."

He told the police that he had sent five bullets into Trouton's body while members of his family held their kinsman in a woods near this place a fortnight ago. Later, with the assistance of his sons and son-in-law, he threw the body into a creek. About one week ago the body of Trouton was found floating in the shallow waters of the stream.

COAL FUTURE DISCUSSED

U. S. COMMISSIONER CONFERS WITH MR. COOLIDGE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20. — "Eventualities" in the anthracite situation were discussed with President Coolidge today by Chairman Hammond of the coal commission.

"We merely discussed eventualities," said Mr. Hammond, after the conference. "I had no more information than I had when I saw the President on Saturday, but Mr. Coolidge is a man who wants to be prepared. For that reason I again went over the situation quite thoroughly with him."

Mr. Hammond declared that the commission had left the negotiation of a new wage contract up to the miners' and operators' representatives, who resumed discussions today in Atlantic City, and it was for them to give an answer to the commission's proposal.

SHORTEN DRESS LENGTH

BULGARIAN WOMEN PLEASED WHEN PREMIER DIES

(Correspondence of the Associated Press)

LONDON, Aug. 18.—The death of Stambuliski, former premier of Bulgaria, seems to have had more than a political effect in his country. No sooner was it confirmed, says a Sofia news message, than the women in the cities began to order and make new dresses, and to buy new shoes with high heels.

This is all due to the fact that Stambuliski had ordered that women's dresses should be worn long, and even described the exact length. He also ordered that all shoes should have flat heels, and the police were instructed to enforce these regulations.

Now the demand for dresses and high-heeled shoes in Sofia is so great that the shops cannot meet it.

Careful Man

A motorist meeting an old colored man trudging along the dusty road generously offered him a lift.

"No, sah, thank you, sah!" said the old man. "Ah reckon mah ol' laigs will take me 'long fast enough."

"Aren't afraid, are you, uncle? Hav you ever been in an automobile?"

"Nevah but once, sah," was the reply, "and den Ah didn't let all mah weight down."—Boston Transcript.

Good Bread Builds Muscle

THE muscular structure of the body needs protein. The protein in the food you eat preserves the muscular tissues, building them up as they break down, replacing them as they dissolve. Your diet must supply a certain amount each day.

In bread—bread such as BETSY ROSS—you secure 59% of your daily protein requirement. Besides that bread contains ample supplies of carbohydrates, iron, phosphorus, calcium, and other mineral salts—in fact, no single food you eat contains so many health-giving qualities.

But, always be sure your bread is BETSY ROSS, for "There's A Difference in Bread," and all bread is not so high in these essential body requirements.

Try this recipe:

Bread Croquettes with Peaches

2 cups stale bread crumbs
1/2 cup blanched and chopped almonds
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon melted butter
1 cup milk
2 eggs
1/4 teaspoon salt
Canned peaches

Put bread crumbs into a basin, add chopped almonds, butter, salt, lemon rind and juice, and milk. Heat mixture and let boil for a minute, then remove from fire. Add yolks of eggs. When mixture is cool, form into six croquettes. Brush these over with beaten egg whites, roll in fine bread crumbs and fry in smoking hot fat. Serve with peaches.

Rheumatic Neuritis

Says His Prescription Completely Banishes All Rheumatic Pain and Twinges—Is Guaranteed.

Deep Seated Uric Acid Deposits Are Dissolved as the Rheumatic Poison Starts to Leave the System Within Twenty-four Hours

Every druggist in this county is authorized to say to every rheumatic sufferer that if a full pint bottle of ALLENRHU, the sure conqueror of rheumatism, does not show the way to stop the agony, reduce swollen joints and do away with even the slightest twinges of rheumatic pain, he will gladly return your money without comment.

ALLENRHU has been tried and tested for years, and really marvelous results have been accomplished in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and piteous, and where the patient was helpless.

Mr. James H. Allen, of Rochester, N. Y., the discoverer of ALLENRHU, who for many years suffered the torments of acute rheumatism, desires all sufferers to know that he does not want a cent of anyone's money unless ALLENRHU decisively conquers this worst of all diseases, and he has instructed druggists to guarantee it as above in every instance. Carrolls' Pharmacy, 788 Willamette street, Eugene, also Junction City, can serve you.
