W.F. WALKER IS HONORED

MORTICIAN ELECTED SECRETARY OF STATE BODY

(Register Lane County Special) SPRINGFIELD, Ore., Oct. 12.—A resolution to put all cemeteries under state control was adopted by the State Undertakers' convention at Portland this week, says W. F. Walker, of this city, who returned from Portland today. Mr. Walker was re-elected secretary of the state association. The plan of caring for cemeteries is similar to the method now used for road upkeep, says Mr. Walker, and this is expected to be put in the form of a measure to be submitted at the next session of the legislature. It is the hope of the association that communities may be persuaded to abolish the old "graveyards with tombstones," and substitute "memorial parks with monuments," and it is the hope of the morticians that all places of burial may be well cared for.

WEEKS MAKES REPLY TO CHARGES BY HENRY FORD

Says Detroit's Statement "Reckless Assertions" SHUNS PUBLIC DEBATES

Secretary Adds That, If Necessary, He Will Place Facts of Gorgas Sale Before Proper Tribunal

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Secretary Weeks, in replying today to an attack on him by Henry Ford concerning the sale of the Gorgas steam plant of the Muscle Shoals project, said the "Detroit manufacturer's statement was filled with reckless assertions."

The secretary of war issued his statement late in the day after conferences at the White House. It was brought out by Mr. Ford's assertions in Detroit tonight, in which Mr. Weeks' actions and motives were placed under fire.

Mr. Weeks' statement said it was possible that Mr. Ford, "relying as he does upon other persons in the conduct of so many enterprises," was not himself possessed "of the full facts" as to the sale of the Gorgas plant. "I do not propose," he said, "to continue a newspaper discussion of this subject, but if necessary shall place all facts before a proper tribunal."

Weeks Takes Charges Seriously Although Mr. Weeks would not comment upon Mr. Ford's statement beyond issuing his own formal reply, there was every indication that he felt strongly on the charges that political influences were working through him had prevented the Detroit manufacturer from obtaining Muscle Shoals. During the day he twice discussed the situation with President Coolidge, the answer, which he carried with him last time after he had prepared his answer, which he carried with him to the White House.

The full text of Secretary Weeks' statement follows: "Muscle Shoals was a development for nitrate purposes in the war, which included the construction of a large dam on the Tennessee river, and the construction of air-fixing nitrate plants, with large quarries and as an adjunct to these plants in order to supply power pending the completion of the waterpower. Plant a steam plant was erected 90 miles away on the Warrior river, known as the Gorgas plant.

Reviews History of Plant "The total expenditures on these properties was about $12,000,000, of which less than $5,000,000 was spent upon this isolated and temporary steam plant. The steam plant was erected on the property of the Alabama Power company which reserved title to the land on agreed conditions with the Wilson administration for which this administration is not responsible and which gave to them the right to purchase the Gorgas steam plant.

"The proposal made by Mr. Ford for the purchase of this entire equipment involved the payment by him of $5,000,000 for the entire plant, including the above and isolated temporary steam plant. They also involved many other conditions with regard to the completion of the waterpower. Plant a steam plant was erected 90 miles away on the Warrior river, known as the Gorgas plant.

"The government had an option to accept this offer which was the highest made, or to salvage this plant as scrap iron, and from which they could not have realized more than $1,000,000. On the other hand it must be borne in mind that for this single item in the entire equipment the government has secured $3,500,000 against $5,000,000 offered by Mr. Ford for the entire plant and equipment.

Nitrates Output Proposed "At the time of the sale, in a desire not to disturb the status quo, the administration stated to Mr. Ford that this amount could be credited on his original offer of $5,000,000, if it was so wished. Mr. Ford's declared purpose in purchasing the Muscle Shoals is the manufacture of nitrates for fertilization purposes. I have the keenest interest in the development of air-fixation of nitrates in assistance of the American farmer and in the adaptability of Muscle Shoals for this purpose. An evidence of the government's desire to promote this end, it is carrying forward today the construction of hydraulic works on the Tennessee river with a view to making that great water power available for the purpose.

"I have never opposed Mr. Ford's securing the use of this water power or any other equipment we have, provided he is able to give such assurance of its being devoted to this particular purpose as will satisfy congress and properly protect the public interest. That he could have economically made nitrates by the use of steam power is denied by every expert adviser.

"The fact that he says his offer is still open would seem to indicate that he does not regard the Gorgas steam plant as necessary to him in the carrying out of his plan to purchase and develop Muscle Shoals water power."

Arthur Covell Planned Dozen Crimes in Oregon Campaign of Murder Laid to Noted Astrologer

Criminologist Declares Mrs. Fred Covell Put Out of the Way When She Threatened Exposure

SEATTLE, Oct. 12.—Declaring that he has turned over evidence to Oregon authorities revealing a series of 12 planned killings and a number of arson crimes said to have been contemplated by Arthur Covell, aged 46, noted astrologer, and a cripple, with his nephew, Alton Covell, Luke S. May, Seattle professional criminologist, who was called into the case, the remainder tonight to unravel the mystery. Arthur Covell and his nephew were indicted by the grand jury for the slaying of Mrs. Fred Covell, wife of a Bandon chiropractor, at her home two months ago.

May reported on his arrival here that after decoding a number of Covell's mysterious horoscopes he will submit to Marshallfield additional evidence that the crippled astrologer planned the murder of E. J. Pressey, wealthy Oregon dairyman, and his wife and three children, together with the burning of the bodies by firing the residence.

Motive in Cases Robbery "The motive was robbery," said Detective May tonight. Arthur Covell had made Pressey's horoscopes and was to direct his nephew to commit the murders when the family was under an unfavorable planetary influence. "Evidence has also been uncovered in other coded horoscopes which were to direct the nephew to rob and then kill two merchants in Bandon, Ore. Their last names are Sidwell and Squires.

"The plans of Arthur Covell were so minutely detailed that they even called for the removal of windows and doors before the home was burned. The stolen articles were to be used in a home which the Covells intended to build. Even wills were to be written in advance, turning the money over to the astrologer or his agents.

"One will was in the hands of authorities when I left Marshallfield, and it was so cleverly drawn up by him that it can hardly be detected as a counterfeit. Mrs. Covell, the chiropractor's wife, apparently had an inkling of previous crimes or those already being planned.

"She had threatened exposure and the uncle and nephew had decided to get her out of the way. This is the deduction I got after talking with Covell."

The Logic of the Case "Free state patrol—Have ye yer permit on ye for drivin' the car?" "Motorist—'I have that. Are ye wantin' to see it?" "Free state patrol—'Whaz for would I be wantin' to see it if ye have it? It's if ye had ut not that I want a look at it.'"—Punch (London).
