Lane Schools in Lead

Oakridge High Makes 22 Standard in County Majority of Districts to Open September 17, Announces Superintendent; Some Start Earlier

With the standardization of the Oakridge high school to conform with the educational requirements of the state there are now a total of 22 standard high schools in Lane county, which is more than any other county in the state, according to a report of E. J. Moore, county superintendent of schools. The standard high schools of Lane county are Pleasant Hill, Lorane, Florence, Crow, Elmira, Walterville, Walker, Elkton, and the other district high schools are Eugene, Springfield, Santa Clara, Mapleton, Creswell, Coburg, Cottage Grove, Junction City, Marcola, Oakridge, Blachly, Dorena, Leaburg and Wendling. The majority of the Lane county schools outside of Eugene will open on September 17, which is the date of school opening in this city. Superintendent Moore reports several of the county schools will reopen September 4, while others will postpone the opening until later in the month, and perhaps in October, in order that the principal may assist in the fruit and other harvests. Eight months of school is required, and each district board selects the date of opening. Mr. Moore states: Margaret Hammer and Mrs. C. E. Pitney have been elected as teachers in the two rail car schools that are maintained in the Wendling district for the children of the employees of the lumber and other camps in that district. The cars follow the camps and are fully equipped for the school work.

At City Auto Camp

Columbia highway is liked Oregon declared cool Highway held worth while 'Jolly Bums' enjoy road

L. Borries, from Peoria, Ill., on his way to Los Angeles, was picked up with J. A. Gordon from New York. Both admit having a high opinion of the Columbia highway, in fact, upon leaving Washington, "it's great," remarked Mr. Borries. "It's better than anything we've hit." "Were you through Yellowstone?" they were asked. "Yellowstone? Why, we were there three days to see scenery at their expense that we're looked at all day for nothing. Oh, Oregon's a big state and its people are big. We crossed all the states between here and the East—all the states there are, and we're cheering for Oregon."

J. Edward Florence left Cleveland, Ohio, August 8, with his car filled with his children and his father and his wife. It was suggested that they must notice the heat in such a crowded condition. "Why, Oregon is like coming suddenly into the Arctic. You should tour through Washington and Idaho. It's Montana's conception of an auto camp that gives a man a pretty good conception of this sort of thing, too," he said, taking in the grounds with the eye of the connoisseur that he is.

J. W. Underwood and wife are on their way to the coast from New York city. They think that Oregon is quite the finest state in the Union. "The road is a highway should be changed for if Yellowstone is worth $7.50."

William Sheridan and Bert Ferris—"The Jolly Bums"—have carpet cleaned their way from Lewiston, Idaho, in their "good ship Elizabeth" and are thinking of making Marshfield their destination. They carry the carpet cleaning machine in the back of the car and have found making the where-with for gas and bacon and eggs a pastime. "The carpet hue and a fertile one," the husky Bill submitted, "and we haven't played it all we're going to—yet. Why, a man could take in Europe and start out with nothing but himself and a suitcase." Bread—The Best Food for the Aged

DR. WILLIAM TIBBLES, in a recent book on Food and Diet, advances statistics to show that more than 50% of the diet of aged people should be bread. Experiments have proven that a diet consisting of 20 ounces of bread and 18 ounces of butter, sugar, meat, potato, and vegetables daily, is a sufficient, and, on many occasions, an excessive diet.

Because good bread—bread such as BETSY ROSS—contains ample supplies of carbohydrates, proteins, iron, calcium, and other mineral salts, it forms the basis of a well-rounded diet for both young and old. Yet few people eat enough of this most complete food.

Serve more BETSY ROSS Bread. Serve it in the many attractive and appetizing ways possible. But, remember, "There's A Difference in Bread" and always ask for BETSY ROSS by name.

Try this recipe for dinner tonight:

Fried Oysters Dry 1/2 large oysters between pieces of cheesecloth. Beat one egg slightly. Dip oysters in egg and then into bread crumbs, frying either in pan or deep fat. Garnish plates with parsley and sections of lemon.
