DRAGON FLY MIGRATES

WINGED HOSTS SET COURSE STRAIGHT FOR WEST

(Correspondence of The Associated Press)

HOZEMAN, Mont., Oct. 12.—With a course set straight into the west, and with flying hosts following in successive waves, the dragon fly of Montana is making a new chapter in natural history this fall. For the first time known in this section, there is a migration of dragon flies, a natural phenomenon which, in fact, is not recounted in any of the available textbooks on entomology.

Recently the curious migration was noted by entomologists at Montana state college. The insects were flying in dense waves, the waves being rather sharply defined as they passed. For a few minutes the air, at a height of some fifty feet, would be filled with insects and a few minutes later there would not be one in sight. Again and again came the waves, each insect driving a straight and rather steady course toward some unknown goal. On different days the migration was noted and speciment taken at the college. The speed of the winged "snake feeder" and the height of flight made a gathering of specimens a difficult matter.

So far as can be learned, the migration carries no special economic significance. The dragon fly pdeys upon small insects, largely mosquitoes, which it captures in flight. Both sexes are found in the migration. This flight of the insect in Montana is being carefully noted as it is of interest to observers of insect life where it may be of no importance to others.

MAY TAP SEVEN DEVILS

DISTRICT IN IDAHO RICH IN COPPER-BEARING ORE

(Correspondence of The Associated Press)

MOSCOW, Idaho, Oct. 20.—Possibility of development of the seven devils district of west central Idaho into one of the richest copper-bearing regions in the west is seen by D. F. S. Laney, geologist of the United States geological survey and head of the geology department of the University of Idaho.

Dr. Laney is incorporating in a publication soon to be issued the results of recent surveys conducted in the seven devils district by the geological survey and the Idaho state bureau of mines.

The region comprising the seven devils district is of the same formation as that which extends into Oregon, Dr. Laney believes. The Oregon field, with the assistance of railroad transportation, is being made to yield good returns, principally of copper ore, he said.

As a space saver there has been patented a kitchen table with an ironing machine beneath its top, the rollers being accessible as the top is folded back.

"WHEN A FELLER NEEDS A FRIEND"

When "Queenie," a collie, was run over in Chicago by an automobile, a policeman was called to shoot her. But Roland Schneider, four years old, who owned "Queenie," begged so hard for the animal's life, because she was "a mamma dog," a kindly veterinary surgeon set the dog's legs in splints. But there were more serious injuries, and "Queenie" died. When a photographer arrived, Roland sat in the back yard of his home, with a basketful of puppies whose eyes were not even open, and murmured through his tears, "I gotta do somethin'!"

Howard Humphrey of Eugene, Rev. W. J. Lee, pastor at the First Methodist Episcopal church south, officiated, using the ring ceremony. the wedding march was played by Mrs. G. L. Humphrey. The bride was charming in a gown of ivory satin with pearl trimming. Her wedding veil was caught up with orange blossoms and she carried a boquet of bride roses. The brides-was gowned in organdy and carried a boquet of bride roses. The bridegroom was attended by his brother, James Humphrey. A large number of relatives and close friends from Portland and Willamette valley towns and eastern Oregon were present. Following a dinner served at the home, the newlyweds left for a honeymoon trip, following which they will reside at Eugene, where Mr. Humphrey is engaged in business and where he has recently completed a home for his bride.

Town and campus friends are welcoming Mrs. Marion McClain back to Eugene after an extended absence spent touring various parts of Europe. Italy, France, Switzerland and Spain were on her route of travel, and she tells of a most interesting time, viewing everything from the devasted areas of France to opera in Paris. In jaunting about Mrs. McClain encountered several familiar Oregon faces, among them being Miss Julia Burgess, Miss Henriette Guoy, with whom she visited in Marseilles in southern France, Miss Jeanette Calkins, Miss Catherine Dobie, Miss Dorothy Collier and Miss Mary Townsend.

• • •

Mrs. Randall Smith, who is visitin her sister, Mrs. Thomas Wells, was the inspiration for a very informal and enjoyable little needlework tea, planned by Mrs. C. L. Teshner on Tuesday afternoon.

• • •

A total surprise to their friends here was the announcement of the marriage of Miss Myrtle Kays to Marsh Goodwin, which occurred in Portland on Monday evening at six o'clock. Although Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Kays, parents of the bride, had known of the engagement, the choice of a weeding date was a surprise to them also. The ceremony was read by Rev. E. R. Pence of Westminster Presbyterian church.

Mrs. Goodwin is a graduate nurse, and is now in charge of the surgery at the Portland eye, ear, nose and throat hospital. Mr. Goodwin is a former Eugene man, having graduated from the University, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Goodwin. He is in business with a Portland insurance firm, and is a member of Sigma Chi fraternity.

• • •

Following the tea on Thursday for which she was an honor guest, Mrs. Campbell Church asked a few of the friends of Mrs. George Gerlinger to her home for a very informal and pleasurable little dinner. The guests numbered Mrs. Gerlinger, Mrs. P. L. Campbell, Mrs. Murray Warner, Mrs. Virginia Beterly, Mrs. Mary H. Jewett, Mrs. W. G. Hale and Mrs. Sam Bass Warner.

• • •

Town and campus friends by the score were happy to hear late this week of the successful termination of the serious operation undergone by Dean John Straub in Portland on Thursday. With no complications, physicians predice a most satisfactory convalescence for Dean Straub. Both Mrs. Straub and Mrs. O. F. Stafford are in Portland.

• • •

Mrs. William Lord and Miss Elizabeth Lord returned on Friday to their home in Salem.

• • •

Mrs. Jesse Griffin is spending a short time in San Francisco visiting with friends.

For Mrs. A. P. Bowen and Mrs. Jacob Risley, both of whom have been visitors in Eugene during the week just passed, Mrs. Howard Hall asked a small group of old high school and college day friends to her new home on Garden avenue, on Thursday. The afternoon spent in needlework which offered most pleasant opportunity for visiting together.

Mrs. Risley and small son left Eugene on Friday for their new home at Boardman, Oregon after visiting Mrs. Risley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Mann, while Mrs. Bowen and little daughter Shirley departed for Portland yesterday after a visit with Mrs. Bowen's father, Mr. Thomas Roche.

Beautiful in appointment and detail was the bridge tea on Friday at the Osburn hotel.

For the afternoon, Mrs. Ernest Stroud, Mrs. Henry Holenbeck and Mrs. W. E. Powell were hostesses and to share their hospitality they had asked nearly a hundred friends for the hours of cards. More than a score of tables for the game were placed about the palm and tea rooms, and there quantities of autumn leaves, marigolds and cosmos made a rich and colorful background for the players. Assisting throughout the afternoon were Mrs. Herbert Roome, Mrs. W. F. Osburn, Mrs. H. L. Studley and Mrs. Chester Stevenson.

About four o'clock a number of additional guests called, dropping in quite informally for the tea hour.

• • •

A most interesting talk on Oregon writers by Miss Grace Edgington, given most informally and cleverly in her pleasant way, was the chief attraction on yesterday's program of the regular Fortnightly club meeting.

• • •

College Crest neighborhood club was entertained during the week by Mrs. J. A. Cressey, the members enjoying keenly their chosen study of Oregon, her political and social problems.

• • •

Mrs. William F. Johnson and Mrs. E. B. Parks were special guests of Mrs. H. L. Studley, who on Wednesday entertained U. D. club with a one o'clock luncheon at her home. Present as a new member of the club was Mrs. Harry Powell. This marks the opening of the club life for the winter months, and Mrs. W. O. Swan is to be the next hostess.

• • •

Scarlet salvia, dahlias and cinerarias made an attractively bright background for Wednesday bridge club members, who this week were entertained by Mrs. R. M. Pratt at her home. Mrs. Jerry Horn was welcomed as a new member of the group, which is to meet again this Wednesday with Mrs. S. J. Wilson. Thereafter the sessions will be once a fortnight.

Needlework about a cheery and friendly fire made a particularly cosy and pleasant Keto club's initial meeting on Thursday, Mrs. Guy Pyle being the hostess. Bright gaillardias and cosmos lent a further fall-like note, and at tea time the hostess served luncheon to her guests. Mrs. M. J. Skinner assisted and Mrs. F. T. Findtner is to be the next hostess.

• • •

Miss Lillian Seaton entertained quite informally at dinner on Thursday night at the Osburn, complimenting Mrs. William Lord and Miss Elizabeth Lord of Salem. Her guests, in addition to these two, included Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Rorer, and Mr. and Mrs. David Auld, who have just returned from a vacation trip of several weeks into the middle west and California.

With Mrs. Lord, Mrs Seaton plans to spend the winter motoring in California, leaving here in about a month.

• • •

Mrs. Wilson Coffey asked a few friends in for needlework and tea most informally on Thursady afternoon.

• • •

Wednesday afternoon is to bring a most enjoyable and hospitalable affair sponsored by the chamber of commerce auxiliary, who will on that date hold open house at the chamber rooms in special compliment to all newcomers in Eugene.

The hours are to be from three until five o'clock, and it is particularly urged by the committees that every member look up some one who is a stranger within the gates and act as a special hostess. And to those who by chance are not called personally, the committees extend a very special invitation, to come and meet the Eugene matrons who will be there to welcome them, since the reception and open house is planned with the avowed purpose of meeting and welcoming the many new folk who have come to make their homes here within the past year. There will be an interesting program of music during the easing hours, which is being planned by Mrs. Avard Fairbanks and Mrs. L. C. Liston.

Decorations are to be in the hands of Mrs. Wayne Green, Mrs. Harmon Anderson and Mrs. Guy Pyle, while Mrs. Beck, Mrs. R. L. Finlayson and Mrs. J. W. Kays are in charge on the dining room.

No cards have been issued for the affair, but is expected that several hundred newcomers and Eugene folk will call during the time.

A very pleasant afternoon was enjoyed by the needle club when Mrs. Preston Hart entertained at her home on Thursday afternoon. The approach of Hallowe'en was tastefully suggested by appropriate decorations in both the living and the dining rooms, and was further carried out at luncheon, with Mrs. Harold Wells assisting in serving. Congratulations were extended by letter, from the club to Mr. and Mrs. Olva Fisk upon the arrival of a daughter. Guests, besides club members, included Mrs. W. R. Robertson, Mrs. Neal Robertson, Mrs. Porterfield, Mrs. Harold Wells, Mrs. Bob Robertson, Mrs. Carl Calef and Miss Grace Schaffner. All members of the club are invited to an afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. R. Robertson 1315 Olive street, Eugene, Thursday, October 25. Mrs. Clint Chezem will be hostess for the next regular club meeting, November first.

At Creswell

(Register Lane County Special)

CRESWELL, Ore., Oct. 20.—The M. E. At Harrisburg

HARRISBURG, Ore., Oct. 20.—(Special to the Register)—Celebrating the opening of the pheasant season as well as the conferring of the third degree in Masonry, the local Masonic lodge ended the activities of their regular meeting Tuesday evening with a China pheasant feed. In all there were about 40 Masons present. The degree was conferred on J. Fred Mills, the bookkeeper for the Standard Oil company here, and at the conclusion of the work Mr. Mills was presented with a gift of a beautiful Masonic pin.

Those gathered for this festive occasion included many from Albany, Junction City and Eugene. The Albany delegation which included R. W. Davis and H. R. McFeeters, both formerly of this place, the latter late Standard Oil manager here, was headed by E. L. Wiedener, past master of the Albany St. John's lodge. It was Mr. Wiedener that conferred the third degree. F. L. Beard and Perl Widener were here from Eugene.

RUSSIAN REFUGEES UNDERGO MANY HARDSHIPS

(Correspondence of The Associated Press)

CLAREMONT, Cal., Oct. 17.—Perserving struggles for an education under the stars and stripes, waged by Russian refugees are revealed in the records of Pomona college here. Andrew Soorin, hailing from Kazan valley, and his wife, Eugenie, from Harbin, Manchum crossed the Pacific in the steerage of an ocean liner and reached San Francisco, January 21, last. They came as students and as such were admitted to the country.

For months Soorin worked and saved. Then he sent for his sister, Elizabeth Soorin, of Kazan, and his sister-in-law, Marina Pechatkena, of Harbin. These two young women, cultured and well educated in their own tongue, also braved the inconvenience of steerage travel to grasp the opportunity of an education in the United States.

They landed at San Francisco July 12. Marine Pechatkena was admitted because she had papers to show her graduation from school in Harbin, but Elizabeth Soorin was barred, although she had had a similar course, but had no documentary evidence.

For weeks Miss Soorin was detained at Angel Island, while her brother's saving went into a legal battle to gain her admittance. The fight won, but the legal papers reached the dock ten minutes after the young woman had been deported with $7 in her pocket and no clothing, but what she wore. She was landed at Yokohama four days before the great Japanese earthquake, and in the meantime arrangements had been made for her passage back, but to date no word has come from her.

BUCKINGHAM PALACE IS DECLARED AS FIRETRAP

British Public Alarmed at Possible Danger to Royal Family On Occasions of Court Functions

(Correspondence of The Associated Press)

LONDON, Oct. 15.—Buckingham Palace, home of King George and Queen Mary, is a firetrap, subject to the gravest fire risks, according to revelations in an official report of a royal commission appointed to investigate fire prevention in England. The British public is alarmed at the possible danger to the royal family while in residence in the palace, for a fire during one of the brilliant court nights, when thousands of guests are at the palace, could easily result in a holocaust.

Though royalty itself may often be insignificant, royal residences rarely are, and Buckingham palace, as far as outward appearances go, is no exception. Each year thousands of tourists gaze in wonder and admiration on the imposing stone facade of the palace, one of the architectural sights of the British capital. Few of them know the palace front is a shell hiding an older building. It is like a beautifully decorated theater fire curtain which separates the people from the stage settings of a royal court.

Partitions Are Inflammable

Behind the noble palace front is a maze of royal reception rooms, banqueting halls and living quarters for the royal family, and its retinue of retainers, court officials and servants. These quarters are separated by inflamable partitions and linked by a labyrinth of drafty hallways and a net work of old fashioned electric wiring and heating installations.

Despite the fire risks, no English government buildings are even insured, no matter what may be their value or that of their contents. During the year ended December, 1920, the commission reports, 31 fires occurred in government buildings, eight of them being attributed to short circuits due to defects in old electrical instalations.

Other Historic Buildings Unsafe

Buckingham palace is only one of London's historic buildings open to fire risks because of the nature of its construction. Somerset house, depository of priceless documents, is another. This building is a source of great anxiety to the government, according to the report of the commission on fire prevention.

Many precautions are taken against fires in Buckingham palace., Somerset house, the House of Parliment and other government buildings. There are many of whom are trained firemen. Servants and officials of all classes receive instruction in the use of fire extinguishers. Government officials explain the lack of insurance by saying that in many cases, such as the House of Parliament, it would be impossible to estimate their value for insurance purposes.
