DAILY MARKET REPORT

OREGON JOURNAL MARKET SERVICE
PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 28.—The Portland egg market has been materially weakened by the arrival during the last few days of three cars of supposedly fresh Eastern stock, which is being offered to the trade at prices below those quoted on local storage eggs.

Although no price decline was shown on either local fresh or storage eggs, the market is very weak, and unless some improvement is shown, prices may be lowered. Portland mills have consumed one car of Eastern eggs without any difficulty, as the Eastern stock would simply have taken the place of the eggs which were being brought out of storage.

But three cars were about two too many for this market at this time of year, especially when consumption was not greatly in excess of demand before the Eastern stuff arrived.

Butter and cheese markets are steady. Trading is good in both lines.

SUGAR ADVANCES 20 CENTS
Wholesale sugar prices were advanced 20c per hundred pounds on the Portland market Tuesday, as was announced Monday by The Journal. The advance here followed a similar move at the refineries.

LIGHT HENS TRIPLE FIRMER
Light hens appear to be a little firmer, and it was easier to get 14c per pound for this market at this time of year, especially when consumption was not greatly in excess of demand before the Eastern stuff arrived.

BARTLETT PEARS ARE RIPE
Local Bartlett pears are ripe and ready for marketing purposes. The trade will have to depend upon local pears sold entirely this year, as most of the Southern Oregon stock is reported to have gone to the canners. This week and the early part of next will be "pear week" this year.
